BERLIN, Aug. 14, Wednesday (AP).—German bombers now are flying more than 60 miles inland from the south coast of England to shatter a great variety of military objectives and are threatening London itself, Nazi commentators declared early today.

The combat area extends 310 miles from the mouth of the Thames river, thru Dover and westward, it was stated. The onslaught is not one of individual raids, but "a general action," developing according to a well laid plan, it was said.

These reports came shortly after Berlin itself experienced a 47 minute air raid alarm this morning. British planes reached a point 20 miles west of the capital, but were turned back by antiaircraft fire, informed sources said. Residents of some suburbs said they heard distant shooting.

Claim Dover at Nazi Mercy.

Dover is at the mercy of German squadrons — its British defenders "driven out of the air"—German sources asserted as all signs pointed to an early zero hour for the long threatened attempt to land Nazi troops on the British Isles.

There was an air battle last night over Dover and the channel. Twenty-seven British planes were said to have been brought down with a loss to the Germans of eight planes. It was stated officially that at Dover and other south coast points 12 protective barrage balloons had been shot down.

D. N. B., the official German news agency, said the German raids on Britain yesterday brought down or destroyed on the ground 96 British planes—a new day's record. The Germans put their own losses at 24 planes.

Claim "Biggest Success."

Fifty British planes were reported shot down over the English channel and the British Isles, 16 were brought down in British attacks on Aalborg, Denmark, and 30 were destroyed on the ground by German bombs, according to DNB.

DNB termed the encounters the "biggest success" in the present heightened aerial warfare.

Among British airports attacked, the Germans listed Detling, Odiham, and Farnborough. They said two airport buildings and planes on the ground were destroyed at Detling while 20 planes were wrecked and burned at the other two, and numerous buildings set afire by bombs.

The ports and quays in Bournemouth and Plymouth, munitions works in Exeter and Bristol, and petroleum tanks in North Killingham were listed by the German radio as additional targets heavily damaged.

Declare Four Ships Sunk.

Two merchantmen of 15,000 tons each and two patrol boats were declared to have been sunk by air bombs as they moved out of the Thames estuary.

The great Portsmouth naval base again was pelted with bombs yesterday and the raids on south coast ports have been so effective, Nazi sources declared, that it will be almost impossible for the British fleet to operate in the English channel.

British Continue to Strike.

British bombers, however, continued to strike at German industrial areas and points in German occupied Holland and Denmark. British bombs were reported to have started 20 fires in Amsterdam last night.

The high command added that night-raiding German planes had attacked shipping at Swansea and Cardiff, both in Wales, and also antiaircraft and searchlight batteries at Plymouth and Humbermouth.

BOMBERS BLAST AT INDUSTRIAL HEART OF LAND

English Speedboats Fight Foe's Ships.

LONDON, Aug. 14, Wednesday (AP).—Nazi warplanes shrieked over the length and breadth of Britain today, scourging the Midlands and north Scotland and plunging into the fourth day of an unremitting assault on the south shore, apparently aimed at smashing out a "bridge-head" for an invasion.

Planes came over the Midlands, the industrial heart of England, in seven or eight waves.

The defense of this stubborn island kingdom mounted in tempo with the hourly increasing threat of invasion, a threat enhanced by a clash of light-draft naval vessels in the English channel during yesterday's gigantic aerial conflict.

The British, despite their preoccupation with bringing down 78 German planes yesterday, apparently found time to give Germany a new dose of her own medicine. Berlin had an air raid alarm this morning, and the big wireless station at Bremen shut down abruptly, a possible sign of British bombing planes in the vicinity.

Perhaps "Starvation" Blockade.

Some Britons even speculated that Germany might give up the invasion idea and try an aerial "starvation" blockade instead.

Minister of Shipping Ronald H. Cross predicted an extension of Germany's aerial attacks to the cargo-choked western ports of England. Cross said that all of England's western ports are "pretty full and at a point where congestion may be envisaged."

Should the German air force crack down on them, England's numerous smaller ports would be used, lighters carrying cargoes from ships too large to enter the shallower harbors, he said.

This morning's German attack on the English Midlands was the biggest of the war for that district. Bombs burst with a rumble and great glares made the sky lurid. Antiaircraft gunners kept up a scorching fire. Tracer bullets and searchlights pierced the morning dark.

Houses Hit in Scotland.

The picture was much the same along the south coast, in Wales and in Scotland.

Houses were hit in one Scottish town, a row of huts set afire in another, and many salvos of Nazi bombs were said to have fallen in fields. One fatality was reported, and "minor" civilian casualties.

As for damage after Tuesday's assault by more than 500 German planes on the channel coast, and the big port of Southampton, the British acknowledged only a series of fires and "a few casualties," while reporting proudly that their day's bag of Nazi planes was the biggest yet—32 bombers, 23 battle bombers, and 14 fighters. Thirteen British planes were reported lost.

The Nazis raiding Southampton came in three waves, the air ministry said, adding:

"At one time enemy bombers and fighters were falling out of the sky at the rate of about one a minute."

In the English channel itself, a force of German warships—both surface craft and submarines—was declared to have been beaten off by British motor torpedo boats in the dark hours of Tuesday morning.

Admiralty Describes Fight.

This attack was not disclosed until long after the guns were silent in the channel, but these were its essentials as the admiralty described the fight:

One small German vessel rammed; another fired on "almost point blank" by machine guns and attacked with hand grenades; two larger Nazi ships machine gunned "at very close range;" a German "E-Boat," or mosquito torpedo boat, put under fire in two running battles; a German plane attacking from above set ablaze.

The significant term "larger vessels" was not amplified.

The British, fighting with the curiously calm ferocity which they always have shown when this seat of empire has been threatened, went up to meet the aerial offensive with everything they had.

Southampton—normally about 180,000 population—was the most impor-

Baby Robins No. 1, 2, and 3 are beginning to worry Mrs. Val Headenburg because they are growing up to look upon the world as a place in which you laugh and play and have hot hamburgers served you.

Mrs. Headenburg was out walking after a storm two weeks ago when her fox terrier, Terry, found the little robins half a block from her home at 5923 North Kostner avenue. Their nest had blown out of a tree.

She Takes Them Home.

Mrs. Headenburg looked in vain for their pop and mom and then took them home, where she told them they could live in a bushel basket until she could find their relatives. But she never could find any relatives.

Meanwhile, those little robins ate like pelicans. Every three hours Mrs. Headenburg fixed them hamburger.

She Puts Out the Light.

All the while they slept in their basket in the inclosed porch, but when they learned to fly a little they let Mrs. Headenburg know that they'd rather sleep under the eaves. She said O. K. and put up a curtain to keep out the light from the house.

Altho Mrs. Headenburg thinks the robins are only four weeks old, they're beginning to get double chins from too many hamburgers. She has tried to get them to exercise, but they just sit around getting plumper.

4 More Seized in Union Raids

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

Police squads assigned by Commissioner Allman to the campaign against racketeers and criminals who control labor unions made two more raids yesterday.

The offices raided were those of local 147 of the Painters' union, 222 North Wells street, and the headquarters of the Painters' District council, 1446 Adams street.

The raiders arrested Arthur W. Wallace, secretary-treasurer of the Painters' District council; William O'Connor, caretaker of the Adams street office; Ever Anderson, secretary of local 147, and David W. Kelly, president of local 147.

Second Day of Raids.

Yesterday's action followed raids Monday on offices of the Miscellaneous Hotel and Restaurant Employés' union, local 593, and the Waiters, Bartenders, and Cooks' union, local 444, in which four persons were arrested.

The raids were ordered against any and all unions under the control or influence of Danny Stanton, south side public enemy who recently became a labor boss, and Frank [The Enforcer] Nitti, Al Capone's successor, who expected to move into the shoes of Mike Carrozzo, the labor dictator who died Aug. 4.

Name Found on Pay Roll.

Capt. John Howe, who directed the raiders, said the police missed Charles Youngblood, business agent of local 147, who is regarded as one of the dominant factors in the painters' district council.

Youngblood's name was found on the pay roll of the Miscellaneous Employés' union. William Crawford, assistant state's attorney, said he was seeking evidence of payments of union cash to gangsters, and the Youngblood payments indicated a possible exchange of union money under the guise of "organization expense."

Crawford said his information was that Stanton either had assumed leadership of the 29 painters' unions or planned to do so soon.

The history of the Painters' District council and its locals has been one of frequent violence. Some of the incidents follow:

June 28, 1930—Agitator fatally beaten outside headquarters of local 147.

Oct. 14, 1930—Government gets permanent injunction against district council, halting alleged interference with industry.

Feb. 24, 1931—Frank [Junior] Carr, financial secretary of the Painters, Decorators, and Paper Hangers' union, shot to death.

Aug. 19, 1934—Roy Thompson, an official of local 184, assassinated.

Aug. 21, 1934—James Dungan, business agent of local 191 and a friend of Thompson, escapes machine gun attack.

Aug. 2, 1935—Six loaded guns and six men seized in raid on local 191.

Aug. 17, 1935—Local 191 raided again. Police find machine gun and automatic pistol in car and seize four men.

Dec. 12, 1935—Financial records of local 191 stolen in holdup a few days before audit by international officers.

Jan. 3, 1936—Mrs. Elsie Henneman, wife of George Henneman, secretary-treasurer of local 191, shot to death while sitting in auto with husband, who was unhurt.

June 25, 1937—Robert A. Shields, financial secretary of local 184, shot and killed.

Aug. 8, 1938 — Dungan ambushed and slain. Police list it as sixth unsolved murder of recent years attributed to painters' union troubles.

Crawford Studies Records.

Prosecutor Crawford and a number of accountants still were going over records of the Miscellaneous Employés' union and the other union raided Monday, a colored unit headed by J. Levirt [St. Louis] Kelly, said to be a Stanton lieutenant.

Writs of habeas corpus for St. Louis Kelly and the others seized Monday—James Blakely, Michael Lee, and John Lardino of the Miscellaneous Employés' union—were continued until Sept. 17 yesterday when the four came before Chief Justice John Prystalski of the Criminal court. They were freed on $500 bail.

Judge Robert Jerome Dunne of the Circuit court is expected to act today on a petition for a receivership for the Bartenders and Beverage Dispensers' union, local 728. The receivership is sought by George B. McLane, business agent of the union. McLane accused Nitti of seizing control of the union.

THE CAMPAIGN Both Sides of it

Because practically all the people of Chicago and suburbs depend on the Tribune for news, the Tribune, starting next Tuesday, will make available to the Democratic and Republican National Committees equal space in which each party will have the opportunity to place before Tribune readers whatever views it wishes to present.

This feature will be in addition to the Tribune's own campaign coverage which will be the most comprehensive and informative to be found in any publication.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Colorado Springs, Colo., Aug. 13.—Wendell L. Willkie today called upon the Democratic party to pay back $640,000 which he says has been extracted illegally from corporations in this and previous campaigns for advertisments in campaign books:

"I am going to keep after them until they do," he said as he sat on a sofa in his mountain hotel suite by the side of Alf M. Landon. The present Republican nominee for President and his predecessor of 1936 agreed this is a matter of plain honesty—that the case had been proved.

"Just plain honesty, the kind I knew in Indiana and you know in Kansas," said Willkie.

"Yes, the plain kind, not New Deal honesty," Landon chimed in.

Willkie noted that the author of the Hatch act and the attorney general of the United States agree with him that the collection of such campaign funds is illegal. Today he pressed the matter to its logical conclusion—return of the funds to the corporations.

Demands New Morality.

"I understand the pressure that corporations are under with all these regulatory laws," said Willkie. "In addition the United States probably is the largest purchaser of goods. This has been the lure and the pressure. It is time we brought a new morality into political campaigns."

"You will run the Democrats out of money if you keep on," it was suggested.

Willkie figured that the Democratic national committee had taken $140,000 in this campaign for such advertisments and $500,000 in previous campaigns. It all is illegal under the corrupt practices act, aside from the Hatch act, he declared.

Willkie and Landon turned from this subject to the general question of machine politics in large cities and the dependence being placed by the New Deal upon this corrupt vote in November.

People More Enlightened.

"People are not so confused about this relationship between idealism and corrupt machines as they were in 1936," said Landon.

"No more than they are confused about the Chicago convention draft," said Willkie.

Landon called attention to the act of the administration in sending Senator Alben W. Barkley to Missouri to back the candidates of the Pendergast group for senator and governor against the men who jailed Tom Pendergast and many of his lieutenants.

"It was an amazing spectacle," said

DRAFT IS DOOM OF DEMOCRACY, SAYS WHEELER

Warns It Would Be Victory for Hitler.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 13.—Senator Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.] told the senate today that passage of the Roosevelt administration's conscription bill would "slit the throat of the last democracy still living," and accord to Adolf Hitler "his greatest and cheapest victory to date."

Senator Wheeler.

"On the headstone of American democracy Hitler will inscribe, 'Here lies the foremost victim of the war of nerves,'" the Montana senator declared in concluding a three hour speech against the New Deal's proposal to create a mass conscript army.

Gen. Shedd Gives Views.

As the senate debate continued, with opposition speakers holding the floor most of the day, the house military affairs committee heard Brig. Gen. William E. Shedd, assistant chief of staff in charge of personnel, express opposition to the proposal to encourage voluntary recruiting by permitting one year enlistments. Army regulations now permit only three year enlistments, while under the pending conscription bill the war department would call up about 1,000,000 men a year for a year of training and service.

Gen. Shedd rejected the argument of conscription opponents that the army could get all the volunteers it needs by raising the basic pay from $21 to $30 a month and permitting one year enlistments. Such a system, he said, would create an excessive turnover and prohibit coördinated, efficient training.

Foresees Training Delay.

"Coördinated training is absolutely necessary in a modern army," Gen. Shedd said, "and this cannot be accomplished when the men are obtained in staggered forces."

Gen. Shedd also indicated that the war department has abandoned hope of inducting 400,000 conscripts into service by Oct. 1 if congress approves the conscription bill. But by Jan. 1, he said, the army hopes to have 400,000 conscripts in training as well as practically all of the National Guard, the mobilization of which is authorized by pending legislation.

Of the 242,000 officers and men of the National Guard, at least 220,000 will be ordered into the federal service by the first of the year, Gen. Shedd said.

Wheeler Raps Hysteria.

Senator Wheeler noted that the original preamble to the Burke-Wadsworth conscription bill, which was eliminated by the senate military affairs committee, stated that "the integrity and institutions of the United States are gravely threatened."

"I say to you, and I say it with all the solemnity of which I am capable, that the integrity and institutions of the United States are gravely threatened," Wheeler declared. "And it is the bill now before you, and the hysteria which bred it, which creates that threat."

Wheeler cited official figures showing that voluntary enlistments have been exceeding quotas set by the army, breaking peacetime records in all parts of the country except on the eastern seaboard.

Points to Middle West.

"They are not having any trouble in the south, in the west, or in the middle west," he said. "The only place where they are having any trouble is on the eastern seaboard, where they are howling the loudest to get us into the war. That was true in the last war and it's true in this war.

"Who is calling for the conscription bill? Certainly the demand is not coming from the middle west. If any one thinks it is coming from the middle west, let him go out there.

"During the Democratic national convention the mayor of Chicago [Edward J. Kelly], speaking before the platform committee, said that he had canvassed every district and every precinct in the city of Chicago and that the sentiment against our involvement in this war in any way was 16 to 1. When one gets west of the Allegheny mountains and away from Washington, he gets away from the war hysteria."

Tells Chicago's Experience.

Wheeler asserted that when he was in Chicago attending the Democratic national convention he talked with "a newspaper man on one of the leading newspapers in the city."

"He told me that his newspaper was about to put on a campaign to get men to enlist in the army," Wheeler continued. "They went over to the recruiting office, and the recruiting office stated that it did not want them to do so because of the fact that they could not handle all the men that were coming to them at the present time."

Wheeler declared it to be the opinion of practically all military experts that it is far more important for our troops to be thoroly trained and expert in the new mechanized warfare, and commanded by competent officers, than that they be merely numerous.

Cites Examples in Europe.

"Numbers in modern warfare not only do not compensate for lack of expertness, but by multiplying the deficiency they actually increase the danger," Wheeler said. "Nor do numbers compensate for lack of expert generalship, or expert planning.

"A small but powerfully armed force of Germans seized all of Norway; a small but expert Finnish army held the Russian Goliath at bay for many months. But a large French army was quickly crushed—less by the enemy than by its own incompetent and, in many instances, traitorous generals.

"A vaunted 'impregnable' Maginot line was rendered worse than useless by the incompetent planning of the French general staff. The years of military training that the French people had undergone, the crushing burdens they had painfully borne for generations, all went for naught in the face of the lack of competence of the French general staff."

Quotes Gen. Marshall.

Wheeler adduced the official testimony of the army's general staff to support his contention that they are opposed to the creation of a mass conscript army, even tho they indorsed the conscription bill. He quoted Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff, who testified that the army now has a strength of 270,000 and has funds on hand to recruit it up to 375,000.

"But we first want the strength that is urgently necessary, which is 335,000, and we will build it up to that as rapidly as possible," Gen. Marshall testified. "That embraces all the ground forces, the remaining 40,000 to go to the air corps to handle the equipment that is to be delivered at some future date."

Gen. Marshall further testified, Wheeler recalled, that the National Guard would be recruited up to 375,000 or 400,000. Moreover, he indicated that the regular army could not be expanded beyond 500,000, which is the full war-time strength of its existing units.

Warning Given by General.

Wheeler quoted Gen. Marshall's statement that the regular army could not be expanded to 750,000 without organizing new units from the ground up or emasculating existing units in order to provide nuclei for new units.

"I do not think we should take such a hazard at the present time," the chief of staff testified. "Another and still more serious effect would be that we would have to emasculate the National Guard in order to find the necessary equipment for the new units."

What the general staff actually believes, Senator Wheeler deduced, is that the regular army should be recruited up to 375,000 or 500,000 at the most, and that the National Guard should be recruited up to 400,000. This would be a total maximum increase of about 390,000 men, which number certainly can be raised by giving the voluntary enlistment system a fair trial, Wheeler contended.

Burke Hits Volunteer Drive.

Concluding a prepared speech which he began in yesterday's senate debate, Senator Edward R. Burke [D., Neb.], co-sponsor of the conscription bill, argued that an intensive voluntary enlistment drive would do more to promote war hysteria than anything else could do.

"The volunteer method, even in time of war, is inadequate to meet our needs," he said. "It is doubly so in time of peace. In order to get anything like the number of volunteers required to come forward and submit themselves for training, we would have to put on intensive recruiting drives with all that involves—bands, war films, white feathers for the reluctant, hysteria—all of the things that we should particularly avoid. Even then there would be delay, uncertainty, valuable time wasted, and in the end failure to recruit the required number."

Belgrade Police Raid Fascists' Headquarters

PEPPER QUOTED AS ADVOCATING HITLERIZED U. S.

His Proposal for Dictator Told Over Radio.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 13.—Senator Claude Pepper [D., Fla.], New Deal yes man and foremost war monger in congress, was quoted in a national news broadcast over the Mutual network this evening as advocating using the present emergency as an excuse to Hitlerize America.

Fulton Lewis Jr., Mutual news commentator, said that he talked with Senator Pepper yesterday about rumors that the New Deal is trying to establish a dictatorship in the United States. Senator Pepper, Lewis said, declared frankly that totalitarian powers should be vested in the President or some other supreme head of the government whereby all forms of private industry could be taken over and labor conscripted at any time.

Previous Actions Recalled.

The senator, who several weeks ago introduced in congress a seven point program for establishing a dictatorship in this country, also stated that other New Dealers subscribe to his theories, Lewis asserted over the air. Pepper is regarded as the senate mouthpiece of the New Deal inner circle and frequently in the past has advocated policies that were adopted later by the Roosevelt administration.

He has been a leading light in the extraordinary campaign waged by the interventionists to get the United States into the European war and is said to have played a part in arranging for the broadcast of Gen. John J. Pershing recently in which the country was urged to turn over 50 destroyers to Great Britain.

Convention Incident Told.

In his news broadcast this evening, Lewis said he had traced recent dictatorship talk to an incident said to have taken place during the Democratic National convention in Chicago. It has been reported, the news commentator said, that Senator Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.] and Senator David I. Walsh [D., Mass.], in objecting to some of the "items" Pepper wanted in the party platform, accused the Florida senator of "proposing to make Mr. Roosevelt a dictator."

"No," Senator Pepper was quoted as saying, "I only want to make the President a temporary dictator."

"Senator Pepper said he doesn't remember any such incident, altho he said he might have said something along that line, along the line that it is necessary to recognize the difference between a democracy coasting along in peacetime and a democracy that had its back to the wall in a dire and threatening emergency," Lewis said over the air.

Wartime Powers Mentioned.

"Senator Pepper said he believes we should give Mr. Roosevelt full and complete wartime powers, whatever the President thinks is necessary to pull us thru," Lewis continued. "He said that if democracy is to survive in this country against dictatorship in Europe it is necessary to have a setup with a head having sufficient power to cope with dictatorship on equal terms."

Lewis said he asked whether the senator meant that the President should be given the same degree of totalitarian authority as is held by Hitler. The reply, according to the broadcast, was that the power should be given the President by congress for the duration of the present emergency.

Pepper told the commentator, the latter said, that congress could meet "at intervals" and could decide when the emergency is over.

Senator's Plan Explained.

"What he [Pepper] wants, he says," Lewis told his radio audience, "is one man who has the power to take over the reins of government and direct our defenses with complete authority, whether it is the President, or the director of national security, or whatever you call it.

"He said congress should outline certain broad objectives . . . and from then on it should be up to the President.

"Senator Pepper said that the President should have, in his opinion, the authority to take over all private industry and all private business and private endeavor, or any part of it, that has any connection with national defense."

Asked whether this, in fact, would not include "almost everything, all business and industry," the New Dealer replied, according to Lewis, that it would.

Industrialists' Rôle Cited.

"Senator Pepper said that he sees no reason why if Mr. William Knudsen and Mr. Edward Stettinius are willing to come to Washington and give their services at a dollar a year, why some other industrial leaders should be drawing 2 million dollars per year in salary and profit," the broadcast went on. "And he said with particular emphasis that he sees no reason why Mr. Henry Ford should be allowed to produce what Henry Ford wants to produce."

In response to other inquiries, according to the news commentator, Pepper said he also believes that the President should have the power to draft whatever men he wants, not only for military service but also for work in industry.

"He [Pepper] said there is no reason why soldiers should draw $21 per month while workers in some factory are drawing $20 a day. I asked whether that means the President would have the power to tell all employés in factories all over the country where they would work and at what wage. Senator Pepper said, yes, he believed the President should have the power to do that."

'Many Others' Have Same View.

Asked by Lewis whether these amazing theories of government were his alone or whether there are other New Dealers who share them, Senator Pepper, whose oath as senator binds him to uphold the constitution, was said to have replied that "a great many others subscribe to the same views."

And, according to Lewis, he promised in conclusion: "The whole thing is going to come."

The broadcast originated in station WOR in New York City and later was rebroadcast from Washington. Senator Pepper could not be reached tonight for comment.

U. S. Sets Goal of 1,300 Planes a Month for Britain by 1942

BY WALTER TROHAN.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 13.—With Great Britain facing the zero hour of invasion, the administration today moved to sell the bomb blasted nation between 1,300 and 1,400 planes a month, beginning late next year.

Arthur B. Purvis, chief of the British purchasing mission in this country, disclosed the offer was made to him by William S. Knudsen, director of industrial production in the defense advisory commission.

The British had asked for 3,000 planes a month, but this offer was dashed to the ground last month when Knudsen said Britain could not possibly hope to get that many planes a month as he doubted whether the combined aviation output for the army and navy and foreign orders would total that before 1942, and then only if an expansion program is undertaken.

Data Being Considered.

The new proposal for between 1,300 and 1,400 planes a month was in the nature of a counter offer to the British request for 3,000 planes a month developed by Lord Beaverbrook, British air minister, and Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr.

"We are considering carefully the data submitted by the commission," Purvis said, "and we are endeavoring to work out a project."

Purvis conferred with Secretary Morgenthau and Edward H. Foley Jr., general counsel of the treasury, on the data submitted him by the defense council. He would not discuss the conference.

To date the British have ordered approximately 11,000 planes from American manufacturers. Of these about 3,000 have been delivered.

Huge Purchases Planned.

The aviation program to be developed out of the data submitted him by the defense commission would "help to swell the hundreds of millions of dollars" of war purchases which the British are planning to make in this country, Purvis said.

American military and naval aircraft production is expected to reach 721 planes this month. Of these, 396 would go to the army and navy, 236 for Britain, 84 for other countries, chiefly Latin-American neighbors, and 5 are unclassified. Production for July was under 600.

The army has some 5,500 planes on hand and on order and some 20,000 planes are to be contracted for. In turning down the British proposal for 3,000 planes a month, the defense group considered America's needs, recognizing, as well, that the present production rate made the attainment of such a goal impossible.

MEXICO PASSES BITTERLY FOUGHT ARMY DRAFT LAW

Provides for Calling Men 18 to 45.

BY LESLIE DUNKLEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, Mexico, Aug. 13.—Mexico's obligatory service or draft bill is about to become a law after being fought vigorously. The measure was passed by the lower house of the Mexican congress in the last hour of its final session and rushed to the senate for incorporation into the constitution. The senate today passed the bill by a vote of 57 to 1.

The measure calls for the training of 50,000 reserves annually until a reserve of 200,000 has been developed. Then the program will be tapered off. Men between 18 and 45 are subject to service.

Certain privileges will be granted to allow the graduation of university students, to Mexicans resident abroad, to those serving prison terms, and to those who for five years prior to being called have been the sole support of a family. Mexicans living abroad will be allowed five years to comply with the law.

Military Training for Schools.

Provision is made in the measure for the military instruction of children in all schools thruout the country.

Chief opposition to the bill came from a group of congressmen who claimed that it would infringe on the Mexican constitution's guarantee of the rights of the individual. The powerful C. T. M. [Mexican Workers' confederation] also opposed certain clauses of the measure and the bill as a whole was the subject of stormy congressional debates.

Defense Council Authorized.

Altho President Lazaro Cardenas' wish that the law go into effect on Jan. 1 will not be realized, it is held certain that it will be effective early next spring.

At the same time the draft bill was in the final stages of passage the formation of a supreme council of national defense, suggested by President Cardenas, also was approved.

FRANCE INDICTS 'MONSIEUR X' FOR DEFEAT IN WAR

Court Picks 3 to Name Guilty Leaders.

RIOM, France, Aug. 13 (AP).—The government of Marshal Philippe Petain formally indicted tonight before a high court of last appeal the government and military leaders whom it deems responsible for betraying unprepared France by leading it into war and defeat.

It did not name them, but it lumped them as a composite "Monsieur X" in a general complaint. The court itself will fix individual responsibility.

As the blanket charge was placed before the nation's new Supreme court, the marshal, who is chief of state, delivered over the radio a stinging rebuke to those who stand accused, who obviously include, among others, former Premier Edouard Daladier and former Generalissimo Maurice Gustave Gamelin. He said France fell before laziness, incompetence, and "even systematic sabotage" intended to create social disorder or international revolution.

High Officials Called Traitors.

The court accusation blanketed as traitors to their charge an unspecified number of "ministers, ex-ministers, and their immediate civil and military subordinates." It demanded that the court inquire into the prewar and war periods and fix individual accusations, proceeding for the time being merely against "Monsieur X," and later lodging charges against definite persons. These will be announced from time to time, with a final public trial some weeks hence.

The general complaint, read by Public Prosecutor Cassagnau, said:

"Crimes and offenses have been committed by ministers, ex-ministers and their immediate subordinates in exercise of their functions. They betrayed the duties and charges in their keeping by acts that contributed to the passage from peace to a state of war before Sept. 4 [war was declared Sept. 3] and by acts that later aggravated the consequences of the situation thus created."

Three to Make Inquiry.

These acts, he asserted, were "attempts against the security of the state" and were "committed by persons whose identity will be determined in the court inquiry."

The government's bill of complaint was presented during a three and one-half minute public session of the court, which then adjourned and met two and a half hours later to appoint three justices to conduct the investigations demanded. They are Vice President Lagarde of the court, and Justices Tanon and Maraveau. All this was done with an utter absence of fanfare.

Petain promised in his radio speech that those who betray their duties will be sought and punished.

He added that enemies of the state still were operating in the unoccupied part of France, and said there would be changes to wipe out the "treason."

The marshal said the return of his government to Paris and Versailles in occupied France was "no more than a question of waiting" until the Germans authorized the transfer.

Petain expressed his thanks for American generosity in helping France meet "the insidious specter of famine," and said that in a few weeks more than 1,000 carloads of food and clothing had been distributed to refugees in the unoccupied part of France, with others sent to help "the needy people of Paris."

ADMIRAL SENT TO SHANGHAI BY U. S. IN DEFENSE CRISIS

Takes Rank Over Chief of Jap Forces.

SHANGHAI, China, Aug. 14, Wednesday, (AP).—Using a sea-going submarine as a flagship, Admiral Thomas Charles Hart, commander of the United States Asiatic fleet, arrived here this morning from Tsingtao amid Japanese demands for control of the British defense sector of the International Settlement.

Admiral T. C. Hart.

Britain's decision to withdraw her troops from China will leave Rear Admiral Moriji Takeda, commander of the Shanghai Japanese naval garrison, as senior foreign officer, but Admiral Hart outranks him and as such it was expected he would preside over a meeting Thursday at which foreign defense chiefs will consider reassignment of the British zone.

Japs Hope U. S. Will Withdraw.

Those here who oppose the idea of Japan controlling the British section, containing some of Shanghai's largest business interests and best residential districts, hoped the American admiral would block the Japanese.

Tang Leang-li, official spokesman for the Japanese controled Chinese administration at Nanking, echoed the Japanese military when he expressed the hope that the United States would follow Britain's example by withdrawing the 4th marine regiment stationed here.

"The Chinese won't tolerate" the transfer of the British sector to the American troops, he said.

British Troops Leave Peking.

British troops, two officers, and 30 men marched out of Peking yesterday as the United States marine band played "Auld Lang Syne."

It was understood here that negotiations on Japanese demands, described as a virtual ultimatum, for economic and military concessions in French Indo-China were underway at Vichy, France.

[In Tokio the influential newspaper Hochi was quoted in a Domei (Japanese news agency) broadcast yesterday as declaring "Japan will not be intimidated by any American interference" in her relations with French Indo-China.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 13 (AP).—The American government is looking to its local authorities in Shanghai to settle questions arising from the withdrawal of British troops from there, Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles said today. Welles said he hoped all questions could be settled in Shanghai in a friendly and equitable manner.

French Take "Necessary Measures."

VICHY, France, Aug. 13 (AP).—Admiral Jean Decoux, acting governor general of French Indo-China, was reported today to have taken "necessary measures" to face any situation arising from concentration of Japanese troops on the Indo-Chinese frontier.

Dispatches to this effect appeared in the censored French evening press. The dispatches said Decoux took the action "in full accord" with the Vichy government.

Chinese Aid of French in Shanghai Assassinated

SHANGHAI, Aug. 14, Wednesday (AP).—Chang Hsiao-ling, 63 years old, counselor to the French municipal council and a well known Chinese financier, was shot and killed today by one of his bodyguards, who in turn was wounded by another guard. Chang was reported recently to be negotiating with pro-Japanese elements.

CHINESE CLAIM DESTRUCTION OF 848 JAP PLANES

HONGKONG, Aug 14, Wednesday (AP).—Chinese airmen have downed or destroyed on the ground 848 Japanese planes, cost the lives of 1,148 enemy airmen and sunk 40 Japanese war vessels in three years, the Chinese air command said today.

Its statement was issued on the third anniversary of the outbreak of Chinese-Japanese hostilities in Shanghai when the Chinese air force made a disastrous appearance. On that occasion 582 persons were killed, including three Americans, and 870 injured when Chinese bombs rained on the International Settlement. The anniversary is being observed at national aviation day.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

Charge Greeks with Plot on Albania.

ROME, Aug. 13 (AP).—Italian spokesmen accused Greece tonight of having territorial designs on Italy's Albanian domain and indicated that Premier Benito Mussolini sooner or later will demand slices of both Greek and Jugo-Slav territory in a "general settlement" for Albania.

The Italian press has been hitting at Greece since the week-end disclosure of the death of an Albanian patriot, Daut Hoggia, at the hands, the Italians said, of two Greek assassins. Italians also charged Greece is a silent ally of Great Britain in the war.

Fascist Leader Slain.

Jugo-Slavia entered the Italian picture only today, when the newspaper La Tribuna reported the killing of a minor Fascist leader, Leonardo Ciurcovich, in the Italian town of Zara on the Jugo-Slav coast because he objected to a stranger singing a Slav song on Zara's streets.

La Tribuna's dispatch did not say how Ciurcovich had been killed except that he had been "barbarously slain." It described him as Zara's "first Fascist martyr, whose name will be fittingly honored."

Local Affair, Say Jugo-Slavs.

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, Aug. 13 (AP).—Official Jugo-Slav quarters tonight declared the killing of a minor Fascist official at Zara, Italy, was a "local affair" and that Jugo-Slavia has been assured by Italy that the Italians do not plan to make it the occasion for a campaign similar to that against Greece.

The officials said they are collaborating with Italy on a friendly basis and that "there is no reason to suppose that the Zara incident will make trouble."

Greece Rejects Axis Plea.

ATHENS, Greece, Aug. 13 (AP).—Greece, faced by Italian pressure to alienate her and Great Britain, was reported reliably tonight to have rejected an axis suggestion that she formally renounce British guarantees of her independence and territorial integrity.

High diplomatic sources said the premier, Gen. John Metaxas, received the suggestion from the Italian chargé d'affaires at a meeting this morning attended by the German minister, and answered, "No." After the meeting Metaxas hurried to the palace for an audience with King George II.

CUDAHY CHARGES PRESS IN LONDON MISQUOTED HIM

New York, Aug. 13 (AP).—John Cudahy, United States ambassador to Belgium, who was reprimanded for giving an interview in London on the Belgian situation, said today that "all the London papers except one, the London Times, distorted my statements so much that I couldn't even recognize them."

Cudahy returned on the Dixie Clipper from Horta, the Azores, under instructions, he said, "not to talk at this time."

Later he was shown a copy of the Associated Press story on his London interview and asked for his comment. He said the story was a "fair statement" of what he had said.

Objects to Wording.

The only point to which he took any exception was that where he was quoted as saying the Nazi invaders of Belgium behaved well and perhaps better than American soldiers would have done in the same circumstances.

"The wording," Cudahy said, "was not quite what I said."

He added that he served in Russia with United States army forces and that thus he would not be prone to criticize the American army.

Cudahy told reporters he was "violently shocked" when he saw some of the London reports of the interview.

Asked whether he had resigned, he said: "I haven't resigned yet. I am going to issue a full statement later."

Did His Best, He Says.

Cudahy said he had given the best of his efforts and time "and I have at times been in danger."

"I have no fear of the opinions of my friends," he added. "The others, I don't care about."

Cudahy replied in the negative when asked whether he planned to run for governor in Wisconsin.

Questioned about his observations expressed in the London interview that Belgium faced a famine this winter unless food was shipped thru the British blockade, he said: "That's none of my business, sending food to Belgium."

Drive Halted Near Capital of Somaliland.

CAIRO, Egypt, Aug. 13 (AP).—Britain's warriors in British Somaliland, who let advancing Italian troops seize three towns, have repulsed one general attack, it was reported today.

The British high command said the assault was delivered last Sunday on defense positions covering Jugargan Pass, 35 miles south-southeast of Berbera, capital and principal port of British Somaliland.

Fight Off Low Flying Planes.

"In spite of intensive support by low flying aircraft, the attacks were broken up and repulsed by our artillery and small arms fire," a British communique reported.

The Italians have been driving across the burning wastes of the Somaliland since they captured Hargeisa, Oadweina, and Zeila last week. British sources have indicated they would let the Italians advance, extending supply lines, until they are where the British want them.

Egypt Warns She Will Fight.

Reports of Italian troop concentrations along the Libyan-Egyptian border brought a sharp warning from the Egyptian press that Egypt would fight beside the British if the Italians attack her.

The newspaper Albalagh said the Italian attack likely would come in late August or early September, when the heat is more bearable, and predicted the decisive battles in Africa would be fought along the Libyan-Egyptian border.

Egypt's large Italian population, estimated at 70,000, felt growing apprehension, fearing long interment if Italy attacks this country.

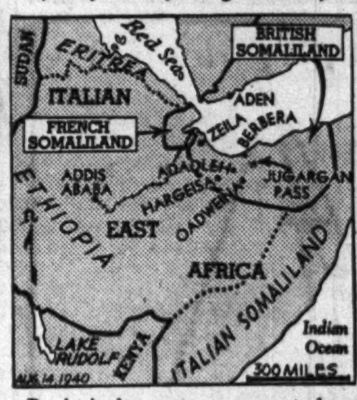
Captured Town, Rome Reports.

ROME, Aug. 13 (AP).—The Italian high command today reported that Italian forces had made contact with the main body of British troops defending British Somaliland in the vicinity of Adadleh, 30 miles southwest of Berbera, most important seaport of Somaliland. The Italians claimed to have captured Adadleh.

The battle is continuing in the Adadleh zone following two days of sharp fighting in which one British plane was shot down and the Italians lost one plane, the communique said.

Fight for Port

(Story in adjoining column.)



British sources reported an Italian attack aimed at Berbera, main British Somaliland port, was hurled back at Jugargan Pass. Italian sources claimed capture of Adadleh, and attacks near Lake Rudolf.

Italians flyers were reported to have resumed bombardments of the British Mediterranean base at Malta yesterday and last night, setting fire to oil storage tanks.

Italian advance units were moving on Berbera, the newspaper Piccolo said, with the support of the air force, which was said to be driving back to Aden British planes sent out to attack the Italian ground forces.

Piccolo reported Italian planes had bombed British troops and fortifications northwest of Lake Rudolf on the border of Ethiopia and Kenya Colony.

BRITONS PLUG A GATE IN OLD GIBRALTAR WALL

ALGECIRAS, Spain, Aug. 13 (AP).—To strengthen their defense setup, Britons are plugging the gate in the old wall skirting the Algeciras side of Gibraltar.

Warehouses and other buildings in the commercial dock area are being torn down. This will increase the efficiency of defenders on higher positions in the British stronghold.

Gibraltar was visited twice by planes today but no bombs were dropped.

Alarm was caused when a ship anchored in the military port at Gibraltar caught fire and flames shot from oil tanks. The fire did not spread, however.

DETROIT MOTORIST KILLED.

Brodhead, Wis., Aug. 13 [Special].—Charles W. Matheson, 63 years old, of Detroit, was killed yesterday when his auto collided with an auto and trailer driven by Ernest Heggi, Brodhead farmer, near here. Heggi was seriously injured and was taken to a Monroe hospital.

tant city officially acknowledged to have been hit by the raiders, but bombs also fell on the Isle of Wight and on "several" airdromes in southeast England. At one of these a "number" of casualties were acknowledged.

Then, turning a moment from the crisis here at home, they announced that British flyers had successfully attacked the Germans from Jutland [Denmark] to the Bay of Biscay.

The air ministry said they bombed 17 Nazi airdromes, the Nazi seaplane base at Borkum, the Nazi held harbor at Den Helder on the Dutch coast, various docks and munitions plants.

Warnings Over Wide Area.

Air raid warnings were put into effect over a big area of Britain yesterday, including even the inland gunnery stations—one of which was within half a mile of a Nazi bomber which fell with its bomb racks still partly loaded.

Mobile batteries and strong troop concentrations were scattered about and ready, from the coast to several miles inland. Modern barricades, intended to block the invader but to permit free movement of the defenders, were thrown up along all roads.

A British report on sea losses meantime acknowledged 75,124 tons of British and neutral shipping sent down in the week ended Aug. 5.

Loss of the British mine-sweeping trawlers Tamarisk and Pyrope by air attack was announced by the admiralty last night.

Convinced of Gunfire.

Civilians in one southeast coast town still were firm in the belief that cannon fire from across the channel — not bombs — had struck their houses on Monday. But officials insisted that there was no confirmation of a bombardment.

In Britain, many observers expressed relief the blitzkrieg had already arrived.

But some informed persons, including an aeronautical expert of the British news service, Reuters, held instead that all of German's furious aerial activity was directed to another purpose: blockade.

They expressed the view that the Germans' grand strategy was to try to do before the coming winter what the submarine campaign of the world war failed to do in 1917—choke England to death.

With such power in the air as the Germans now have, said the Reuters' expert, they have "a weapon even more deadly than the submarines."

This possibility was published under circumstances suggesting that Britain might even welcome the showdown of invasion rather than a campaign to destroy her vital commerce.

BRITISH EXPERTS STUDY CLEWS OF 'BIG GUN' ATTACK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 13.—Experts tonight were examining shell fragments to determine whether a certain southeast coast town [believed to be Dover] was bombarded yesterday by long range guns from across the English channel or by airplane. Two heavy explosions occurred at places some distance apart. A man and woman were killed.

A plane had been flying at a great height above the town and the original assumption was that the explosions were caused by dropped bombs. Investigation, however, raised the theory that the plane was spotting for a "Big Bertha" in German occupied France.

The steel fragments differed from plane bomb splinters. The explosions, too, differed from the usual sound of bombs. The missiles were believed to have traveled at a shallower arc than bombs dropped from the air. Further, seemingly corroborating the "Big Bertha" theory, there were sounds of guns across the channel in both cases shortly before the explosions. Late tonight, however, official circles had not confirmed the incident.

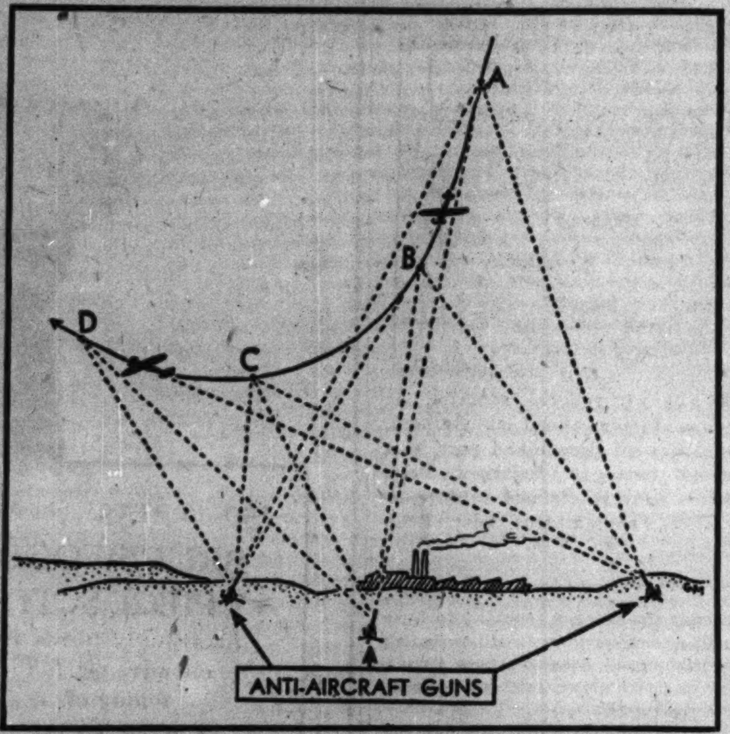
Dive Bomber Is Difficult Target



Drawing by Guy Murchie Jr. of The Tribune foreign staff illustrates the antiaircraft gunner's problem in firing at a dive bomber. Four points —A, B, C, D—are approximately one second apart in the plane's line of flight, and the dotted lines show the shifting angles of fire that the gunners must make, second by second, during the few seconds plane is within easy range, aiming ahead of plane.

Must Aim Ahead

One of the problems of British antiaircraft defense, just as the French found and failed to solve the same problem, is the elusiveness of the German dive bomber as a target of ground defenses. The speedy plane is within easy range only a few seconds, and because of its steep line of flight in diving on a target, the gunner must shift his sight rapidly. In addition, he must aim several hundred feet ahead of the plane, which moves about 500 feet a second.

British Columbia to Take Census of Rifles, Shotguns

VICTORIA, B. C., Aug. 13 [Canadian Press].—A census of all rifles and shotguns in British Columbia will begin Thursday. Attorney General Gordon Wismer today said all owners must state whether they are British subjects, give their racial origin, and detailed information about the weapon. If the returns are not approved, owners must surrender the guns. It was estimated more than 60,000 weapons would be registered.

3 WAVES OF NAZI FLYERS SOW RUIN IN SOUTHAMPTON

Bomb Hits Shelter, but 100 Escape Injury.

BY WILLIAM J. HUMPHREYS.

SOUTHAMPTON, Aug. 13 (AP).—Three successive waves of Nazi bombers sowed destruction today on Southampton, largest city strafed by the raiders and one of the most important ports on the English channel.

Buildings rattled with the shock of heavy explosions which took an undisclosed toll—and overhead British fighter planes tangled in fierce air fights with the flying invaders. One defense squadron alone, already credited with bringing down seven Nazi planes yesterday, smashed 14 more today without a single loss.

One big bomb exploded squarely on an air raid shelter which held 100 persons, and not one was injured.

"All we felt," said one, "was a slight vibration, and dust fell on us."

Shelter Set Afire by Blast.

They had to be told that the shelter was set afire, on the outside, by the explosion. Firemen soaked the blazing exits so the occupants of the shelter could get out.

Several persons in the bomb strewn city, which has a normal population of 180,000 [now much less], told of narrow escapes from death. [The dispatch filed thru British censorship made no mention of the number killed—if any.]

One man was said to have been blown out of a building hit squarely by a bomb and hurled 25 yards thru what a few seconds before had been a plate glass window of another building. He got up, apparently unhurt, and sought shelter elsewhere.

The air ministry said the raiders who hit here also attacked the Kentish coast to the east before sweeping across this city at the head of Southampton water, reaching in from the channel behind the Isle of Wight.

Destroy 22 Enemy Planes.

At Southampton alone the British reported destroying 22 enemy planes in the raging sky fights. These were listed as nine Junkers dive bombers, five large Messerschmitt combination fighters and bombers, and eight smaller Messerschmitt fighters.

The Junkers bombers were reported bagged in one lightning engagement and fell one after the other within a few minutes.

A Pole, once taken prisoner by the Russians, was credited with one of the best scores of the day's fighting, but the exact number of Nazi planes chalked up to his account was not specified. He was said to have come to England after escaping into Rumania from the Red armies who captured him in their push into Poland.

New Zealand Official Paper Libels Printer; Is Fined

Melt Guns of Napoleon's Ship, British Town Orders

FALMOUTH, England, Aug. 13 (AP).—Decreeing that "we don't need mementoes to remind us of Britain's glorious past," the town council today ordered the guns of the frigate Bellerophon, on which Napoleon surrendered after Waterloo, melted for military scrap iron. The Bellerophon, launched in 1736, escorted Lord Nelson's body home after Trafalgar, where he was wounded fatally.

GEN. FORD URGES OFFICERS TO TRY OUT NEW TACTICS

BY HAROLD HUTCHINGS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Camp McCoy, Wis., Aug. 13.—Lieut. Gen. Stanley H. Ford, recalling the rapid advance of armed forces over large areas in the present war in Europe, today warned the officers and noncommissioned officers gathered here for the 2d army maneuvers not to be lulled into "feeling that the current war has exhausted all the ideas pertaining to warfare."

"It is the tendency to be content, to imitate what already has been developed," he said. "This is not sufficient. Seek to go beyond what seems to be good enough. Strive in every mission to exercise that initiative that will produce results well beyond those of your adversaries."

Gen. Ford spoke to the officers and noncommissioned officers of the 6th corps at 3 p. m. in the boxing arena at Camp McCoy. At 6:30 p. m. he addressed those of the 5th corps at the Indian Village school at Tomah.

Fighters Are Forewarned.

"I am concerned with the impressions which are being made upon the soldier of today, as well as upon the citizen, by the methods employed in the current war," he said. "The rapid advance of hostile forces over vast areas may be properly attributed to superiority of arms and equipment, individual and group training to maximum effectiveness, including preponderance of aircraft in accompanying movements of mechanized forces, resulting in the disorganization and capture of rear areas.

"It appears that plans for these operations had been perfected in detail, so as to retain the initiative. Briefly, this constitutes the essence of the successes in the current war."

Dwells on Lack of Arms.

Gen. Ford referred to deficiencies in weapons and equipment. He said it is necessary to improvise in this area, which he termed an ideal maneuver area.

"By reason of the fact that certain items of equipment are not on hand, it is necessary to assume the existence of certain antitank guns and tanks in order that sound training requirements may be met," he continued. "Therefore, umpires will take into consideration definitely authorized assumptions concerning weapons when gun crews are actually present and trained, but for which said weapons are not yet issued. It is sound to assume the presence of some weapons which we know would be made immediately available in case of an emergency."

Of deficiencies in personnel, Gen. Ford warned: "Bear in mind that these are maneuvers for the training of troops of the 2d army area and not of the 2d army itself. As practical soldiers, we know that our deficiencies in personnel, arms, and equipment will in no measure curtail or restrict the effectiveness of our training program.

"But above and beyond arms and equipment, organization and training are the two great essentials."

Reviews Modern Trends.

The commander touched upon steps to be taken in the face of methods used in the current war.

"It is desired," he said, "that all commanders take especial steps for defense against aviation and mechanized forces. In order to do this, it will be necessary to make it a routine practice to effect concealment in bivouacs and to plan for efficient road block systems. Defensive weapons to meet attacks, either from the air or from mechanized forces, must be emplaced, manned and ready for action at all times."

He declared that coöperation of light bombardment squadrons, mechanized units and motorized infantry in offensive missions will feature many of the operations.

"In these operations," he asserted, "bombardment aviation and mechanized units will endeavor to pin the enemy to the ground, while infantry is rushed forward in motors. The infantry attack, of course, must be coördinated closely with aerial and mechanized efforts. Failure to achieve this coördination, or to properly evaluate time and space factors, will result in disaster."

While Gen. Ford was speaking, Col. Arthur B. Conard flew over the assemblage in an army autogiro and dropped a message addressed to the general. At the conclusion of his talk, Gen. Ford read the message:

"Inbound movement completed."

This referred to the three day influx of National Guardsmen for the 2d army maneuvers. Col. Conard, 2d army transportation officer, has used the autogiro for administration work in connection with the three day concentration.

Submachine Gun and Two of Its Ancestors

1. The Colt .45 caliber automatic pistol, which uses same ammunition as the Thompson submachine gun, but it could not be fired from shoulder. 2. The Mauser automatic pistol with a wooden holster that can be attached as a stock and is adaptable for full automatic fire. Its bullet is ineffective because of light weight. 3. The Thompson submachine gun, which fires clips of 50 cartridges, can be fired from shoulder or hip.

'BLUES' CAPTURE TOWN IN FOURTH ARMY WAR GAMES IN MINNESOTA

Little Falls, Minn., Aug. 13 (AP).—The town of Pierz "fell" before a driving Blue army unit today when an advance detail of the 137th infantry from Wichita, Kan., closed in on the heels of a retreating 4th cavalry mechanized unit of the Red army. The war games are a part of the 4th army maneuvers being conducted in this area.

The victory moved the Blue army's southern flank closer to their objective, Camp Ripley. Pierz is about 15 miles east of the 7th corps headquarters at Little Falls.

To the north the Red army was successful in defending a bridge over the Mississippi river where 12 guns of the 203d coast artillery antiaircraft unit were mounted.

FEAR MANY DEAD IN FLASH FLOOD IN TENNESSEE

Elizabethton, Tenn., Aug. 14, Wednesday (AP).—An undetermined number of persons were believed to have been drowned by a flash flood in the Rivesta section, near Elizabethton's rayon plants, Sergt. Claude Buckles of the state highway patrol reported this morning. Torrential rain has been falling over mountainous East Tennessee for 24 hours.

Buckles said water was at least 50 feet deep and still rising, and authorities had been unable to get in with boats. About 250 to 300 persons live in the section, which is near the Watauga river.

All available officers in nearby Johnson City, Tenn., were called in to help fight the flood. Some people in the Rivesta section were reported clinging to trees to avoid being swept away in the swirling waters. The waters at Elizabethton proper had fallen about three feet from the crest.

Several towns and communities were isolated and scores were homeless from flooded rivers and smaller streams. Waters swept into the power plants of two large rayon plants here, causing suspension of operation. Water reached within three blocks of the courthouse in downtown Elizabethton.

AUSTRALIA OPENS QUIZ ON DEATH OF 16 IN AIR CRASHES

Chief of Staff and 3 Ministers Killed.

SYDNEY, Australia, Aug. 13 (AP).—Investigation was begun tonight of two unexplained plane crashes which earlier in the day killed 16 persons, including Lieut. Gen. Sir Cyril B. B. White, chief of the Australian army staff, and three commonwealth cabinet ministers.

One plane, carrying the high Australian officials and six other persons, crashed and burst into flames in a forced landing near the Canberra airport. The other, a royal Australian air force machine which left Brisbane yesterday, was given up as lost, its victims presumably having been drowned at sea.

Ministers in the first plane were en route from Melbourne to Canberra to attend a cabinet meeting. There were:

Brig. Geoffrey A. Street, defense.
J. V. Fairbairn, air.

Flames Trap Victims.

The plane was a Lockheed Hudson bomber. The pilot, forced to land, made what at first appeared to be a successful pancake landing on the side of a hill, but the plane burst into flames almost immediately. The occupants, believed to have been alive when the plane hit the ground, were unable to escape.

Premier Robert G. Menzies said the disaster was "a shocking piece of news and a great national calamity, the consequences of which are not yet fully realized."

"Every man concerned," he added, "was doing war service of the first importance."

It was officially announced that Arthur William Fadden and Senator Phillip A. M. McBride, ministers without portfolio, would be sworn in this week as temporary ministers for air and defense, respectively.

Ponder Holding of Elections.

The government will decide soon whether to hold by-elections to elect permanent successors to the parliamentary seats held by victims of the crash, or wait until the next regular elections a few months hence.

Lieut. Gen. White, 63 years old, was appointed chief of the Australian general staff last March 10. As a soldier he served actively in South Africa in 1902 and in the world war in the Dardanelles campaign in 1915.

Brig. Street, 46, had been defense minister since 1938. He had been a member of the house of representatives since 1934. He served with the Australian imperial forces thruout the world war.

Gullett, 62, was minister for trade and customs in 1928-'29 and 1932-'33; minister directing trade treaties, 1934-'37; and minister for external affairs and minister of information, 1939. While a delegate to the imperial economic conference in Ottawa in 1932 he visited the United States.

Fairbairn became air minister on April 24, 1939. Later last year he visited Canada as a member of a commission concerned with the empire air training program.

Compare Fire Power

The submachine gun, which is being widely discussed as the key to the success of the German armies in Poland, France, and Belgium, is a development incorporating several features of small arms which have been widely used for many years. Among these are the Mauser automatic pistol and the Colt automatic pistol.

The Thompson submachine gun, which has been recommended as the standard weapon for American infantry, is one development of the combination of small arms.

The Mauser automatic pistol is accompanied by a wooden holster which can be attached, converting the gun into a weapon that can be fired from the shoulder. The Mauser is made in 9-mm. and 7.63-mm. bore and fires either 10 or 20 shots before it must be reloaded. Altho a semiautomatic, like the Colt, firing one shot for each pull of the trigger, the Mauser 9-mm. can be made into a full automatic by turning a small catch. With this adjustment, it fires like a submachine gun.

It has a high muzzle velocity, 1,392 feet a second, but employs a small bullet, weighing 86 grains, which lacks the effective striking power of the .45 caliber, 230 grain Thompson bullet. The Thompson submachine gun, with a muzzle velocity of 870 feet per second, fires a relatively slow bullet, but one of great striking force.

German parachutists carry a machine pistol which is a development of the Mauser shoulder gun.

The Colt automatic pistol cannot be fired from the shoulder, but fires a .45 caliber, 230 grain bullet, the same as the Thompson submachine gun. Its magazine holds seven cartridges and magazines can be replaced with great speed. The Thompson submachine gun can be fired either from the shoulder or the hip. Equipped with a drum type magazine, it fires 50 shots; with the box type magazine, 20 shots.

GUARDSMEN TRY OUT ACTUAL USE OF WAR WEAPONS

Battalions Maneuver in Attack and Defense.

BY HAROLD HUTCHINGS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Camp McCoy, Wis., Aug. 13.—Under an August sky sometimes sunny and sometimes overcast, National Guardsmen set about in earnest today to learn the use of the weapons they have, or are supposed to have, and to learn how to perform those duties which would be theirs in battle.

This was the first of two days for battalion training under battalion commanders. In order, however, to squeeze as much training as possible into the three weeks of the 2d army training period, the small arms ranges were kept busy.

Training schedules called for instruction of battalions in attack, in defense, on the march, battalions practicing march security and establishing concealed bivouacs.

Weapons New to Many.

As the rolling ranges of this area echoed the explosions of small shells, many guardsmen were seeing for the first time the weapons they would use in battle. This was the case with the antitank platoons of the headquarters companies of the 129th and 130th infantry regiments, downstate Illinois units of the National Guard.

Tables of organization provide that these platoons shall have six of the new 37 mm. antitank guns. Actually the Guard antitank platoons have no antitank guns, altho they do have the world war type 37 mm. weapon, which is mounted on wheels and pulled by a mule or by men.

Four of the new weapons belonging to the 2d infantry, regular army, were available today and the men received technical instruction in their operation. Gun crews in turn took position and simulated firing under the expert instruction of Lieut. Raymond W. Sellers, 2d infantry, Fort Wayne, Mich.

Use Old Guns on Target.

Then one group at a time was taken around a bend in the road for actual firing practice, but they fired the old weapons, not the new ones, at a moving target.

This target is made of white cloth, on a boxlike wooden frame, which is towed by a long quarter inch wire cable. The cable is threaded thru pulleys so placed that the target zigzags, making sharp turns as a charging tank might do.

The target was about 300 yards away, and during the morning gunners of the 130th antitank platoon, a Mount Vernon unit, had the distinction of being the first to break the cable.

The maximum range of this old type weapon is 3,500 yards, and the effective range up to about 2,400 yards. Col. Claude B. Thummel, 2d army ordnance officer, said the maximum range of the new antitank gun is 7,500 yards and the effective range up to 5,000 yards.

Use Weapons at Hand.

Maj. Gen. Samuel T. Lawton, commander of the 33d division, explained that units of his command which should have the .50 caliber weapons are training with the heavy [water cooled] .30 caliber machine guns. Tables of organization call for six of the .50 caliber guns per regiment—24 for the division.

All riflemen in the division, except those of the 130th infantry, still are using the Springfield rifle, tho the new Garand semiautomatic is called for in tables of organization. The 130th infantry regiment, however, has the Garand.

One Illinois National Guard unit brought to camp 19 of its newly acquired scout cars, which are equipped with two .30 caliber machine guns, one .50 caliber machine gun, and one Thompson submachine gun, which is carried for close fighting. The unit is the 23d reconnaissance cquadron of the 106th cavalry of Springfield. The headquarters troops of the 106th also boasts a new command scout car, which has two way radio.

Despite this modern mechanized equipment, men of the 106th today were striving under the hot August sun to break green cavalry horses into the routine of cavalry drills.

LITHS ABOLISH THE LEGALITY OF CHURCH NUPTIALS

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Aug. 13.—Pushing a policy of bolshevizing Lithuania, the puppet Kaunas government today issued a decree abolishing the legality of religious marriages and enforcing civilian ceremonies. Any Lithuanian couple failing to register in the town hall will be arrested and fined up to 5,000 lits. However, a church marriage after a civilian ceremony will not be prohibited, but will be regarded merely a personal matter and without legal value.

Divorces, which up to now have been practically impossible to obtain in such a fervently Catholic country, will be permitted by the new law.

For a first divorce each divorcee must pay from 100 to 500 lits, according to the individuals economical and financial status; for a second divorce the payment will range from 300 to 1,500 lits and for a third divorce the penalty will range from 1,000 to 5,000 lits. Divorces will be granted by courts.

SPANISH ASSAIL BRITAIN FOR ITS BLOCKADE OF OIL

Brand It 'Aggression, an Act of War.'

BY MAURICE ENGLISH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, Spain, Aug. 13.—The British government today was accused here of committing an "act of war" against Spain by interfering with the purchase and shipment of oil and gasoline. The accusation was made by the official Falangist party organ, the newspaper Arriba, in an editorial which also charged "foreign agents" with sabotaging gasoline reserves.

Arriba also had harsh words for the United States, which apparently was aimed at in a reference to "countries we were accustomed to call great and which now are belittling themselves" by putting up with the British blockade.

The editorial contained two specific charges against Britain, as well as another against the agents of the foreign power which was not named. The first charge was that Britain has done everything to prevent other countries from selling gasoline to Spain. The second charge was that the Mediterranean blockade has prevented the arrival here of oil which Spain had arranged to buy from Rumania.

"We are accustomed to frank and clear situations," the editorial declared. "What is going on seems to us nothing more or less than aggression, an act of war.

"It seems so all the more when we know simultaneously and as tho by chance that foreign agents or miserable hirelings of our own country have been making attempts against our own reserves by setting fire to deposits of the petroleum monopoly at Alicante."

Other attempts at sabotage are known in detail to the police, the paper asserted.

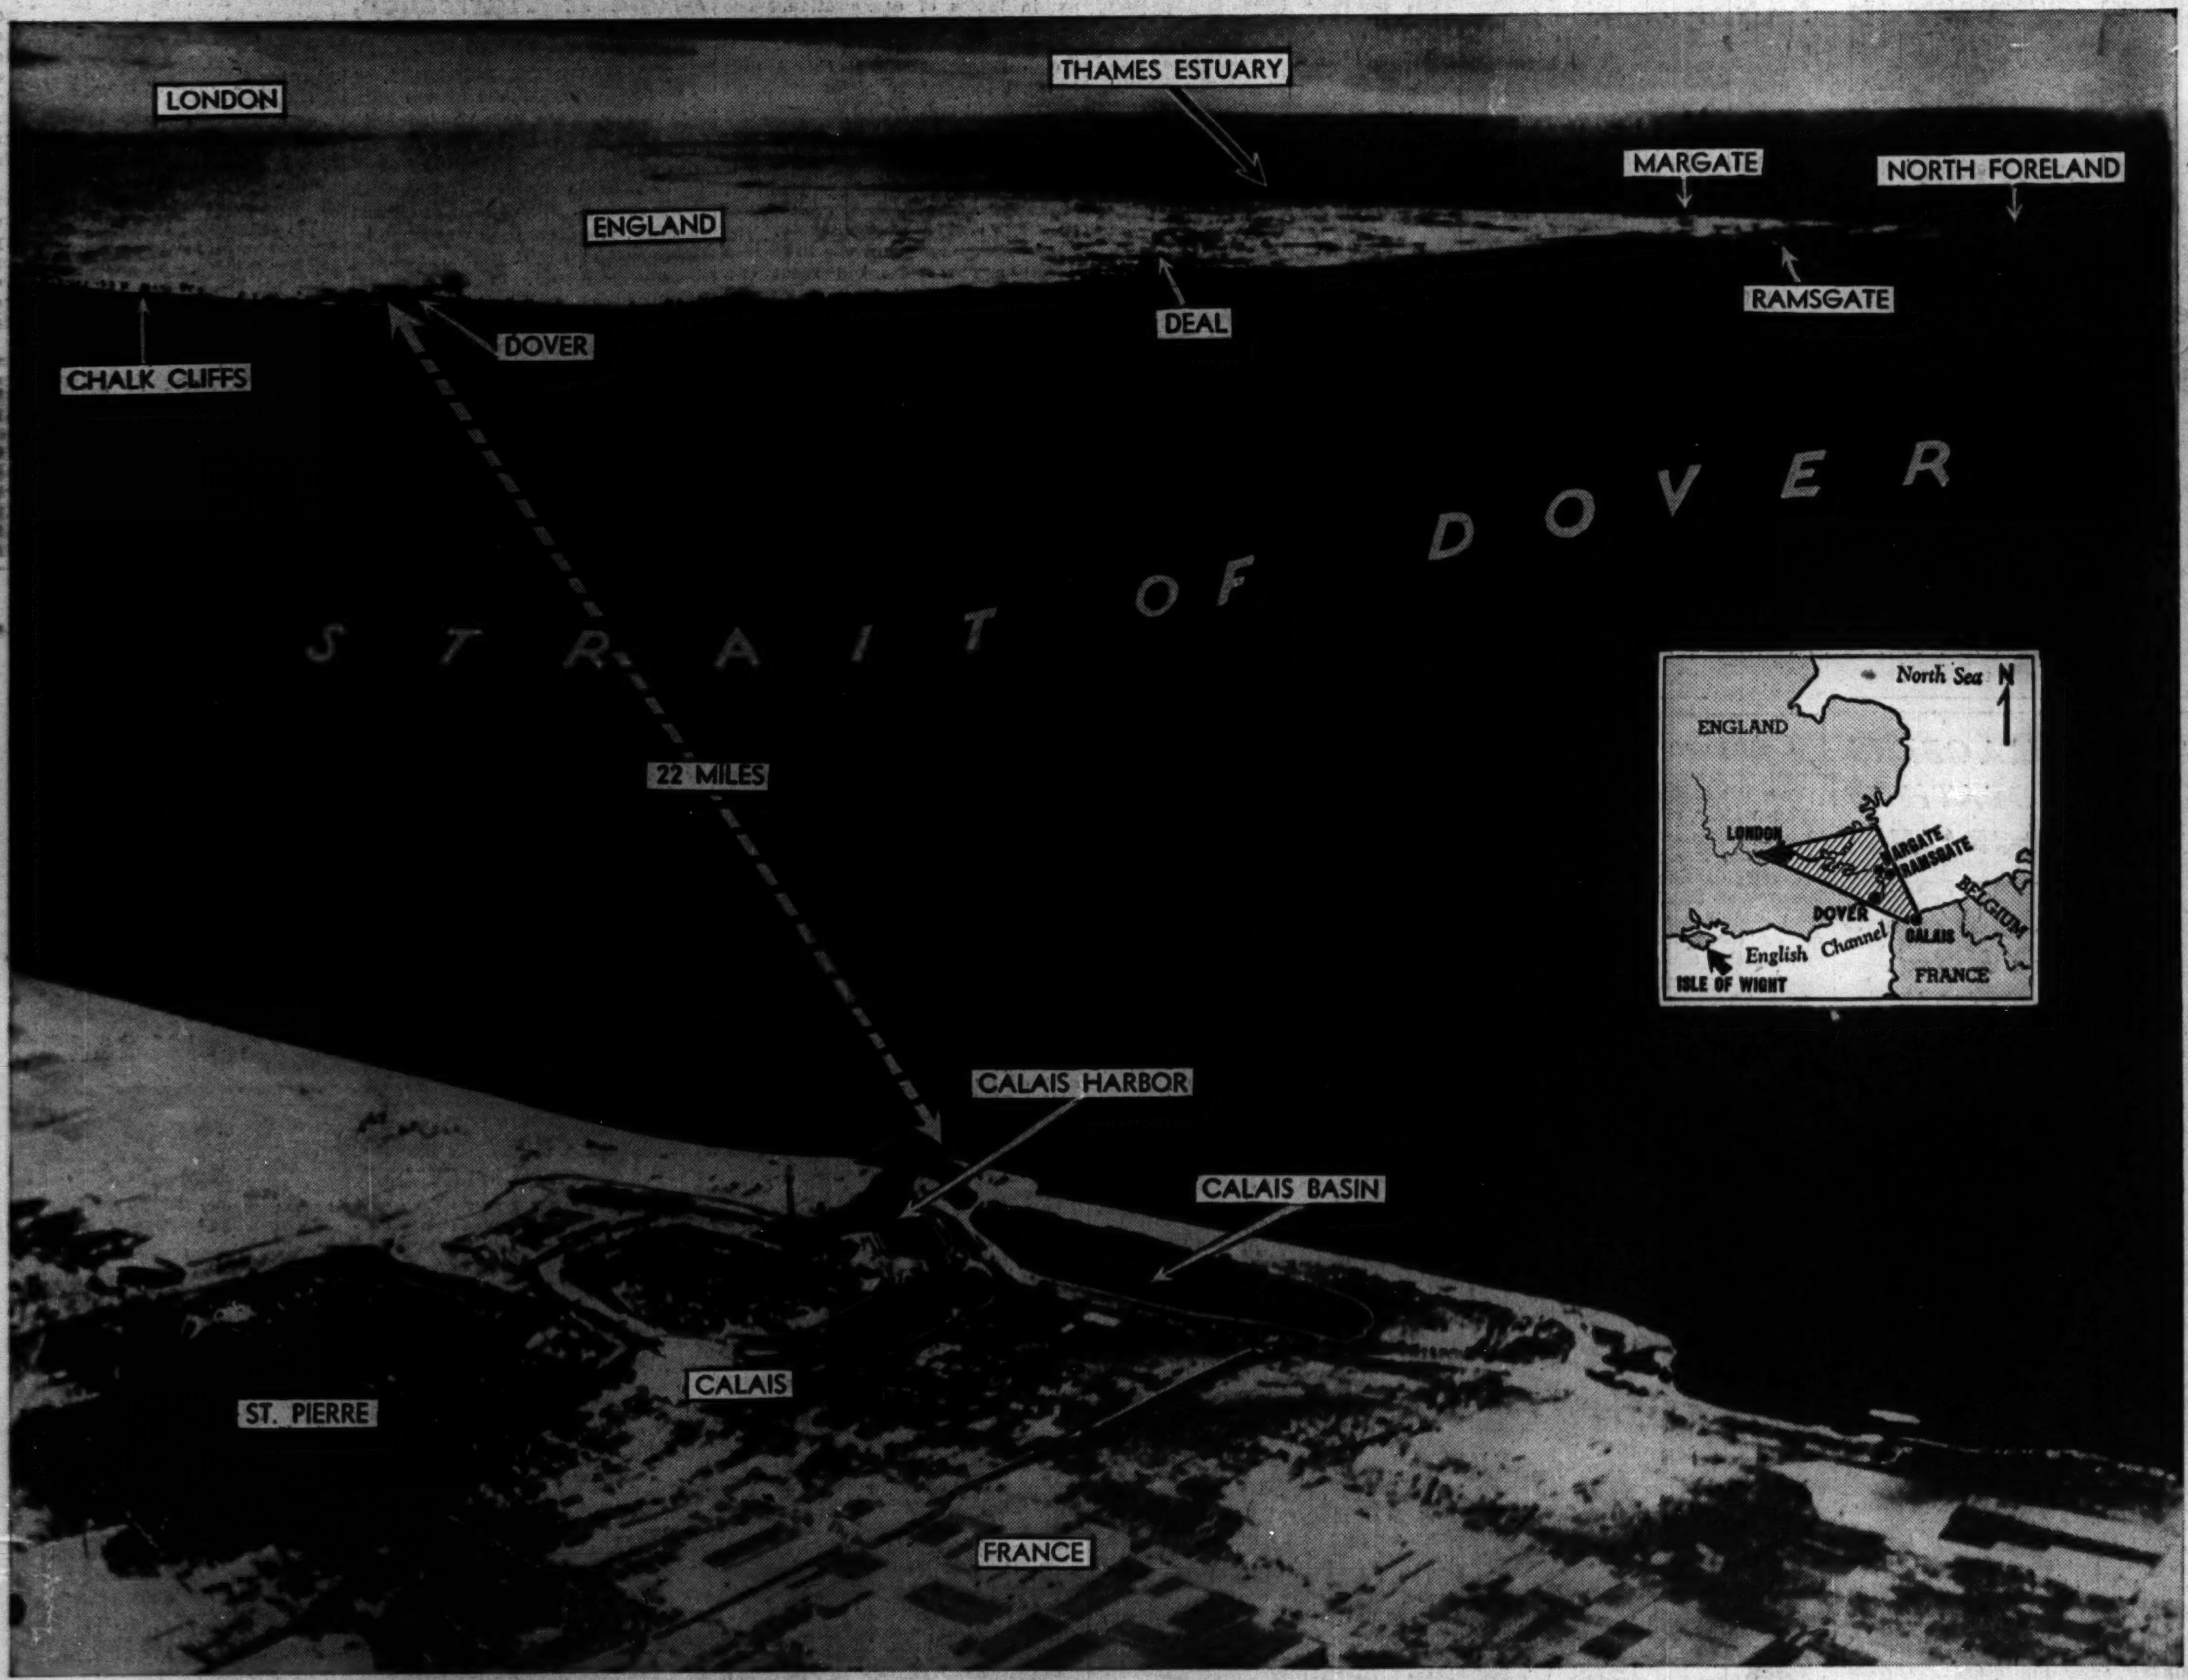
Spectacular Aerial View of English Coast Blasted by Air Raiders—Reprimanded Envoy Returns



[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

This is an actual photograph, taken from an airplane flying 18,000 feet above Calais, France, of southeastern England. Captions indicate important points now in heart of area being attacked by German planes. From Calais, it is believed the Germans may be firing big guns at English towns. There were indications that more than 500 Nazi planes attacked in the third day of the big aerial battle. Inset map shows area covered by this photo (shaded) and location of Isle of Wight (arrow) shown in aerial photo below. (Stories on pages 1 and 4.)

This picture shows, according to British censored caption, a German raiding plane (upper left) caught amidst antiaircraft barrage of bursting shells (white spots) somewhere over English coast. The balloon shaped object (lower left) was not identified, but London caption emphasized it was not a balloon. Whether it was a mystery weapon could not be ascertained. The picture was taken Sunday, first day of the big air battle.

897 AMERICAN WAR REFUGEES TO SAIL FRIDAY

Pack Army Transport in Petsamo Fjord.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PETSAMO, Finland, Aug. 13. — Dwarfing Finnish freighters which are bringing badly needed coffee into Finland, the United States army transport American Legion is lying in Petsamo fjord between mountains worn thru by glacial ice and flanked by southern Arctic structures. With accommodations for 720 soldiers and 150 sailors and noncommissioned officers, the transport will sail Friday with 897 American refugees from the war and bolshevism.

Some passengers have come from heavily bombed cities in Germany. Some are from occupied Norway, where some cities are being bombed by the British. Others are from occupied Denmark, while smaller groups have succeeded in escaping the Red terror of communism which is ruling the Baltic states.

Sixteen Americans arrived here today from Latvia after being delayed by bolshevik burocracy for three weeks. Because the Estonian soviet government refused them transit visas they were obliged to travel from Riga to Stockholm before starting their long journey north. They were surprised when I told them of the report that the Latvian president, Karl Ulmanis, had been killed while resisting arrest.

Latvians Reported Terrorized.

They said the Latvians had been terrorized by the arrest and deportation to Russia of many of their leading citizens. Many of the refugees had businesses and owned property in Latvia. They were permitted to take with them only sufficient money to cover traveling expenses.

The Americans from Lithuania, scheduled to arrive here 10 days ago, have not reached Finland. They also were not permitted to pass thru Latvia and Estonia, but were obliged to proceed first to Berlin.

Because the war and the Russian invasion of Finland had left no accommodations for travelers on the road between Rovaniemi and Petsamo, the Finns have made special transportation arrangements for the refugees. Ten autobuses were sent from Helsingfors and have been running on a 24 hour schedule bringing the Americans from Rovaniemi to Petsamo. It is a 300 mile journey over a narrow road with one short halt at Ivalo for food and rest.

Few Facilities for Children.

Equipped for moving troops, the transport has few facilities for the hundreds of women and children on the passenger list.

But the American minister to Norway, Mrs. Florence Borden Harriman, 71 years old, has been nominated to head a committee which is expected to keep the refugees occupied and entertained until they reach New York.

Some of the women passengers have objected to sleeping in the bunks which rise three tiers up, while mothers with small children are placed in the lower berths. Some of them threaten to write to their congressmen about it because the special letters of recommendation they presented on board have not resulted in special accommodations.

Finns to Police the Ship.

The best passengers are American born Finns who are returning home. Under the leadership of John Kukkonen of Maple, Wis., 40 men and women have volunteered to help police the ship, for which Maj. Frank L. Burns, the ship's commander, has promised to refund their $25 passage money.

Maj. Burns, to show his appreciation to the Finns who are helping the refugees, gave a children's party for 106 small guests on board the ship today. The children filled up on cocoa, ice cream, and cake and then each was given an Eskimo pie. The children never had seen an Eskimo pie before and stuffed them into their pockets to eat later. They started to play. When the ice cream began to trickle down their legs, tears also began to flow, so they all got another, containing plenty of American fruit, which because of the war has become scarce in Finland.

GERMANY PLANS FOR WINTER IN OCCUPIED LANDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 13.—In a speech describing the organization of theatrical and artistic entertainment in Germany, Hans Hinkel, president of Germany's chamber of culture, revealed that Germany is preparing for her armies of occupation to spend next winter in conquered territory. Eighty theatrical companies are now on tours, part of them in France, Norway, and other occupied regions, and sixty more companies are being formed to entertain soldiers in the occupied countries during the winter.

Crown for an Irish Queen

Pick Her Tomorrow

Frank Lyman, clerk of the Probate court, who is to be judge when Chicago's Irish queen is selected tomorrow evening in the fourth annual Irish Day celebration at Harm's park, 4207 North Western avenue, was subjected to the influence of smiling Irish eyes yesterday. Two of the contestants, Annette Murphy, 16 years old, 7517 Ridgeland avenue, and Isabelle Kelly, 16, of 5056 Fulton street, visited his office. They disclaimed interest in the beauty competition but inspected trophies that will be awarded Irish clans registering the largest representation at the fête. In addition to the Murphys and Kellys the Burkes, Gallaghers, McCarthys, O'Briens, O'Connors, Ryans, O'Malleys and Sullivans are seeking this honor. Bishop Bernard J. Shell will speak at 9 p. m.

U. S. MAIL GOES THRU TO PARIS —IF ONE WAITS

Average Time Over 10 Days, Check Shows.

BY ALEX SMALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Aug. 11 [By Courier to Berlin] [Delayed].—Americans in Paris have a new pastime, comparing notes on the time taken for correspondence to reach them from the United States. The record appears to be about one week for mail sent by Clipper, but the average is between 10 and 15 days.

Second class mail seems to arrive more promptly than first class, and we are only 12 to 15 days behind on American papers, tho their delivery is erratic. Papers dated July 19 arrived several days before those of July 1.

The news we find in the papers is shopworn but interesting in retrospect, especially articles written by correspondents in other parts of the world. Can you in Chicago imagine getting news from Detroit by way of Paris? Well, in Paris we get news from Vichy, which is approximately the same distance away by way of Chicago.

Shows Over at 9.

Because of the 11 o'clock curfew here the shows, and there are three plays, three revues, and three musicals, begin at 7 o'clock and are over at 9.

Some of the theaters now serve sandwiches and sausages during the intermission, but most of the Parisians, who like to dine late, eat after the performance.

Probably the biggest hit, with both French and Germans, has been Sacha Guitry's revival of "Pasteur." Some of Pasteur's speeches criticizing the French political régime of the time seem prophetic.

Applaud Rap at Politicians.

The audience applauded loudly, for instance, when Pasteur complained bitterly about the lack of interest shown by French politicians in scientific discoveries, whereas in Germany such discoveries were encouraged, and went on to add that a country that neglected its intellectual resources in favor of political machinations was doomed to defeat.

A number of movies and night clubs have reopened, but there is no dancing and jazz bands have not been reorganized. Two symphony orchestras give concerts on Saturdays and Sundays, a Russian ballet troupe gives performances, and German military bands play two or three times a week at various outdoor spots.

MISS PAPERS IN BERLIN

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 13.—American Clipper mail reaches Berlin in about the time it takes it to get to Paris, but newspapers never arrive at the newspaper offices to which they are addressed.

Early in the war American correspondents received copies of their papers fairly regularly, but later deliveries became less and less frequent. Some months ago The Tribune bureau was given a propaganda ministry address to which, it was said, papers could be sent. Since then about 20 copies have been delivered.

For a month five copies of THE TRIBUNE were sent every day from Basel, Switzerland, on the German border. They did not reach The Tribune's Berlin office. Swiss au-authorities insisted they were shipped.

Ireland Takes Precautions as Air War Creeps Closer

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Aug. 13 (AP).—Ireland took precautions today as the air war crept along Britain's southern coast. The air raid defense department announced in Dublin that Limerick had been made a controled port under the emergency powers act.

War Refugees Overflow City; Many in Villages.

BY MAY BIRKHEAD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LISBON, Portugal, Aug. 7 [By Airmail].—Lisbon, one of the smallest capital cities in Europe, has become the Mecca for Americans seeking to escape from Europe's war zone and the Nazi-occupied countries. When I arrived here I was told there were more than 22,000 foreigners, mostly Americans and Jews, in the city clamoring for passage to America.

Not a room was to be had anywhere. Villages near Lisbon also are packed with refugees, who are finding it difficult to live, since they were allowed to take only 500 francs [nominally about $10] out of France. Friendless and virtually homeless, they are having a rather sad time while waiting for passage, which they hope to obtain on Portuguese, Greek, Mexican or American boats.

Without News for Weeks.

Many came here not knowing the real situation, there having been no communication for weeks between Paris and any point outside France. Many had to abandon here the automobiles in which they made their harrowing flight from Paris.

Some, whose health was precarious, fled Paris because the food situation was bad. At a time when they expected to have plenty of healthful food, especially milk, the supplies of butter, eggs, milk, potatoes, and many other things were shut off. Only infrequently were the Americans in France able to get such home staples as ham and eggs.

Because of the food situation, and because the American embassy advised me to get out immediately, the officials having received orders about foreigners which were not pleasant, I joined the southbound flight of refugees. Typical of the hundreds who fled Paris, I was able to pack only one suitcase of clothing and, because of the uncertainty of living quarters along the way, also put a bed into the auto.

Begs Gas from Town to Town.

Gasoline restrictions made themselves felt thruout France, and I had to beg for gasoline from town to town. In one town I was held up five days trying to get fuel, and in another was almost turned back.

Our party managed, however, to get thru France and to this Portuguese capital, end of a terrifying exodus. Here the good offices of Rear Admiral David McD. Le Breton, commander of the United naval squadron at Libson, obtained passage for me within a week, altho I had been told it would require more than six weeks to arrange for the last lap home.

U. S. Commander Warns Filipinos of Fifth Column

MANILA, P. I., Aug. 13 (AP).—A warning to residents of the Philippines to be on guard against activities of fifth columnists was issued today by Maj. Gen. George Grunert, commander of the Philippine department of the United States army. At an observance of the forty-second anniversary of American occupation of the Philippines, Gen. Grunert said: "It is not my intention to lull you into a false sense of security. We have enemies around and among us."

Report Rumania Agrees to Demands of Hungary

BERLIN, Aug. 13 (AP).—The Hungarian government has announced the receipt from Rumania of an "affirmative" reply to its latest note outlining demands for territorial concessions in Transylvania, the Berlin radio reported today in a broadcast dispatch from Budapest. A conference to work out details will be held shortly at some Rumanian town the dispatch said.

BRITAIN TO TELL ITS PEACE AIMS AT 'RIGHT TIME'

Minister Refuses to Say When That Will Be.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 13.—The government will state its peace aims at the "appropriate time" and that "is the time that is appropriate," Clement Attlee, lord privy seal, told the house of commons today. He gave this assurance that the government will outline the reasons for which the war is being fought in answer to a question.

For some time there has been growing demands that the government outline its peace plans so a definite idea can be formed as to the kind of Europe and world Britain would establish after victory in contrast to the axis powers' European economic bloc.

Refuses to Set the Time.

Attlee said the government did not underestimate the importance of this, but refused to define an appropriate time more than that already indicated.

Several news vendors, who to save paper must write their own newsposters, sold papers by displaying signs, "Our Peace Aims," altho the press reports were even less detailed than this dispatch.

Gandhi Hits Plan for India.

On the eve of the parliamentary debate on India, reports from that country indicate a growing displeasure at the recent government pronouncement designed to bring India wholeheartedly behind the British war effort. Following the declaration of the head of the powerful All India National congress that the British offer fails even to establish a basis for negotiations, Mohandas K. Gandhi, in a telegram to the News Chronicle tonight was even more disheartening.

Gandhi, altho not taking an active part, is on the record in wishing success to the British cause in the war. Now, however, as a result of "pressure from friends in England and fellow workers," he reluctantly expressed the opinion that the "vice regal pronouncement is deeply distressing. It widens the gulf between India, as represented by the congress, and England."

Says Suspicion Is Left.

"Thinking India outside the congress, too, has not welcomed the pronouncement," he added. "The secretary of state's statement soothes the ear but does not dispel suspicion. Neither pronouncement takes note of smoulderin· discontent.

"My own fear is that democracy is being wrecked.

"Britain cannot claim to stand for justice if she fails to be just to India. India's disease is too deep to yield to any make-believe or half-hearted measures."

KILLED BY PUNCH PRESS.

Hyacinth Ferro, 48 years old, 3356 West 51st street, was crushed to death yesterday beneath a punch press in the plant of the Mayer Manufacturing company at 3136 West 51st street.

BROWDER'S WIFE QUESTIONED ON ENTRY INTO U. S.

New York, Aug. 13 (AP).—Mrs. Earl Browder, Russian-born wife of the communist party's Presidential candidate, was questioned at Ellis Island today on the legality of her entry into the United States. She was released in custody of her attorney after questioning. Immigration officials declined to discuss the case, saying the results of their examination would be sent to the Department of Justice in Washington.

Earlier today immigration officers in Washington had reported there was no record of Mrs. Browder's entry into this country. They said Browder had requested she be allowed to leave the country and return under the quota of some nation such as Canada to meet legal requirements.

WILLKIE RALLY DRIVERS URGED TO AVOID JAMS

Highway Routes Mapped to Speed Traffic.

[This is the fourth of a series of articles by THE TRIBUNE's automobile editor on routes to the Willkie rally Saturday in Elwood, Ind.]

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Elwood, Ind., Aug. 13.—Thousands of motorists from Chicago, northwestern Indiana, Wisconsin, and western Michigan will be here Saturday for the ceremonies when Wendell L. Willkie accepts the Republican Presidential nomination.

We can offer the motorists some suggestions based on two weeks of scouting in THE TRIBUNE's road car in the environs of Willkie's home town and on highways of Indiana and neighboring states.

Map Shows Distances.

With the map printed with this article you can determine the distance from your home to Elwood. You can estimate your driving time by figuring an average speed of 40 miles an hour, plus an allowance of 30 minutes for the last couple of miles into the parking areas.

There are several good roads here from Chicago, but the recommended route is U. S. 41 thru Kentland, Ind., and thereafter U. S. 52, bypassing Lafayette. Fifteen miles southeast of Lafayette, turn east in Ind. 28 directly to Elwood.

Just before entering Elwood you will be turned north a mile and then east a mile and a half on one-way roads directly to farm fields laid out for parking.

Parking Is Free.

Parking is free. A few farmers have been planning to open private pay parking space. Their space is more distant from the event than is the free parking area.

From Milwaukee, 301 miles from Elwood, motorists can bypass Chicago by using La Grange road, U. S. 45.

Skokie highway, U. S. 41, can be followed to west of Evanston before jogging west on Dempster street, Oakton street, or Touhy avenue to U. S. 45, or the Milwaukee traffic can pick up U. S. 45 in Libertyville by leaving U. S. 41 for Ill. 63 near Gurnee, Ill.

U. S. 45 can be followed south to Kankakee. Then motorists will continue south, following Ill. 49 markers to U. S. 24 and then east to Kentland.

There is a paved detour on U. S. 45 around construction in Franklin Park, west of Chicago. Another construction job on U. S. 45 was scheduled to start tomorrow in Orland Park, southern Cook county, and also is to have a paved detour.

Madison 350 Miles from Elwood.

Travelers from other parts of Wisconsin can avoid the U. S. 45 detours and also can bypass metropolitan area traffic by driving south to U. S. 24 on U. S. 51 or on Wis. 120 and Ill. 47. Madison is 350 miles from Elwood.

Three other recommended routes will serve traffic from northwestern Indiana, two of them also serving western Michigan.

From Michigan City, Ind., south to join U. S. 52 at Lafayette is Ind. 43, part of this "On to Elwood" highway system. The distance from Michigan City is 155 miles. From South Bend, Ind., 122 miles from Elwood, is U. S. 31 to Ind. 28. From Muskegon, Mich., 240 miles from Elwood, motorists will follow U. S. 31 to South Haven, then Mich. 140 to Niles, Mich., and then U. S. 31 thru South Bend. From Benton Harbor and St. Joseph, 156 miles from Elwood, U. S. 31 will be followed all the way to Ind. 28 for the last 17 miles to Elwood.

From Grand Rapids, Mich., 199 miles from Elwood, motorists will follow U. S. 131 to the Indiana line and then will go south in Ind. 15 and thereafter in Ind. 13 to the rally here.

NEW DEAL TAXES BURDEN FARMER, GREEN DECLARES

Lincoln, Ill., Aug. 13 [Special].—Farmers will continue to suffer from high taxes until the government administration returns to efficiency and economy, Dwight H. Green, Republican candidate for governor, declared today in an address at the Logan county fair. A large crowd turned out for Republican day at the fair despite a downpour of rain, long needed for arid fields.

"The farmers of Illinois," Green said, "are being crushed between the millstones of taxes, many of which are directly taken from their incomes.

"The immediate need of farmers is relief from the tax burden which the machine government in Illinois and the New Deal in Washington have saddled upon our people. Already the farmers are giving the income from 40 acres out of every 160 acres to the government in taxes. In 1935 the farmers of Illinois alone paid 35 million dollars in taxes. This is 95 cents an acre more money than the farmer spent on his crops or farm improvements.

"The only way to stop the rising tax burden is to restore decency and honesty to government and to wipe out the political machines which have fattened themselves and their pay rollers during the New Deal at Washington and Springfield."

FALLS UNDER FREIGHT CAR; INJURED.

Vernon Wieling, 41 years old, of Bloomington, McLean county, suffered compound fractures of both legs when he fell under the wheels of an Alton railroad freight car which he was riding as brakeman yesterday at Wilmington, in Will county. He was given a blood transfusion in Silver Cross hospital, Joliet.

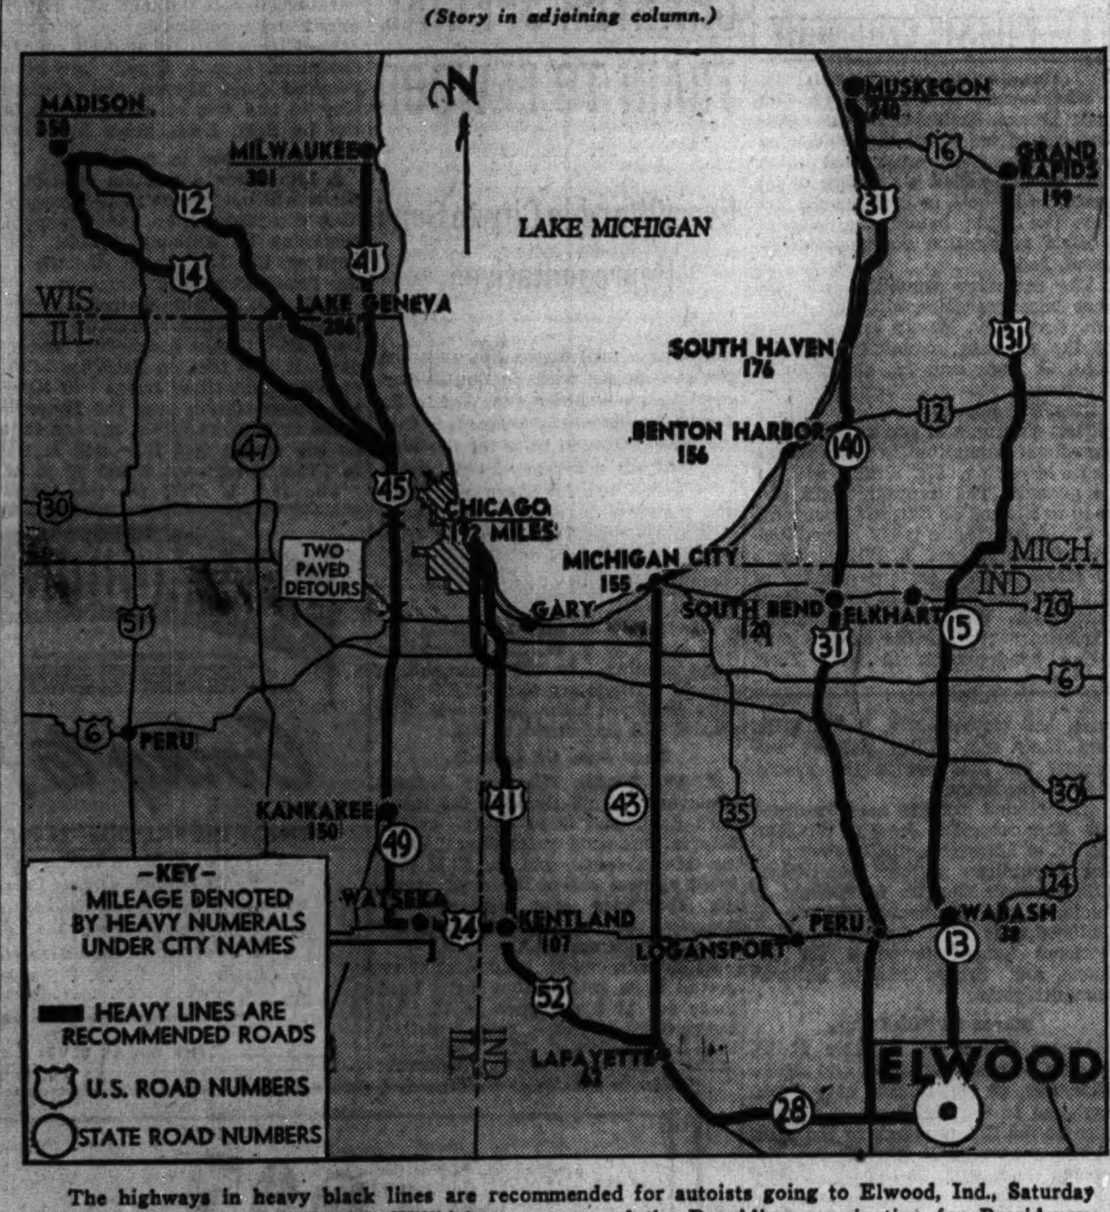
Recommended Highways Leading to Elwood

(Story in adjoining column.)



The highways in heavy black lines are recommended for autoists going to Elwood, Ind., Saturday for ceremonies surrounding Wendell Willkie's acceptance of the Republican nomination for Presidency.

CITY WILL SEND 61 POLICEMEN TO WILLKIE EVENT

Police Commissioner Allman announced yesterday that 51 Chicago traffic policemen and 10 plain clothesmen of the pickpocket detail will go to Elwood, Ind., to assist local and state police at the Willkie acceptance ceremony Saturday. The policemen are being sent at the request of Michael J. Fogarty, chief of the Elwood police. The traffic detail, which will include two sergeants and 48 traffic patrolmen, will be headed by Lieut. Michael J. Daly. Sergt. John C. Griffith will have charge of the pickpocket detail.

W-G-N TO OFFER DAILY PROGRAM FROM ELWOOD

Barber Shop Session Is Scheduled Tonight.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Starting today, W-G-N will present special broadcasts every day from Elwood, Ind., the programs culminating Saturday in the broadcast of ceremonies in which Wendell L. Willkie will be notified of his nomination as the Republican Presidential candidate. Special W-G-N programs were presented Saturday night and Sunday morning from Elwood.

W-G-N will set up microphones at 8:30 o'clock tonight for a 15 minute broadcast from the barber shop of Harry Curtis in Elwood. Quin Ryan will interview Curtis on his recollections of the Willkie family, which used to patronize the barber shop. Curtis' son, Ralph, and several other residents of Elwood also will be interviewed.

Women's Program Planned.

Mrs. Ruth De Young Kohler will present her program, Women World Wide, at 2:15 p. m. tomorrow, speaking from the Elwood High school, where W-G-N has set up headquarters. At 8:30 p. m. tomorrow Ryan will interview Don W. Carlson, editor of the Elwood Call-Leader. The society editor of the Call-Leader will tell of plans for entertaining noted feminine visitors at the notification rally. Tony Lewellyn, a veteran Elwood photographer, also is to take part in the broadcast.

Additional interviews with Elwood residents are to be presented from 2 to 2:15 p. m. Friday. The W-G-N marriage license bureau interviews, usually heard at this period, have been canceled for the day. Among those who will face the W-G-N microphone Friday in Elwood will be three feminine schoolmates of Willkie—Katherine Henze, now auditor and notary public in Elwood; Ethel Kohmorgan, pianist in St. John's church there, and Eunice Gregg, who started out in the first grade with Willkie.

Abe Levi, an Elwood junk dealer, will recall how Willkie when a boy worked for 50 cents an afternoon in Levi's junk yard.

Friday Night Broadcast Arranged.

While the time has not been set, W-G-N and the Mutual network, along with other networks, are to broadcast entertainment under the direction of Walter O'Keefe, the comedian, some time Friday evening from Elwood.

W-G-N will broadcast all the highlights of Elwood's big day Saturday. This will include entertainment at the high school, with O'Keefe in charge, and a description of the scene as Willkie greets old friends from the steps of the high school.

The broadcasts will conclude with the ceremonies in Callaway park, with addresses by Representative Charles Halleck [R., Ind.] and Representative Joseph Martin Jr. [R., Mass.], chairman of the Republican national committee.

2 CHILDREN BURNED BY GASOLINE.

Richard and Ronald Wimberly, 9 and 4 years old, 152 West Superior street, dropped a match in the gas tank of an abandoned truck near their home yesterday and were slightly burned about the face. They were treated at Henrotin hospital.

SEEK TO LINE UP ALL VETERANS BEHIND WILLKIE

A movement to enlist war veterans from all parts of the country, regardless of party affiliations, is to be launched Saturday at the Willkie notification at Elwood, Ind. In charge will be the Willkie War Veterans National committee.

Heading this committee is Harry F. Colmery of Kansas, former national commander of the legion. Vice presidents are James E. VanZandt of Pennsylvania, three times commander in chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and Thomas W. Payne of Michigan, past national commander of the United Spanish War Veterans. Edward F. McGinnis of Chicago is national director.

Brochures detailing Willkie's war activities are to be distributed in all states thru local veteran organizations. At Elwood a headquarters will be established in a tent near the grandstand.

WILLKIE CALLS ON DEMOCRATS TO REFUND $640,000

Demands 'Plain Honesty' in Corporation Deals.

Landon, "this coming of an administration leader to campaign for Pendergast machine nominees. This will hurt Roosevelt and in my opinion make Missouri a Republican state.

"There is a strong reaction against the third term, as well as the domination of the St. Louis and Kansas City machines. It is like the Kelly-Nash machine in Chicago, the Hague machine in New Jersey, the Flynn machine in the Bronx.

Frauds May Determine Result.

"I think the election itself may depend, for instance, on how many fraudulent votes the machines cast in Chicago, in New Jersey and other places. It looks as tho this is the policy being pursued by the administration."

"Yes," said Willkie, "the President reaches out and takes these machines and depends upon them to carry doubtful states. Everybody understands that they have stolen votes."

Willkie said he will urge Thomas E. Dewey to make one of his anti-gangster speeches in Missouri, where the Pendergast machine again is striking for power.

Willkie called attention to the comparison between his choice of Joseph Martin Jr. as chairman of the Republican National committee and the President's choice of Ed Flynn to lead his campaign. Willkie said:

"Let's look at the picture—on the question of machine politics. President Roosevelt and I each had a choice—namely, to name a national chairman.

Lauds Martin's Services.

"I named one of the outstanding public servants in America, who was voted by the newspaper correspondents in Washington as the ablest representative in the American house of representatives. And I say that since his appointment I have heard nothing but praise for his character, for his capacity and for the cleanliness that he stands for in American public life.

"Franklin D. Roosevelt had the same kind of a choice to make and he named Ed Flynn, boss of the Bronx.

"During the course of this campaign I want the two candidates for President to be judged by what we respectively say—by what we each do and with whom we associate and consult and whom we ask to perform for us. And I call the comparison on the first association—Joe Martin against Boss Flynn. Think what they each are and what each represents. I doubt whether there is a man in this room who does not know Joe Martin. In public life for many years he has represented all that is finest in American public life."

Demands Reimbursements.

On the question of campaign reimbursements, Willkie said:

"Attorney General Jackson and Senator Hatch now agree with me that it would be a violation of the Hatch act for the Democratic national committee to sell its campaign books. I suppose that even Boss Flynn will not now sell or distribute the books.

"The Democratic national committee, according to press reports, has already collected $140,000 for advertisments in these books. I therefore should assume that the committee will pay this money back to the advertisers. If those repayments are not made promptly, the corporations concerned are under obligations to demand—and sue if necessary—for the recovery of the money.

"Obviously even the thin disguise that this advertising had any value disappears completely now that there can be no distribution of the books.

Corrupt Practice Act Violated.

"In my opinion all sales of the Democratic campaign book containing advertisments obtained from corporations have been a violation of the federal corrupt practices act, entirely aside from the provisions of the Hatch act. Perhaps if Attorney General Jackson gives his opinion on this point he will agree with this view.

"The Democratic national committee has been following the practice for several years of collection campaign contributions thru campaign advertisments in campaign books. Press reports indicate that the amount heretofore extracted exceeds $500,000. Therefore, this money should likewise be repaid immediately by the Democratic committee to the corporations involved. If the same is not immediately repaid, then the corporations should demand repayment at once and sue for the recovery if such demand is refused."

Rate New Mexico as Republican.

Willkie talked today with Cyrus McCormick, national committeeman from New Mexico, who puts that state in the Republican column. He was accompanied by Maurice F. Miera, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor.

Willkie said he had decided not to accept the invitation to attend the Chicagoland Music Festival in Soldiers' field on the night of his notification ceremony in Elwood. He said he will attend a family reunion that night.

"This is one of the significant moments in any man's life," he said, "and I want to be with them on that evening."

He may go to Rushville if it is too crowded in Elwood. He will leave here Thursday noon by plane for Indianapolis and go from there to Rushville on Saturday morning.

ELWOOD DRAFTS TIMETABLE FOR WILLKIE RALLY

Program Is Announced for Notification.

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Elwood, Ind., Aug. 13.—Details and a time schedule of the notification ceremonies here on Saturday, when Wendell L. Willkie will accept the Republican Presidential nomination in the town where he was born, and deliver his initial campaign speech, were released today by the national committee.

Willkie's address of acceptance, which is expected to have one of the largest newspaper and radio audiences in American history, will probably run from 30 to 35 minutes. He will begin its delivery at about 3:30 p. m., Indiana time, or 4:30 p. m., Chicago time.

Guard Against Delays.

It was noted in the time schedule released with the program that plenty of time is given for the movements of the nominee and his family thru Elwood—a city of less than 11,000. This leeway is in recognition of the tremendous crowd expected for the ceremonies in Callaway park, for which estimates range from 100,000 to 300,000.

Homer E. Capehart of Washington, Ind., chairman of arrangements, said at his press conference today that the vanguard of the private automobiles bound for the 40,000 car free parking space adjacent to the park, is expected to arrive in Elwood long before dawn Saturday. Special Pullman trains from distant points will be shunted on to side tracks all during the night and 60 trains of coaches are due in almost constant succession from shortly after 8 a. m.

Elwood will see 60 separate parades as the crowds from each train form in line and march from the Pennsylvania and Nickel Plate railroad stations, Capehart said. The line of march will take them past the high school where the nominee will meet friends and old neighbors prior to the formal notification ceremony. Capehart said most of these special trains will bring bands to lead their passengers.

Plenty of Entertainment.

Something is planned from 10 a. m. on at Callaway park. The first four hours will be given over to entertainment—band concerts, glee clubs, soloists, and even live elephants. The Chicago delegation is bringing at least two live pachyderms.

Willkie, his family, and the newspaper correspondents who will accompany him from Colorado Springs, are due in town about noon from Rushville, Mrs. Willkie's home, and the site of the nominee's farm.

Nothing is planned for him until his appearance at the school save for a meeting with about 600 members of Summit post, No. 19, American Legion, of Akron, O., which he commanded while practicing law there.

Leaving the train, Willkie, his wife, her mother, Mrs. Philip Wilk, and their son, Philip Willkie, will occupy the first car in the procession to the school.

The second car has been reserved for Congressman Joseph W. Martin Jr. of Massachusetts, chairman of the Republican national committee; Congressman Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, who nominated Willkie at Philadelphia; Mrs. Grace Reynolds, national committeewoman for Indiana, and Ernest Morris, national committeeman.

Mayor in Third Car.

Mayor George M. Bonham of Elwood, Chairman Capehart, and others directing arrangements have been assigned to the third car. This will also be the line of march to the park.

The mayor will preside at the school and will introduce United States Senator James J. Davis of Pennsylvania, who once worked in the tin plate mill and was city clerk of Elwood. Senator Davis will introduce Willkie.

By the time Willkie reaches the park the entertainment will have concluded and the Indiana state candidates will have been introduced by State Chairman Arch Bobbitt. The formal ceremony will run an hour or an hour and fifteen minutes, and is scheduled to be concluded by 5:15 p. m., Chicago time.

The nominee's plans after the notification are understood to be incomplete.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 13.—Sinclair Weeks, chairman of the executive committee of the Republican national committee, announced today that he had called a meeting of his group to be held in Indianapolis Friday, the night before the Wendell Willkie notification ceremony at Elwood, Ind.

The executive committee will discuss campaign plans with party leaders. Joseph W. Martin Jr., chairman of the national committee; Senator John G. Townsend Jr., chairman of the party's senatorial campaign committee, and Representative J. William Ditter, chairman of the national congressional committee, will be among those attending. Mr. Willkie will not be present. The committee will proceed to Elwood on Saturday morning.

Chairman Martin today named Representative Richard B. Wigglesworth of Massachusetts eastern director of the speakers' division of the national committee. Wigglesworth will make his headquarters in the eastern campaign headquarters in New York.

INSURANCE MEN CHARTER SPECIAL TRAIN TO ELWOOD

Every Ward in City to Send Representatives.

Insurance men in the life, casualty, fire, and mutual fields in the Chicago territory have joined the "on to Elwood" movement. Yesterday they chartered a special train for the Willkie notification ceremonies Saturday.

So many insurance workers asked that their groups be given a showing that the request for a special train was granted by the Republican state committee and the Pennsylvania railroad.

The train is to leave the union station about 10 a. m. and return the same evening. In the metropolitan area of Chicago are some 10,000 gainfully employed insurance people. The special will accommodate 900.

They Join Up Quickly.

R. W. Tansill, 175 West Jackson boulevard, an old timer in the insurance field, who is in charge of the reservations, said yesterday: "When my friends found that for $3.75 they could witness one of the most inspiring spectacles ever presented in America, they quickly joined up for the insurance special."

Republican county headquarters reported 5,000 reservations have been made for 11 trains each of 12 cars. Every ward and Cook county district is to be represented. The Cook county group is to have a parade of its own, with bands.

Persons planning to drive to Elwood for the ceremonies were advised yesterday to get special automobile parking stickers without which they might have difficulty in parking. John T. Dempsey, Republican county chairman, says a supply has been received from Elwood and stickers may be had free at headquarters in the La Salle hotel, room 313.

Lithuanians to Participate.

A Lithuanian delegation of Republicans will participate in the ceremonies, according to an announcement yesterday by Anthony A. Olis, the head of the Lithuanian division of the Republican state campaign.

Arthur J. Bidwill, chairman of the Willkie notification committee at the La Salle, put out a schedule yesterday. It said that on Saturday [Chicago daylight time] trains will leave the Union station over the Pennsylvania starting at 7:15 a. m., and that on the return trip they will arrive in Chicago between 9 and 10 p. m.

The fare is $3.75 for the round trip. This covers transportation only. All trains carry buffet cars, serving lunches and refreshments both ways.

Entire cars will be reserved for groups with not less than 55 and not more than 70 passengers. These cars will be properly designated.

44th Ward Victor's Margin Is Reduced to One Vote

The margin of Robert W. Dunn, who was elected Republican committeeman of the 44th ward by three votes, was cut to one vote yesterday in the contest brought by his opponent, Richard A. Donnellan, before County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki. The judge granted permission to Attorney Bernard Barasa, representing Donnellan, to reopen the ballot boxes and reëxamine 40 ballots which he challenged.

The Pleasant Way to Correct Constipation

Why let yourself in for all the discomfort of constipation—and then have to take an emergency medicine—if you can avoid both by getting at the cause of the trouble?

If your difficulty, like that of millions, is due to lack of "bulk" in the diet, the "better way" is to eat Kellogg's All-Bran. This crunchy toasted cereal—a natural food, not a medicine—has just the "bulk" you need. If you eat it every day, it will help you not only to get regular but to keep regular, month after month, by the pleasantest means you ever knew!

Eat All-Bran often, drink plenty of water, and "Join the Regulars." Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer. If your condition is chronic, it is wise to consult a physician.

SOME NOTABLE NEW BOOKS...

The delightful story of a New England country newspaper told by its editor... the autobiography of a famous American novelist... a stirring first novel backgrounded against the Napoleonic wars... fascinating factual sketches of life on the Mississippi... these are among the new books reviewed and commented on today in the Tribune book department on Page 16.

BOYHOOD FRIENDS OF WILLKIE PLAN SPECIAL REUNION

Add Half Hour Feature to Elwood Program.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Elwood, Ind., Aug. 13.—Wendell L. Willkie's old high school with its motto "The Hope of Our Country" will be the scene of a jollification Friday night and of a homecoming for the Republican nominee before the notification ceremonies Saturday afternoon.

Ray Willis.

The Friday night affair was added to the program mainly to provide entertainment for several thousand early arrivals for the main event. It will furnish a sounding board for many of the 275 Willkie songs submitted for campaign use.

Altho there are only 300 seats on the new wood platform in front of the high school, at least 10,000 people are expected to find standing room sufficiently close to hear thru a public address system. Willkie will not arrive in time for this affair.

Nominees to Speak.

There will be brief talks by Ray Willis, Republican nominee for United States senator; Glenn Hillis, candidate for governor of Indiana, and Maurice Robinson, nominee for representative of this, the 11th Congressional district.

Willkie will make his appearance beneath the school portal Saturday.

Because of the limited seating capacity of the high school, the committee, headed by Mayor George M. Bonham of Elwood, has been careful to give tickets for the Saturday event only to persons who have some direct tie with the Presidential nominee. Most are present and former residents of Elwood, either relatives or friends of the Willkie family whom he knew "'way back when."

Schoolmates to Attend.

There will be Willkie's high school graduating class, members of the football team on which he played, and members of his debating team at the Indiana university. Present, too, will be his high school sweetheart, Mrs. Elmer E. Meyer of Wheaton, Ill.

On the stand will be Dr. G. V. Newcomer, trusted family physician and friend of the Willkie family; J. N. Muzem, bootmaker who handcrafted shoes for Herman Willkie, the nominee's father, and twice has served as chief of police.

Fred Aldendorf, the grocer who for many years has been a close friend of the Willkies, will be there. So will Elmer Cox, for 35 years a printer in Elwood and now a "Willkie Democrat." H. E. Curtis, Elwood barber for 40 years and an intimate of Herman Willkie, will have a seat.

Teacher Cuts Trip to Return.

Among the others on hand to greet Willkie as an old friend will be his high school teacher, Miss Mary E. Cox, serving her 51st year in the school. She will cut short her New Mexico vacation to return Saturday. There will be A. H. Reich, merchant tailor in Elwood for 40 years; O. D. Hinshaw, druggist here for 38 years, and Dr. C. C. Harrold, one of several brothers who knew Wendell well.

Much of Willkie's half hour at the high school will be spent in personal greetings to these friends.

GIRLS ORGANIZE NICKEL SAVERS TO AID WILLKIE

Twenty working girls, who know how to squeeze the buffalo and have it squeal "Willkie," organized a unique campaign club last evening in the La Salle hotel. For the present they call themselves Office Girls Who Save Nickels to Help Willkie club.

The girls, who say their number will be doubled by next week, are going to contribute a nickel each a week to the Willkie campaign fund. "After November," asserted Miss Adelaide Sahs of Evanston, president, "it will be dollars we'll save. We're going to Washington, D. C., in March."

The club was started last week over a lunch counter by seven loop stenographers. They decided to omit their desserts and save their nickels to go to Elwood, Ind., this Saturday. "I've been wanting to cut out desserts for a long time," said a plump, little file clerk. "Now I have a good reason."

★ TODAY IS POST DAY

One secret they can't steal from America

YOU are looking at a man with an idea. An idea for an ingenious new machine.

By the time this machine is built, a dozen foreign governments will want to find out how it works. They'll send swarms of technical experts over here to prowl in our factories. Just as they came to study the machines that gave us our cars, our telephones and radios, our "American way of life."

And yet—they can have all our blueprints, and they still won't understand the secret of "how we do it." Because you can't duplicate American industry just by copying American machines.

Men with ideas built American industry. A free people with no one to put the brakes on Yankee ingenuity. A system whereby fair competition sifts out the winners, and allows small business men to become big business men—just so long as they stay a little ahead of the pack.

There's a "blueprint" of a man-with-an-idea in this week's Post. A boy fresh out of college, who understood machines and one thing more—the theory of mass production.

To meet people like this—the men who are helping hew out the American way—from dime store wizard to government official, from successful storekeepers to ambassadors—millions of people turn each week to The Saturday Evening Post.

To the biggest magazine audience in America, the Post is the national scene, "America Between Two Covers." Perhaps that is why people feel a bit differently about the Post than about any other magazine.

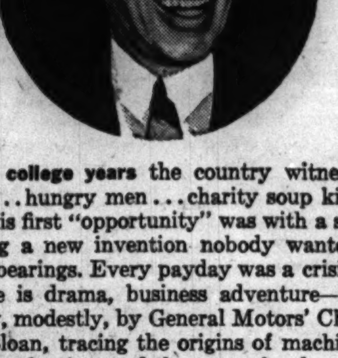
Adventures of a White-Collar Man



In his college years the country witnessed panic . . . hungry men . . . charity soup kitchens. His first "opportunity" was with a shop making a new invention nobody wanted—roller bearings. Every payday was a crisis.

Here is drama, business adventure—told simply, modestly, by General Motors' Chairman Sloan, tracing the origins of machines, mass production, and the men who dreamed them into being. First of five chapters.

Alfred P. Sloan, Jr.
tells his life story

Young Ames aids a damsel in distress

The missing girl was wearing a red-and-white striped shawl . . . and she was pretty. That's all Young Ames knew. Except that strange things can happen to a girl who gets lost among the hoodlums of New York's Bowery. But Leave It to Ames . . . A colorful short story by Walter D. Edmonds.

Vivid diary of Dunkirk's evacuation

Nobody yet knows the full story of how 885 boats rescued 335,490 British and French troops from Dunkirk. The Post cabled a British naval officer and he sent back individual diaries, stories of survivors. His account of that incredible amateur armada, one of the greatest war scenes of all time, is in Dunkirk Diary.

He bet too much for the bookies

Maybe you don't collect $50,000 in an afternoon for picking the right horse. But wouldn't you like to know the "rules" of one who did? Clem McCarthy writes the last chapters on Pittsburgh Phil, the man who made betting a business.

She's 26, weighs 90, and she's a sea captain!

A year ago she was writing copy in an advertising agency. $800 bought her a broken-down 86-foot freighting schooner on the Chesapeake, months of gales, freezings, sinkings, and so on—and she loves it! 8,000 FESTIVAL MUSICIANS TO BE IN GRAND ENTRY

Repeat a Feature Event of Last Year.

Festival Tickets!

Tickets for the Chicagoland Music Festival, which will be held next Saturday night in Soldiers' field are on sale at 50 cents and $1 at The Tribune Public Service offices in Tribune Tower and at 1 South Dearborn street. All seats are reserved. Mail orders should be addressed to the Festival Ticket Manager, Tribune Tower, and must be accompanied by a check or money order made payable to the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.

BY CHARLES LEAVELLE.

Two events Saturday night will typify the tradition that has grown up about the Chicagoland Music Festival, which will be held for the 11th time in Soldiers' field.

The first will be the appearance of John Charles Thomas, famous American baritone, whose presence will continue the festival custom of presenting the great names of music.

The second will be the grand entry of 8,000 musicians, a cast which has given the festival the distinction of being the world's greatest mass music event that is regularly held.

History Made in 1934.

It will be Mr. Thomas' second appearance at the festival. In 1934, when Chicago's great summer show was only five years old, he made musical history in Soldiers' field.

This year Mr. Thomas will sing the "Largo al Factotum" from the "Barber of Seville," by Rossini; "Home on the Range," and "God Bless America." His versatility is attested by his ability to sing operatic arias and popular songs with equal appeal.

It was only last year that the grand entry of the entire festival cast was attempted for the first time. And it was a large order.

Soldiers' field is a large place and there was some thought that even 8,000 people might look skimpy on the vast expanse of green that is the arena. It was just at dusk that the entrance began. From Gate O at the south end and from the side entrances of the field the multitude of musicians moved in.

Proves to Be Great Spectacle.

The booming of bands filled the night with music. Bright uniforms, golden horns and silver batons glinted the glow of searchlights that were switched on as the twilight deepened.

From the high seats at the north end of the great oval the massed choruses marched down. A thunder of applause welled up. The spectacle was probably the greatest in the history of a festival that is made up of great spectacles.

This year it will be repeated. And there will be no fear that 8,000 performers may not fill the field.

The massed bands at the 1940 festival will be augmented by 500 members of visiting musical units which will arrive Friday night and Saturday morning for the national convention of the Fraternal Order of Eagles. They will march into the arena with the 2,000 other bandsmen and will occupy seats of honor after their part in the show.

Audience to Sing "America."

When all the performers are on the field, Dr. Edgar Nelson, general choral director of the festival, will lead the audience in singing "America." The 90,000 voices will be accompanied by the 2,000 bandsmen.

Next the brazen voices of the bands will be lifted in the "Will Rogers March," by Arthur Pryor. It was written to honor the memory of the nation's great cowboy philosopher, who was killed in an Alaskan airplane crash in 1935. Oscar Anderson, supervisor of instrumental music in the Chicago public schools, will direct.

Finally, the massed bands will play "The Thunderer," the stirring march by John Philip Sousa. It will be directed by Frank Simon, who for many years was solo cornetist with Sousa's band. Since leaving Sousa, Mr. Simon has made a name for himself as a radio conductor.

"Home on the Range" will be heard a second time on the program when it is played by the Bengal Guards of Orange, Tex., High school. One of their musical and precision marching routines is built about the song.

There are 101 of the Bengal Guards and with them will be nurses, chaperons, directors, and their sponsor, H. J. Lutcher Stark, Orange millionaire and philanthropist, who is making possible their trip.

Rep. Bankhead to Notify Wallace in Iowa Aug. 29

New York, Aug. 13 (AP).—Representative William B. Bankhead of Alabama, speaker of the house, has been chosen to notify Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace of his nomination for the Vice Presidency, James A. Farley, national Democratic chairman, announced today. Formal acceptance by Secretary Wallace of his nomination as President Roosevelt's running mate at a ceremony in the City coliseum at Des Moines, Ia., Aug. 29 will mark the formal opening of the Democratic campaign, Farley said.

W. C. T. U. NAMES ITS OFFICERS FOR NEW TERMS

One of the five officers reëlected at yesterday's sessions of the national W. C. T. U. convention at the Stevens hotel boasts a tenure of office embracing the 1915-'20 rise of federal prohibition, the prohibition years, and repeal.

She is Mrs. Margaret C. Munns of Evanston, who completed 25 years as national treasurer of the organization yesterday and was rewarded with another term. Others reëlected are Mrs. Ida B. Wise Smith of Evanston, president; Mrs. D. Leigh Colvin of New York City, vice president; Mrs. Anna Marden De Yo of Evanston, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Nellie G. Burger of Springfield, Mo., recording secretary.

The W. C. T. U went on record as opposed to bank nights, bingo, punch boards, and slot machines, and urged "that Christian women refrain from any games of chance no matter for what purpose the money is to be used." A resolution indorsing the Johnson bill as protection "against the unwarranted invasion of our homes by liquor advertising over the radio" was unanimously adopted.

Miss Vera Mae Massey, 22 years old, of Bloomington, Ind., who is majoring in speech at Indiana university, won the fifth annual Grand Diamond speech contest medal. She recited "The Crash," by Elizabeth Emerson.

COUNTY WINNERS CHOSEN IN THREE FESTIVAL TRIALS

Adjudged Best on Violin, Accordion, Cornet.

Violins, piano accordions, and cornets filled the ballroom of the Drake hotel with music for three hours last night as 39 musicians competed in Cook county contests of the 11th annual Chicagoland Music Festival.

Miss Emma Rund.

The evening was a great occasion in two ways for William G. Benes, 17 years old, 1410 Gunderson avenue, Berwyn, who took first place in the violin contest.

Benes played Potstock's arrangement of "Souvenir de Sarasate." It wasn't until after Capt. Howard Stuve, supervisor of instrumental music for the festival, had announced the winners that Benes learned William H. Potstock himself was in the audience all evening.

Gives Advice to Winner.

Potstock, an Oak Park resident, then graciously gaves Benes what he called "A few little tips that might help him in the final contest Saturday morning."

"But the young man is an excellent player and should have a good chance," Potstock said.

Potstock was proud of the fact that 5 of the 10 competing violinists played his arrangement during the evening. "It is difficult, but they all showed talent," he said.

Benes has just been graduated from Morton High school. In 1938 and 1939 he won first place as a soloist in the national high school contest.

Second place in the violins went to John Svoboda, 2328 North Christiana avenue, 18 years old, and third place to Robert P. Kalter, 19, of 7806 Eberhart avenue.

16 in Accordion Contest.

Sixteen accordionists turned out for the county contest. Two of three judges reported a tie for first place between James Klicka, 17 years old, 2851 South Drake avenue, and Evelyn Kratky, 17, of 3041 South Trumbull avenue. The first place went to Klicka when the third judge favored him.

Phil Diorio, 17 years old, 730 North Central avenue, won third place.

In the cornet contest, George Olisar, 18 years old, 2423 Cuyler avenue, Berwyn, won first place. Second place went to Robert Haddick, 14, of 1847 South 55th court, Cicero, and third to Joseph C. Lachky, 14, of 2618 South Spaulding avenue. Richard Moore, fourth place winner, lives in Midlothian, is 44 years old, and the father of five.

The contest was judged by Capt. Louis Walz, Harold Zlacnik, and Marcel Akerman. The finals will be held at 9 a. m. Saturday in the Chicago Towers club, 501 North Michigan avenue.

The Cook county vocal finals will be held at 7 o'clock this evening in the ballroom of the Drake hotel. The public will be admitted. An admission fee of 25 cents will be charged.

A crowd of 1,500 attended the Greater South Side music festival at Jackson park last night. It was sponsored by the Greater South Side Four Arts league, whose chairman and founder is Miss Emma Rund. Winners of the south side contest who sang were: Aldona Grigonis, lyric soprano, 3322 South Union avenue; Max Fitting, tenor, 6717 Perry avenue, and Virginia Parker, dramatic soprano, 1532 East Marquette road.

WOMAN, 30, KILLED BY PLUNGE AFTER A DRINKING PARTY

Mrs. Polly Corey, 30 years old, died in Augustana hospital last night several hours after she had fallen or was pushed out of the bedroom window of her third floor apartment at 157 Eugenie street. William Ogden, 36, a commercial artist, who was in the room at the time of the fall, was arrested by Hudson avenue police.

Mrs. Polly Corey and Wm. Ogden.

Ogden told Assistant State's Attorney Blair Varnes that he and Mrs. Corey had been drinking in her apartment, most of the afternoon. About 4 o'clock they began to quarrel. Mrs. Corey went into the bedroom, he said, and he followed her. They continued to quarrel and she struck Ogden, according to his story. He pushed her and she fell back toward the open window, Ogden said. Before he could catch her, she fell over the ledge.

Neighbors took the woman to the hospital, where she died of internal injuries. Ogden fled, but was seized later by Detectives John M. Hanrahan and Bert Richter in his office at 500 North Dearborn street. Ogden lives at 3714 Wabansia avenue.

REALTY DEALER LEAPS TO DEATH AT LOOP HOTEL

Martin K. Ash, a real estate dealer, leaped to his death early today from the bathroom window of his room on the seventeenth floor of the Fort Dearborn hotel, 117 West Van Buren street. His body, clad only in socks and garters, landed on the La Salle street elevated station platform.

Mrs. Etta Sander, 3604 Pine Grove avenue, a widow, who was in the room with Ash, told Central police he had been drinking heavily and had threatened to end his life. She persuaded him to take a shower, but when he went into the bathroom, he took off his clothing and jumped out of the window. Ash was 39 years old and managed several properties for his mother, who lives at the Chicago Beach hotel. Mrs. Sander, who is 44, said she had known him for ten years.

ADKINS LEADING GOV. BAILEY IN ARKANSAS RACE

Former Revenue Official Tops Field of Four.

Little Rock, Ark., Aug. 13 (AP).—Returns from 1,238 of the state's 2,002 precincts tonight put Homer M. Adkins, former internal revenue collector, far out in front of Gov. Carl E. Bailey in the race for the Arkansas Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

Adkins took the lead in first returns and increased his advantage steadily thereafter. Unofficial tabulations gave Adkins 62,848, Bailey 46,912.

The two other candidates, J. Rosser Veneable, Little Rock world war veteran, and Frank White, Magnolia merchant, were far behind. A tabulation of 956 precincts gave each fewer than 300 votes.

Majority Is Required.

Reports of "normal" turnouts in all sections led to estimates that 300,000 of the state's 351,000 qualified electors had voted. A majority is necessary to nominate—tantamount to election in Arkansas. Otherwise, the two top candidates in each race meet in the final primary Aug. 27.

Chief interests centered in Gov. Bailey's effort to win a third term—A feat accomplished by only one governor in the state's history. Adkins received the active backing of the state's two United States senators, Hattie W. Caraway and John E. Miller.

Senator Thomas in Lead.

Boise, Idaho, Aug. 13 (AP).—Senator John Thomas established a commanding lead for nomination on the Republican ticket tonight in early returns from the state's primary election.

Fragmentary returns from nine out of 792 precincts gave Thomas, who seeks election to the unexpired portion of the term of the late Senator William E. Borah, 677 votes to 284 for his six opponents combined.

Mayor Chase E. Clark of Idaho Falls, bidding for the governor's seat now occupied by Republican C. A. Bottolfsen, led his two opponents for the Democratic nomination.

With 12 incomplete precincts reported, Clark had 953 votes to 650 for Attorney General J. W. Taylor, and 163 votes for James L. Barnes of Hansen.

Texas G.O.P. Nominates.

Beaumont, Tex., Aug. 13 (AP).—The state Republican convention heard Texas's Democratic commissioner of agriculture, J. E. McDonald, discuss farm problems today, then nominated candidates for all state offices except his.

McDonald recently aroused a storm in state Democratic circles by visiting Wendell L. Willkie, Republican Presidential nominee, at Colorado Springs, Colo.

George C. Hopkins, Dallas business man, was chosen to oppose Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel, recently renominated for a second term. George I. Shannon of Amarillo was named to run against Senator Tom Connally.

"WAR IN THREE MONTHS."

The Washington program has a strange slogan: "War in three months; ready for it in four years." In the National Guard maneuvers in New York trucks are labeled "Tank." That is for the information of the referees. They are to score a truck so labeled with the striking power of a tank. Three months from now we'll still have the signs but not the tanks.

"The tanks will be slow in coming," William S. Knudsen told the senate and house committees. Mr. Knudsen of General Motors is the production coördinator. "The tooling will take eight or ten months." The equipment for an army of 2,000,000 will be ready "by the middle of 1944." Until then we'll be using tank signs.

The National Guard troops now in the field for training use gas pipes for antitank guns against the tank signs. That's a better break for the boys with the trucks than for the boys with the gas pipes. The trucks can run over the pipes. Since Mr. Roosevelt asked for 50,000 planes a year 33 military planes have been ordered. Congress appropriated 400 million dollars in June for army planes but Secretary Stimson told his congressional listeners that he couldn't get going until the industrialists knew what to expect from the treasury department.

According to the secretary of war more would be accomplished by a reasonable, fair and immediate decision on taxes and amortization than by any other governmental procedure at this time. That affair drags. There is hurry to conscript men who cannot be armed and to call out the National Guard. There will be a month or so of nice weather for it and then there'll be a matter of winter housing, presumably in the south. It hasn't been attended to. The easiest way will be to print some more signs. "This is a cantonment."

Very little in the American scene conduces to peace of mind. The statesmen who are making a four year preparation for war in three months may be right in both calculations. There is no reason to doubt that they are right in the first. If we could be ready in three months for something that might happen in four years our prospects might seem more reasonable. We all might be a little happier about it if pains were being taken to stave off the war until we were ready for it. It might pay to be as inoffensive as we can be, if we are in danger, until the tanks, planes, and ships were ready with the men to fight them.

It might also seem reasonable to manage affairs so as to take on one enemy at a time, say in one ocean at a time, at least until we had a two ocean fleet. Nothing in such suggestions appears pertinent in Washington. We are inviting Japan to declare itself in whenever trouble starts. Japan may accept the invitation. War in three months, some tanks and airplanes in a year, full army equipment in four years, and some new battleships in five years. That's our war program. Just now the congressional appropriations are our first line of defense. It is to be hoped that the hostiles can read signs.

THE NEW DEAL BOOK.

Mr. Willkie says that persons who violate the law by illicit solicitation and extraction of campaign contributions or by making such contributions will have to answer for it if he is elected. They will be prosecuted.

The New Deal national committee has changed its chairman but not its methods. Four years ago Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Farley sponsored the campaign book. This year Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Flynn sponsor it, tho Attorney General Jackson warned Flynn against the sale of the book.

Mr. Quayle, treasurer of the Democratic committee, thought the federal law could be evaded by sending the books to state and local organizations for sale. Mr. Jackson of the law department politely remarks that it would be fair to say that this interpretation is not accepted or approved by the department of justice. Mr. Flynn says that Mr. Willkie is perfectly safe in promising to prosecute if elected. The "if" makes him safe. But do the prospective law violators think that they will be safe? The "if" may not look so very large or protective to them. Mr. Flynn suggests that they'll be safe after election. They may not care to take that additional interest in the election returns.

Four years ago the high pressure salesmen sold advertising to individuals and corporations with the suggestion that if it did not get any business elsewhere it would open the doors of many purchasing departments in Washington.

Some corporation heads who were beguiled into buying space or books later switched the cost from the company books to their own, having been informed that the law might hold the company for an illegal corporation contribution to a political committee. The Hatch bill added some provisions to the corrupt practices act and the law is clear enough.

Mr. Roosevelt made some of the Farley books more attractive to prospective customers who had bookish friends they wanted to remember at Christmas by writing his name in them. That made the contribution $250 per book, a trifling sum when considered alongside other amounts with which the signature is associated. Mr. Willkie's remarks suggest to the New Deal politicos that if they have a deficit this year they'd better regard it as they regard the national deficits, as a debt that doesn't amount to anything because they owe it to each other.

TRACTION MUDDLE.

The federal loan of $53,000,000 will not be available for Chicago's traction improvements until some time in 1942 under the terms laid down by the federal loan administrator. It is predicted that the Chicago subway cannot be placed in operation before 1943 because the loan is being relied upon to supply funds for the purchase of subway cars and track.

The principal insistence of the RFC is that Chicago's elevated, surface, and bus lines must be merged into one system. Over 13 years have been spent in trying to bring this about. Over $4,000,000 has been used from the traction fund to build up unification plans and pay costs of litigation growing out of the effort. The companies themselves have spent approximately $3,000,000 since 1926 on receivership costs and plans for reorganization. A score of volumes comprising thousands of pages have gone into the records of receiverships and bankruptcies. Meanwhile the growth and prosperity of the city have been retarded and the convenience of its citizens ignored by the failure to rehabilitate the city's transportation system.

On May 25 Mayor Kelly announced that an agreement had been reached with the transit lines on all important points in controversy. It was agreed then that a unification ordinance would be drafted jointly by city attorneys and representatives of the transit lines. Instead of that, however, the city representatives independently drafted an ordinance in synopsis form in accordance with their own interpretation of the agreement. The draft of the ordinance has been passed back and forth between the transportation committee of the city council and the transit representatives.

The bickering and delays occasioned by this method of procedure have now reached the point where certain aldermen on the transportation committee say that the city has not agreed to anything; that all points of the ordinance are tentative and subject to final action by the committee. The issue is further clouded by an attempt to resurrect the old and discarded theory of municipal ownership. An alarm has also been raised as to the valuation of the surface and elevated lines, which, it is claimed, contains $150,000,000 worth of "water," and it is said that a fair return upon that valuation will require an 8 cent, 9 cent, or even 10 cent fare.

There are two kinds of valuations: one for purchase and the other for rate-making purposes. The matter of rates and fares is not involved in the ordinance in question. Under the terminal permit act of 1929, passed by the Illinois legislature, Chicago will set up a transit commission composed of three men appointed by the mayor and approved by the city council. This commission will exercise all the rate-making powers formerly conferred upon the Illinois Commerce commission. At that time the question of valuation for rate-making purposes will be a pertinent question. The alarms raised on this point now are premature.

The price to be paid for the bus line is another bone of contention. The buses have franchises from the park boards expiring in 1944, but none of them is operating under a city franchise. The Chicago Motor Coach company last year is said to have earned a net profit of $770,000. Capitalizing that figure at 6 per cent would give a valuation as high as $12,000,000. The actual physical assets, however, are said by experts to be in the neighborhood of only $5,500,000. It should be axiomatic that the for sale valuation of a public utility should not be based upon its earnings when its rates are subject to regulation and control by a governmental agency. The city should see to it that no more than a fair and just amount is paid to the bus company.

Meanwhile time is being wasted in bickering over such small items as the division of revenue from subway advertising.

Politics is largely responsible for the delay in bringing this matter to a conclusion. Such matters as future extension of the subway, elimination of the elevated loop structure, etc., need not necessarily be settled now. We should have a traction ordinance ready for a referendum vote at the November election.

HOLLYWOOD CENSORS MISS AUSTEN.

Jane Austen's father was a clergyman, and most of her novels, including "Pride and Prejudice," were written in the parsonage. The first authoritative voice to pronounce her a writer of genius was Archbishop Whately's.

The Rev. Mr. Austen was not offended by his daughter's portrayal of the Rev. Mr. Collins in "Pride and Prejudice," and presumably the archbishop was delighted with it. Hollywood feels differently about it. Hollywood appears to have a rule that clergymen must not be less than perfect in the movies, and accordingly, in the movie version of the novel, Mr. Collins is not a clergyman. He is a librarian.

That doesn't spoil the movie but it does deprive it of some of its salt. The movie, by the way, is good. It is better than the play which was shown here two or three years ago because it follows the story more closely and also because in the main it is better acted. The movie would be still better if Mr. Collins were a clergyman.

Hollywood ought to be ashamed of its timidity. A good deal can be said for a general rule against ridiculing the cloth in the movies, but Hollywood knows that Miss Austen is incapable of bad taste and it knows, also, that "Pride and Prejudice" is required reading in half the high schools of the country and ought to be required reading in the other half. The producer would have risked nothing in sticking to the story, and he could have counted upon the support of every literate clergyman in the United States if any one had raised an objection.

Editorial of the Day

PUBLIC SPOILSMAN NO. 1.
[St. Louis Post-Dispatch.]

The renomination of Kenneth D. McKellar for a fifth consecutive term as United States senator from Tennessee rings no bells. McKellar succeeded to Reed Smoot's title as public spoilsman No. 1, and has more than lived up to it. He never misses a chance to battle the merit system, is always ready to lead the patronage boys in new raids. Other states will need to do more for the cause of democracy than Tennessee has done.

Alsace was French until 1870, when the Germans took it. The French got it back in 1918. Now it is in German hands once more. Why don't the superefficient Nazis just put on zippers?—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

MORNING WALK.

It was early morning. The world slept, except for the birds awake since daybreak. Down a wood path, pungent with the smell of rain-washed earth, I walked in reverie . . . with wavering faith, with need of strength to face the tragic marching of events. The wood was full of friendliness; the trees had laced green boughs to shelter from the sun; birds hidden in the foliage chirped a cheery welcome; the moss-grown paths were cool and springy to my step . . . even the morning light shone palely amber. . . . And in the soothing stillness my tired nerves relaxed. My fears slipped away. I forgot the hurry and hysteria, the hate and greed possessing the outside world. I forgot the fury and the fighting overseas. . . . With hope renewed, I turned to the awakening world.

It was only a little wood lying close to a clamorous city. How could it hold such deep peace and assurance?

ELWOOD.

Got to thinkin' some o' Elwood
And the folks down there I knew;
Sorter found myself a wishin'
That I lived in Elwood, too,
'Cause somethin's come to Elwood,
Somethin' more than just renown,
Somethin' more than just the fact that
It's a candidate's home town.

The same thing come to Springfield
When the country, once before,
Found itself a facin' trouble
That had shook it to the core.
People somehow thought o' Springfield
As their capital of hopes
When the threat of utter ruin
Had 'em hangin' on the ropes.

Now we're headin' up in Elwood
In much that sort of way,
All our hopes that our tomorrows
Can be saved from our today.
Folks are thinkin' that in Elwood
We have centered up the cause
Of wakin' up the country
From its dream o' Santa Claus.

Nonsense Story.

An anxious man visited his physician.

"You've got to do something for me, doctor," he said, nervously plucking at his coat and collar.

"What is it?" inquired the physician.

"Well, you don't have to throw them all over me," answered the doc crossly.

A PROPER PENALTY.
[St. Louis Post-Dispatch.]

Frank J. Boehm, former executive vice president of the Union Electric Co., is sentenced to five years in the federal penitentiary as an outgrowth of the utility's lavish and corrupt political expenditures.

Boehm was convicted of perjury. He had been indicted for testifying falsely before the SEC inquiry about the company's illegal practices, of which he denied all knowledge. The evidence developed against him, and the company, too, was overwhelming.

The enormity of Union Electric's practices was summed up devastatingly by Judge Moore:

> Since the day of the Whisky Ring fraud cases, tried in this court 'way back when my predecessor, Judge Dyer, was district attorney, there never has been anything I know of in this court, in any criminal prosecution, that revealed the shocking sordid details of corruption shown in this case.

The quoted paragraph expresses, literally and precisely, the city's outraged public opinion. And the tragic irony of it is that the whole vicious enterprise, for such it was, was wholly unnecessary.

There are utilities far larger than Union Electric or its parent company, North American, which have not found it necessary to accumulate a slush fund or engage in wholesale bribery. A situation such as has been shown to have existed in Union Electric is possible only when crooks in the utility business and crooks in government get together.

Let no sympathy be wasted on Frank Boehm or the others who have been or may yet be convicted in that case. They are not "victims of a system," but of their own stupid and corrupt impulses.

WATCH THE TONGUE FOR CLEWS.

THE tongue is a great gossip concerning all matters except itself. If we could get it to talk, what tales we would hear! It could dictate volumes on adventures in eating—good, bad, and indifferent.

Few of us realize how much of a job the lingual apparatus performs. It takes part in swallowing, in the mastication of food, and in speaking. Provided with marvelous muscular control, it can be manipulated in any direction. If it deviates to one side or shows signs of atrophy, certain disorders may be suspected. If it trembles when protruded—while an organic difficulty may be thought of—the symptom may point only to weakness or exhaustion. Overindulgence in alcohol will produce this effect.

Then again, the organ functions in the matter of taste. The buds on its surface, coming in contact with substances within the mouth, convey pleasant or disgusting sensations. When it is heavily furred, stronger foods will be required in order to obtain a flavor. In a few diseases this power is lost, altho at times it may become exceedingly acute.

The whitish covering which so many of us observe at times is due to swelling and shedding of the outer layers of cells and their mixture with bacteria, plant fungi, and waste material. In ordinary circumstances this is rubbed or washed away by saliva. Nevertheless, its presence denotes an indiscretion in diet or that the general health is not up to par. When the hue darkens—becomes gray, yellow, or brown—unless some article in the menu is at fault, an investigation is demanded.

Mere dryness proves, as a rule, that the flow of saliva has been reduced. This is common in fevers or in those disturbances wherein one has lost a substantial amount of fluid from diarrhea or vomiting. Should the top appear crusted—broken or patchy—this means that too little moisture is available to the cells to permit them to do their work properly, and it must be supplied forthwith. Most of us are familiar with this condition, as it may occur subsequent to an attack of indigestion with diarrhea or whenever one suffers an acute infection with toxemia or poor elimination.

In jaundice, a yellowish discoloration may be manifest along the margins, or small, saffron tinged spots may be seen beneath the mucous membrane. We must not forget that vegetables and fruits will frequently occasion changes in color that will last for several hours. Blackberries and blueberries are common offenders. With children, dyes may be sucked from toys, and when the structure resembles Joseph's coat we may assume an artificial source.

No physician relishes an encounter with a beefy, deeply congested, grooved tongue. Such an appearance is typical of a wasting disease with the battle going against the patient. There may be little débris in evidence altho the entire region may be enlarged. What coating is noted is coarse and brownish in shade.

Fortunately we can use this signpost as a guide and—in anemia—its characteristically smooth quality indicates that the blood needs reinforcement. If this is combined with soreness or smarting we may test for the absence of hydrochloric acid in the gastric juice, too little hemoglobin, or too few red cells. If plant fungi begin to flourish in the neighborhood the surface should be scrubbed gently with a bit of sterile gauze wrapped about the finger or a soft rubber brush. Follow this procedure with a mouth wash and we will present a cleaner oral cavity to the next meal.

Of course, none of us will ever exhibit the heavy decorations that come "the morning after the night before."

FUMIGATION.

S. C. writes: Is it necessary to fumigate after scarlet fever?

REPLY.

This procedure is of little value. The room, however, should be thoroly renovated. Walls, ceiling, floor, woodwork, and wood and metal furniture should be scrubbed with soap and water. Rugs, carpets, draperies, etc., should be dry cleaned and sunned for two or three days. The windows may be left open for free circulation for several days. Bed clothing should be washed and aired thoroly.

VITAMIN K.

J. A. writes: What is the function of vitamin K in the system? Can any particular foods be eaten to overcome a deficiency?

REPLY.

It is necessary for the clotting of blood. One who has a tendency to hemorrhage should take a large quantity. It is frequently employed before surgical operations as a precaution. Sources are: Spinach, alfalfa, cabbage, tomatoes, hog liver, and perhaps wheat germ oil and bread made from flour that contains the wheat germ.

MODEL FOR OTHER TOWNS.

Chicago, Aug. 11.—It seems to me that community spirit not only in large towns but in small towns has been on the wane for some time.

It was, therefore, with great interest that I read that a little town [St. Charles, Ill.] is planning a fall festival. I think this is a splendid example of coöperation, friendliness, unity—something to be found in few other villages.

At this festival there will undoubtedly be hundreds of ex-residents who will return, old-timers who will gather to reminisce, college boys and girls who will have one last chance to see all their friends together before leaving for school, young men and women who have migrated to the bigger cities will return home to discuss the good old times with their friends. This all has such a sense of brotherhood that I think it would be well for all other towns to follow this small city's plan.

TRAVEL AND TIPS.

Chicago, Aug. 12.—"A Vacationer" is right in his statement that the Red Caps in the railroad terminals expect not only the new specified fee of 10 cents for each piece of baggage carried but a tip besides, judging by my experience on a trip just completed which included Pittsburgh, Washington, Baltimore, New York, and Buffalo. He is also right that this becomes costly. At Buffalo, for instance, having to leave our baggage at the depot for a few hours before going to our hotel, we paid these handling charges on two bags:

Thirty cents to the check room, 20 cents for checking, 30 cents to a cab, 30 cents to our hotel room, 20 cents to a cab the next morning, and 30 cents to our train—$1.60 exclusive of tips to the cab drivers, just for an overnight stop.

Travel is hardly as delightful as the travel literature indicates. Such racketeering and unnecessary inconveniences are the reason. We tried one of the new coach trains. The lights were lowered about 11 and our coach was quiet with sleeping passengers. For a stop at midnight the conductor threw on the lights, talked loudly, roused every one and then left the lights blazing for the balance of the night. A low priced breakfast was announced with the provision that it must be ordered before 7. But the conductor locked the washroom, insisting there was some one using it, opened it when finally persuaded it was not in use and when we finally reached the diner only a high priced a la carte breakfast was available. In such ways the really farsighted and progressive management of the railroads is discounted by boneheaded treatment of the passenger on the road who is made to feel "There's no place like home."

ANOTHER VACATIONER.

Chicago, Aug. 12.—I read with interest "A Vacationist" complaint about tips at railway stations. We have just returned from our vacation with the following experience:

Upon arriving at a strange station we asked a Red Cap who approached where the checkroom was. He promptly picked up our five small pieces of luggage [for two of us] and set them down about five yards away. We hadn't seen the checkroom because a pillar was in front of it. This cost us 50 cents. Then, as we had to wait two hours for our train, we paid 50 cents to have the five pieces checked. Then we had them taken to our train on a truck, which cost us 50 cents more. And the porter on the coach needed a tip to store them away in the racks. When the train arrived at our destination it was 50 cents again to have the bags taken to a cab. And so on.

We solved the high cost of tips on our homeward journey by carrying our bags ourselves, as did many others. Next year we shall buy two very large suitcases, so the Red Caps will get only 20 cents for the same weight of luggage. My suggestion is that the railroads could cut down the tipping cost [luggage tips are only the least of those required on even the simplest vacation] by not charging so much to transport bags on trucks to the trains. Only one Red Cap pushes the truck which carries several dozen suitcases. Isn't 10 cents a piece a lot of profit?

FROM A MISSOURI FARMER.

Hinsdale, Ill., Aug. 9.—Inclosed is part of a letter I've received from a farmer down Missouri way. I thought you might want to use this letter in your columns to show your readers how the farmer really feels.

"Now about politics. The conscription business looks like it was trying to put us right under dictatorship. I thought they had that thing licked, but I guess not. I think we should get ready for protecting our own country, but I just can't see that Hitler will be over here in the next 30 or 60 days as some would have us think. Frankly, I doubt if he beats England.

"As to taxes: This wild spending has got to stop.

"And for the farmer, the present program has really not helped the small farmer—the little man who needs help the most hasn't got much if anything from it. I know because I am one of them. The big land owners are the only ones who have got any money, and I don't know if they really get much out of it. I can't see the idea of producing less to have more, at least it doesn't work that way for me.

"And, believe me, I don't throw my money away, either. I haven't had a new suit of clothes in 10 years. They tell us the farmer's income is so much greater now than it was and everything is just swell for him. I wish Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Wallace would get busy and see just where my part of these good times and prosperity have got sidetracked and get them started to coming to me, because I sure could use the help right now. I am not alone. I know others around here just like myself."

WHO ORDERED IT?

Chicago, Aug. 9. — Your paper announces that radio station WHIP will discontinue the German program and why?

This is a neutral country, so why deny the German-American citizens their privilege of having and enjoying their melodies, especially the old timers. If the radio stations discontinue the German program why not discontinue all the other foreign language programs and have only English?

I am an American born mother with two children and want to know if propaganda and hysteria are going to rule our country.

KNOWS ONLY ENGLISH.

AN ABSENTEE HUSBAND.

Chicago, Aug. 12.—Will you do me a favor? I am looking for my husband who disappeared in August, 1929. His weight was about 185 or 190 pounds. He is bald and pigeon toed, with a sallow complexion and gray eyes. Age 79 years. His name is Frank Engles.

I am very anxious to locate my husband and if any of your readers would help me find him I would be most grateful.

MRS. MARY ENGLES.

LOAF AND DRAW PAY FOR IT.

Chicago, Aug. 12.—I am an employer of forty to fifty factory workers and read with interest the letter from some one who wrote about the "dole" and his experience with an employé who would not work because she could get almost as much from the state without working.

Our business being somewhat seasonal, we had a slack period this spring and one of the girls who ordinarily earned about $17 a week was getting about $13 to $14 for 32 to 35 hours' work. One day she left without notice other than to tell the other employes that she couldn't see any sense in working for $13 or $14 when she could get $10 or $11 for 16 weeks without working—after which she'd get a job some place else for several months and repeat the process.

I protested the paying of the unemployment compensation, but to no avail, even though I explained that the employe left of her own accord and that the job was open to her if she wanted to return. The law evidently provides for the compensation payment regardless of the circumstances. The law should be changed so that the employer may have a voice in the payment of compensation money, as this situation is undoubtedly rampant thruout industry as a whole.

AN EMPLOYER.

REBUKING MR. CUDAHY.

Chicago, Aug. 10.—The President's censure of Ambassador Cudahy for telling about the respectable behavior of the German soldiers in the occupied areas and for his statements about the impending famine in Belgium set me thinking. Are we so close to totalitarianism that to speak the truth is taboo? Or are we so dependent on England that nothing must be said which might displease her?

M. S.

WOULDN'T BE LONG.

Alpena, Mich., Aug. 10. — If our nation's transportation system were nationalized [put under control of politicians], how long would it be before political drag would supplant merit as a qualification for employment in transportation?

IMMIGRATED AT 6 YEARS.

Chicago, Aug. 5.—[Friend of the People.]—I was 6 years old at the time I came from Europe with my parents, who died before they could become citizens of the United States. Was there a law passed since then that automatically made me a citizen or do I have to get my papers to become a citizen?

W. M.

Under the facts stated, the inquirer did not become a citizen. It appears that the procedure for him to follow, in order to become a citizen, is to file a declaration of intention [first paper], and when the same is at least two and not over seven years old apply for final papers.

The Oregon territory, including the present states of Oregon, Washington, Idaho, and parts of Montana and Wyoming, established with a territorial government. The northwest boundary between the United States and British possessions had been fixed in a compromise two years before. Nine years later, after much of Oregon had been settled, the people voted for statehood, and the state was admitted to the Union in 1859 with the present boundaries.

PROBE FINANCES OF COURT CLERK IN RADIO INQUIRY

Tells of Aid to Judge in Deciding Cases.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 13.—H. C. Mahaffy Jr., clerk of the federal District court in Wilmington, Del., today resumed his testimony before a senatorial committee investigating the strange circumstances surrounding the continuance of a government antitrust case against the Radio Corporation of America in 1932. Mahaffy startled the senators and a room full of observers with the statement that he often had "consulted" with the court about its opinions when the opinions were in the process of being written.

Mahaffy said he always found clerical work irksome and never liked it.

"If that's all there was to the job, I'd give it up in 10 minutes," he declared at one point.

Discusses Cases with Judge.

He has been clerk and deputy clerk in the Wilmington court for 47 years. He said what he does like about the job is listening to the trial of the cases and discussing them with the presiding judge afterward.

"You mean you have assisted the court in writing its opinions?" inquired Senator Charles W. Tobey [R., N. H.] after a moment of shocked silence.

"I wouldn't say assisted," the witness replied. "I have consulted with the court on the facts of the cases. I've always done that. There was nothing wrong about it that I could see."

Mahaffy, slightly built and short with a shining bald pate fringed with graying hair, was unabashed at the stir which this testimony caused. A few moments later, however, he blinked nervously thru his rimless glasses and squirmed as Senator Tobey, who is conducting the inquiry, took up the question of his personal finances.

Memory Poor on Finances.

The clerk, whose salary is $4,600 a year, admitted that he has a $16,000 home in Wilmington and rents another home for the summer; that he has two bank accounts and a safety deposit box, and that he also maintains a brokerage account in which there has been as much as $10,000 or $15,000 on deposit.

In response to inquiries as to the largest amount he ever put in the safety deposit box at one time, Mahaffy said he "guessed about $1,000."

"Where did that money come from?" asked Senator Tobey.

"I don't remember," Mahaffy answered.

"Is it such a common occurrence in your life, your getting $1,000 in a lump, that you don't remember the circumstances?"

"Well, I just don't recall right now," the clerk said with a head shake. "No recollection at all."

Charge Political Influence Used.

It has been charged before the committee that David Sarnoff, president of R. C. A., used political influence to sidetrack the antitrust suit, which was pending in the Wilmington federal court, until after the election of President Roosevelt in 1932. Sarnoff has been quoted as saying that he would have little trouble in "dealing" with Mr. Roosevelt when the latter took office.

The suit was scheduled to go to trial in October, 1932, but was continued until late November, after the election, and finally was terminated by the signing of a consent decree.

Testimony at previous hearings charged that Sarnoff by devious means contacted Senator George Moses [R., N. H.], who suggested the retention of Senator Daniel O. Hastings [R., Del.] to represent the Radio corporation in its efforts to get the continuance. Both Hastings and Moses have subsequently been defeated for reëlection and are no longer members of congress.

Fee Payments Alleged.

For their political influence, Senators Hastings and Moses are alleged each to have received $5,000 from the corporation. Hastings has admitted getting $7,500 but declared it was his regular fee as an attorney, altho he does not appear as an attorney of record in the case and never visited the court.

Records show, however, that shortly after Hastings was employed, the continuance was granted, messages so stating having been sent to lawyers for both sides by Clerk Mahaffy. It has been charged that the clerk was paid $15,000 for sending out this order. Mahaffy in a previous visit to the stand denied receiving any money but admitted that before he sent out the continuance order he had a secret conference in New York with Hastings.

Mahaffy testified last week that he had been called to New York to "advise" Hastings, a veteran lawyer, on the proper procedure for securing a delay in the prosecution of the R. C. A. case.

Bare Clerk's Nephew's Record.

Today while Mahaffy was on the stand, Senator Tobey also introduced in the record affidavits which are on file before the Supreme court of Delaware in connection with the application of Mahaffy's nephew for readmission to the bar. The nephew, Rodmond Mahaffy, whose father was R. C. A. attorney in Wilmington for about 10 years, resigned from the bar several years ago, according to the records.

His uncle, Clerk Mahaffy, admitted today that his resignation was forced because of shortages in an account for which he had been appointed receiver by Federal Judge John P. Nields, the presiding judge in the Wilmington court, who was appointed when Hastings was in the United States senate.

The affidavits were made out by two New York lawyers, Kenneth E. Walser and Richard B. Hand, counsel for the Missouri Kansas Pipe Line company, who told of being approached on a New York bound train by Rodmond Mahaffy as they were returning from Wilmington after having argued a case before Judge Nields.

Charge Offer of Aid.

According to the affidavits, Rodmond said he was interested in the case but warned the New York lawyers that they were not likely to win because the opposing counsel, William Button, was "a great friend" of the judge and the clerk. He added that his father, Button, and the judge had been in "several cases together" before Judge Nields had been appointed to the bench, according to the charges.

"He [Rodmond Mahaffy] said he was constantly in touch with his uncle, the clerk of the court, as well as with Judge Nields, and that he saw practically all of Judge Nields' opinions before they were handed down," said the affidavit made out by Attorney Walser, substantially the same as Attorney Hand's affidavit.

"He mentioned two cases by name, I do not recall the names, in which he claimed he had rewritten part of the opinion before the opinion had been released.

"He said that Judge Nields worked very closely with his uncle, the clerk, and that he was speaking to us with the authorization of his uncle. He said that he could be of considerable help to us in the case. The conversation ended at about that point. Mr. Mahaffy was slightly under the influence of liquor."

Clerk Close to Tears.

Mahaffy, close to tears as these documents were being read, asserted that the statements attributed to his nephew were untrue.

"But he's like that," the clerk said. "Two highballs make him wild. He was on a spree when he got into trouble with his receivership accounts and had to get out of the bar."

Check books and account ledgers from former Senator Hastings' law firm were submitted to the committee today and will be examined later. Hastings was not present.

A Washington lawyer, Roger Whiteford, who served as go-between in arranging for the meeting of former Senator Moses and Sarnoff which resulted in the hiring of Hastings, also was supposed to furnish the senators with his personal account books for 1932 and 1933.

FORBY ELECTED ZION CITY JUDGE FOR THIRD TERM

Theodore Forby was reëlected city judge of Zion yesterday for the third consecutive term. He defeated Stephen Drury, an investigator for the state parole board, 1,064 votes to 794. Judge Forby, who has served as judge for the last 12 years, carried all of the city's five wards. Andrew Hall was elected city clerk over Loren Fenton, 929 to 784. Judge Forby, who is 74 years old, charged during the campaign that C. I. O. factions were attempting to defeat him. He was sitting in the Lake County Circuit court in Waukegan during the hearing of contempt charges against the C. I. O. sitdown strikers at the Fansteel Metallurgical corporation in 1937. Thirty-nine of the defendants were sentenced to jail terms of 10 to 240 days and assessed fines of $100 to $1,000.

WAR ZONE REFUGEE SMUGGLES HIS DOG TO AMERICAN HAVEN

A tiny Maltese dog was exhibited here yesterday as the only animal to obtain passage from the war zone on a refugee boat.

Norman P. Stevenson, 65 Maple street, said he smuggled the dog, Buki, to the United States on the Spanish freighter, Mar Cantabrico. The boat sailed June 29 from Barcelona, and for 17 days Stevenson slyly fed and watered the dog until he disembarked in New Orleans, La., his cargo concealed in a perforated hand bag.

Stevenson said Buki probably saved his life on several occasions while in France by barking at night at the first sensation of approaching aircraft.

"Buki often gave the alarm before the air warden," Stevenson said.

STOLEN LUXURY LASTS 2 WEEKS; PAIR GO TO JAIL

For the last two weeks Marge Ahrens, blonde and 20 years old, and Nicholas Demetracakis, 25, lived a life of luxury. They rented an apartment in a fashionable hotel, patronized the finest restaurants, and visited the night clubs. Demetracakis, a former inmate of St. Charles School for Boys, always seemed to have plenty of money.

Yesterday the bubble burst. Demetracakis was arrested for stealing checks from mailboxes, and Marge was taken into custody for failure to pay a hotel bill of $97.

Demetracakis was locked up in the county jail pending his appearance before a federal grand jury. Marge will appear in the Women's court today on a charge of defrauding an innkeeper.

GUIDE to READING — BOOKS — NEWS and REVIEWS

Story of the Mississippi Teems with River's Life

"Big River to Cross," by Ben Lucien Burman. (John Day, $3.) To be published tomorrow.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

Ben Lucien Burman, who has written three memorable novels about the river—"Mississippi," "Steamboat Round the Bend," and "Blow for a Landing"—now for the first time gives us a factual book, altho his novels have all been so true in their facts and even in the tone of their fancies that they have seemed more record than fiction.

"Big River to Cross" is a series of chapters on every possible phase of life on the Mississippi, chapters so fascinating that readers will not skip a line for fear of missing something. And they may well scan each sentence, for here is not only the very soul of the father of waters but the essence of the lives which live on and by it.

Here are the fabulous tall tales of the roustabouts, their voodoo superstitions, their gayety, and their sadness unexpectedly embroidering the fascinating story of a great waterway's economic rebirth, its fantastic vagary of shifting shore line and ever snaking channels, and man's endless labor in conquering those vagaries.

Here a sleek river packet sweeps up from New Orleans to Saint Paul on an epic and pioneer journey, and a barge boat makes a hazardous journey downriver. Here the river reluctantly gives itself to the sea thru mosquito filled banks unexpectedly populated with Jugo-Slavs.

Here the north river Negroes roust in silence and the south river roustabouts chant their muscles into tautness. Here there is river fun and river sadness, showboats, gambling, sudden death. Here the river lights are tended with high courage by shantymen and women whose parents and grandparents before them tended these same lights. Here the shanty folk live, vividly, as do the boat crews.

Here are the fabulous tales, roistering laughter, a folklore rich and lush, and the author's love for the river, which is a mixture of tenderness and respect, fascination and minute knowledge of its whims and its majesties.

Thruout the book there echoes the plummet's soundings, "quarter twain, half twain, six feet" . . . and one feels on each page how truly the author has himself plumbed the river's spiritual as well as its actual depth.

Life of Observation

"The Bridge," by Ernest Poole. [Macmillan, $3.50.] Published yesterday.

Just 25 years ago a novel about New York called "The Harbor" was a spectacular best seller. It was the first novel of a young Chicagoan who had chosen, after he finished college, to live in New York and to dedicate himself to social service thru his pen. The world war had been raging in Europe not quite a year, and the world that he had expected to live in was being reshaped by might.

Now, a quarter of a century later, that novelist has written the story of his own life, which has spanned the most momentous years of modern times. The world again is being remade by might. How might failed before in its reshaping is tacit in this autobiography.

Ernest Poole was an active onlooker at much of that reshaping. He went to Russia in 1905 to try to understand and to write about the upheaval which was simmering there, and again in 1917, when the volcano burst. During the early days of the world war he went to Germany as a newspaper and magazine writer.

He has spent part of almost every year in Europe since then, sometimes as a wanderer, sometimes as an official observer, but always with ears and eyes wide open. He has always been a member of the "liberal" group of writers, altho his heritage was wholly conservative. He believed as a young man that the world actually was on its way to being better. But the last 25 years haven't strengthened that conviction.

Chicagoans will be especially interested in "The Bridge," for its first five chapters recall the Chicago of the '90s, when Ernest Poole was a boy here. He left Chicago in 1898, "but I was to go back many times," he writes, "for Chicago will never let me go." He remembers his father once said to him: "You're a lucky boy. You'll live to see Chicago finished." But, he continues: "I never have. I never will. Changing, changing all the time, like our whole country, it never stops. And it is of that restless human sea of change and growth, in Chicago and all over the world, that I have written ever since, as a little reporter of vast things seen."

Chicagoan's First Novel

"Broadsides," by R. W. Daly. [Macmillan, $2.50.] Published yesterday.

"Broadsides" is the first novel of another Chicagoan, to whom the world must seem to have changed less, because during his 24 years change has been so constant that it has almost become the norm of modern life.

Young Mr. Daly has chosen a period remote from today—the early nineteenth century—as the background for a tale which would be swashbuckling if it were told in the manner of today.

It is the story of Edward O'Corboy, a lusty Irish lad of 17, as the book opens, whose father, by being slain, has made him at that age the head of the family and "the O'Corboy." His father's death was at the hand of an Irishman in the French navy who resented the elder O'Corboy's counsel in dealing with the British, and young Edward joins the British navy for the romantic purpose of having a legal go at his father's slayer.

"Broadsides" is properly named, for it is a panorama of battles on the sea, culminating in Trafalgar and peopled with the great of the British admiralty of those exciting times. There is a pleasant little romance for those who must have their war flavored with love, but in the main the tale is of fierce fighting on often fiercer seas.

Mr. Daly has chosen to tell his story thru the mouth of Edward O'Corboy and in the pompous style of the period when a grandiloquent phrase was a deadly weapon in itself. The O'Corboy's humor has an occasional airing but mostly he's a solemn young man and his sometimes fantastically adventurous tale thus achieves authority.

Among Current Mysteries

Nero Wolfe on Trail.

"Where There's a Will," by Rex Stout. [Farrar & Rinehart, $2.]

Noel Hawthorne, a millionaire, is found slain at his country place. His will has practically disinherited his wife, children, and three sisters, leaving his fortune to a woman who had been his mistress. And when this woman, too, is killed, Nero Wolfe, the obese, orchid-loving sleuth, has a real problem. He finds the vital clew in a candid camera snapshot. Cleverly he builds a case against one man, knowing that only this way can he reach the truth, involving another. This is one of the best of Mr. Stout's stories. S. M. K.

Detective Short Stories.

"Mr. Fortune Here," by H. C. Bailey. [Crime Club, $2.]

Reggie Fortune, famous moaning Scotland Yard medico sleuth, who munches muffins and raises roses, does his best crime detecting in short stories. In the longer mystery stories Reginald sometimes lags. "Mr. Fortune Here," with nine well written and skilfully plotted crime tales, is one of Mr. Bailey's best. A. C.

Secret 'Agent Vies with Nazi Gestapo in Thrilling Story

"The Secret Weapon," by Francis Beeding. [Harpers, $2.]

Robert Marples is on his way to England to enlist in the British army when the ship is torpedoed. Marples takes some papers from a drowning Nazi agent, and from there on it's Marples against the gestapo. He is drafted for the British intelligence service and sent into Germany, where he impersonates the Nazi agent in an effort to free from a concentration camp a scientist who knows the other half of a high explosive formula found in the stolen papers. The description of the concentration camp and of Hitler in a plane over Poland presents powerful and terrible arguments against Hitlerism. It will keep you awake without trouble. R. C.

"Country Editor," by Henry Beetle Hough. [Doubleday-Doran, $3.] Published last Friday.

For 20 years Henry Beetle Hough and his wife have been editing a small newspaper in Edgartown, on the Island of Martha's Vineyard. During the populous summer season they now publish it semiweekly. The rest of the year it is just a country weekly.

The Houghs had good jobs in New York before they became country editors, but now they wouldn't exchange the Gazette office for the plushest lined sanctum in the world, and after you read this chronicle of their life and the lives of their village folk you'll know why.

This country editor's life is not easy. His working hours are never short. His material reward is neither spectacular nor easily come by. His responsibilities might, to many, seem a heavier debit than a credit in vital bookkeeping. But there is a rich nourishment in their lives. Life to this country editor is good, and the good life is, from any point of view, seldom come by.

"Country Editor" is written in a slow tempo. There is little exciting or—even when the event concerned was murder—dramatic about this chronicle. It is enveloped in calm.

It is concerned mostly with such simple things as the town meeting's argument about whether the town lights shall burn all night; the installation of a new second hand press at which the experts from the mainland simply threw out all parts that didn't seem to fit on the first trial; the contributors of local items, principally two indestructible old "ladies of the press"; the "characters" of Edgartown . . . and all the simple minutæ of daily life.

But when you have finished this book you realize that there has been a great deal of humor in these slow going pages, a great deal of common and happy sense, and that there remains about them in your memory the rare fragrance of contentment. F. B.

Authors and Their Work

Jan Struther, creator of the delightful "Mrs. Miniver" [Harcourt-Brace, $2], recently arrived from England with two of her children. Her husband is serving with the British army. Her 16 year old son also remained abroad, in school at Eton.

You remember in "Show Me a Land" [Appleton-Century, $2.50], by Clark McMeekin, that a plantation was lost on a horse race. If you think the collaborating authors made that up, you're mistaken. "We found one race in early Kentucky in which 12 pieces of real estate changed hands after one horse race," they recently said.

Alice Hegan Rice, author of that long ago classic, "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," is at work reading the proofs of her literary autobiography to be published in November. It is going to have the well nigh perfect title of "The Inky Way."

New Novel Out

Mildred Walker, author of the novel, "The Brewers' Big Horses," reviewed below.

"The Brewers' Big Horses," by Mildred Walker. [Harcourt-Brace, $2.50.] Published last Thursday.

"Rosscommon," by Charles Allen Smart. [Random House, $2.]

BY EDITH WEIGLE.

Our midwest Michigan and Ohio are the locales of these two new books, the first by the author of "Dr. Norton's Wife" and the second by the man who wrote the delightful and popular "R. F. D."

Mildred Walker begins the story of Sara Bolster when Sara was a little girl, in 1882, and follows her straight thru her life until 1918. The author also sketches the history of the Michigan town which she calls Armitage, where the Bolster family lives. Lumber has made wealth for many of the inhabitants. Each spring, however, sees a diminishing of the rush of logs down the river.

Sara cannot return to the private school she has been attending in Detroit because of "circumstances," as her mother terms the family's financial reverses. When she gets a job on the town paper eyebrows are lifted, but when she marries William Henkel, from the wrong side of the river, her friends are deeply shocked.

The women's temperance group actively opposes her when she takes over the Henkel brewery, after her husband's death, but she goes right on. Sara is a human, appealing, courageous character and her story makes interesting reading.

"Rosscommon" begins with a scene in the farmhouse that is familiar to readers of "R. F. D." The author's wife reads a "for sale" notice in the local paper.

On the night before the auction the author and a young friend go to call on Mr. MacDonald, owner of Rosscommon, to ask him if there is anything they can do. It is then that, sitting among the piles of pictures, fine old furniture, and treasures that are to be given to the highest bidder on the morrow, the squire of Rosscommon tells them of his dreams. For years he has lived in a world of his imagining, a Utopia where his lands were tilled and enjoyed by a small community of friendly, coöperative people.

Mr. Smart's book is written simply, sensitively, quietly. It has a wistful, delicate atmosphere.

BY WILL DAVIDSON.

To those who consider it rather significant that their lives encompass the span of aviation's progress from Kittyhawk to Stukas it is something of an eye opener to contemplate this life that has bridged the years between the first telegraph line in America and today's television; between the war with Mexico and the battle for Britain. It is no less than amazing to contemplate such a life by means of the energetic and entertaining writings of the man who still is living it.

William Henry Jackson must be classed with the human phenomena of our age. At 97 he is about to undertake a part in the celebration of Montana's 50th anniversary as a state. A year ago he missed marching in the last parade of his civil war comrades in New York because he was running up and down the sidelines photographing the historic event.

While in his 50s he made a world jaunt that included a subzero, midwinter sledge trek 3,000 miles across Siberia. Two decades earlier he had made the series of spectacular photographs which convinced the country that there really should be a chain of national parks to preserve the natural wonders about which the Jim Bridgers and the Father De Smets had told such unbelievable tales.

That job followed by a good many years Jackson's bullwhacking trip to Salt Lake City as an ox train driver, and his return on horseback from the sleepy coast village of Los Angeles as nursemaid to a herd of wild horses. His western jaunt, in turn followed his service in the civil war, and that was the climax of a boyhood which included among its early memories the visits of one Samuel Wilson, the original of "Uncle Sam."

A number of things have contributed to the readability of this amazing autobiography: an artist's instinct for economy of expression, the author's great vitality and the concomitant interest he took in the life of his time, and the fact that he kept a daily journal over nearly 80 of his 97 years. Further, it is illustrated lavishly with his own sketches and photographs.

This is more than autobiography. It is history. It is adventure. It is biography. And it is elegant entertainment.

An Absorbing Tale of 3 Generations in an English Family

"The Unquiet Field," by Beatrice Kean Seymour. [Macmillan, $2.50.]

An absorbing story of three generations of the Sherrards, an English family, unfolds here. Beginning in 1720 when the slave trade was getting into its stride, it follows the fortunes of Bartley and Lavinia Sherrard, first cousins whose fathers dominate the trade in Liverpool. Their marriage, taken for granted by every one, fails to materialize. The girl forms a romantic attachment for a nobleman by whom she bears a daughter.

Bartley's son falls in love with an American girl who converts him to a belief in slavery and the scene shifts to the slave coast. The families are reunited in the third generation with the marriage of Bartley's grandson and Lavinia's granddaughter. And the story ends in the stirring era of invention in the 1830s and 1840s, when such magnificent ships as the Great Western and the Cutty Sark were making ocean history. C. L.

MURDER IS NOT MUTE

. . . . . . By Audrey Newell

[Copyright: 1940: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

INSTALMENT XXI.

SHOT IN THE DARK.

Some hours later Paula awoke. Her mind felt surprisingly clear and cool and comfortable. She knew everything that had happened. And what she must do about it. The first thing to do was to lie there quietly and plan how to get in touch with Doyle.

When she had thought that thru, she opened her eyes cautiously. Under the night light her Dresden clock said 1:20. Thru the wideflung French windows the sounds of the summer night came to her—crickets and katydids droning away. She was alone in the room.

She sat up in bed carefully, for she was very weak. She must do what she had to do quickly—while the household slept, before her husband came home, before her strength was exhausted.

She remembered Doyle saying he was vacationing at the Seaview. Thank God she could reach the telephone from the day bed.

It seemed an unendurable wait after she lifted the telephone before the operator spoke to her sleepily.

"The Seaview hotel," Paula said.

"I want to speak to Mr. Patrick Doyle."

She could hear the monotonous buzzing for the connection and she waited tensely, going over what she would say. She would tell Doyle he must insist on seeing her alone. She leaned back against the pillows and closed her eyes, conserving her energy while she waited.

But all at once, without knowing why, she opened her eyes and sat bolt upright staring at the windows. They were opened wide to the black night. And thru them she seemed to see some formless mass, blacker than the night.

It moved.

She jerked back convulsively and screamed, still holding the telephone to her ear, and hearing a voice come thru it to her quickly drowned out by the roar of the shot which came from the open window.

Routed from deep sleep and only half awake, Doyle heard the sound of a woman's scream and a shot thru the receiver. Instantly his mind cleared and the tempo of his being quickened. He telephoned Dr. Blake and spoke tersely. Then flung into his clothes and was out in the road, waiting, when the doctor drove by to pick him up. They zoomed over to the Wunsch place.

The big house was in an uproar, the second floor blazing with lights, and the servants huddled in frightened groups outside the door of Mrs. Wunsch's boudoir.

It was not easy to cull facts from the turmoil, but Doyle managed to pry from the incoherent butler that Mrs. Wunsch had escaped the killer's bullet. And the killer, likewise, had escaped, leaving no trace.

Dr. Blake had pushed thru to the boudoir door when suddenly it flung open to emit Wunsch. The millionaire stared at Doyle.

"You here?" His amazement was profound. "How did you know?"

The doctor brushed past him as Doyle spoke harshly.

"Never mind that. Who tried to kill your wife?"

Wunsch was pasty faced and his big body was shaking. "For God's sake," he grasped Doyle's arm urgently, "if you have any idea tell me." He put his hand to his head, as if trying to collect his thoughts. "I can't believe these awful things are happening," he said, bewildered and pathetic. "These last three days I've been living in hell."

"I don't doubt it," Doyle spoke in a voice noticeably devoid of sympathy. And he added ominously, "I must talk to your wife. Now. Before she forgets anything." He motioned toward Paula's door. "See if it's O. K. for me to go in."

For a moment Wunsch hesitated. Then he turned toward the closed door. But before he reached it, his name was called, urgently.

"Adolph, Adolph."

An old man was standing at the farther end of the hall, bracing himself against the door frame. Doyle stared at the big gnarled body. This must be Miss Doty's charge.

Wunsch sighed. But he spoke with patience and kindliness. "Go back to bed, father. Everything is all right."

Wunsch answered in English. His tone was mild and comforting as tho he spoke to an upset child. "We'll find it in the morning. You go to bed and we'll look for it tomorrow."

But again the old man broke into protest. Doyle caught the words "Fraulein Doty" repeated several times.

"What's lost?" the detective inquired.

Wunsch made a gesture of belittlement. "His cane. When he went to get up he couldn't find it, and he can't get about without it. It's Miss Doty's fault, he says. Miss Doty should have been there to find it for him and Miss Doty should answer the bell when he rings for her. He doesn't know that Miss Doty is looking after my wife. We didn't tell him Mrs. Wunsch is ill." Again Wunsch sighed. "I wanted to get an extra nurse, but they argued me down."

"Ask him if he knows who fired that shot?" Doyle directed.

The millionaire glared. "I'll do nothing of the sort. Do you want to give him a heart attack? Thank God, he didn't hear the shot. He says all this talking in the hall woke him."

By this time the old man had felt his way along the wall and was almost upon them. Wunsch took a quick step forward, and his father leaned heavily on his arm and began to complain again in German. Wunsch answered him soothingly.

"Very well. I'll go with you and find it. It's probably fallen behind the bed."

He led the old man away, and a few minutes later rejoined Doyle.

The detective inquired perfunctorily as to whether he had found the cane?

Wunsch shook his head. "He'd forgotten all about it by the time I got him in bed. He's 80, you know. Getting a bit childish."

Doyle dismissed the incident from his mind. His only reaction to it had been one of annoyance because it delayed his interview with Mrs. Wunsch.

Dr. Blake protested the interview even as he yielded to its urgent necessity. "But make it short," he warned. "And whatever you do, don't excite her."

Doyle ordered Wunsch and Briault from the room despite their angry protests. The doctor, the nurse, and himself could certainly see to it that no harm came to Mrs. Wunsch, he assured them.

Paula lay, wide-eyed, staring at the ceiling. She was completely unnerved. She just lay there and let the tears flow—didn't so much as lift her hand to wipe them away.

Doyle spoke to her softly. "Who did it, Mrs. Wunsch?"

Without looking at him she said, "I don't know."

"Who was with you?"

"No one."

"Where did the shot come from?"

She turned her head toward the French windows. "There's a balcony out there."

"Did you see anybody?"

"Something black and shapeless. It moved."

That's when you heard the shot?"

"Yes."

"Did it hit near you?"

"The night lamp."

Doyle saw the débris on the floor beside the daybed. He asked, "Was there more than one shot?"

"Just one."

"Did you hear anything after it was fired?"

"Only myself, screaming."

"What did you want to tell me?"

For a second her fixed gaze wavered. "I didn't want to tell you anything."

"Then why did you phone me?"

Now her eyes focused full on him, but veiled, deliberately empty of expression. "I didn't telephone to you."

He got it then. She wouldn't talk with any one else around.

Doyle drew Dr. Blake aside. After a brief argument, the doctor said gruffly: "Five minutes, then. And be careful."

Business is Good in Philadelphia

The first six months of 1940 point to another prosperous year in the City of Homes

Q. How is General Business in Philadelphia compared to the first six months of 1939?

A. Definitely better. The General Business Activity Index for the first six months of 1940 shows a 9.8 per cent. gain, thus continuing the year 1939 gain of 13.5 per cent. over 1938.

Q. Was this improvement in general business reflected in the advertising activities of local Philadelphia businesses?

A. Yes! The Evening Bulletin—leading Philadelphia newspaper in daily circulation and total advertising volume—showed, for the first six months of 1940, a 9.8% gain in total Retail Advertising and a 16.0% gain in Department Store Advertising.

Q. Has there been an improvement in manufacturing activity in Philadelphia?

A. Yes! In the first six months, Manufacturing Activity increased 9.0 per cent.—Factory Payrolls increased 11.0 per cent.—Electric Power Sales to Industry increased 8.4 per cent.—and Freight Carloadings increased 21.5 per cent.

Q. New passenger car sales are often an excellent index of market conditions. What about the sale of new automobiles in Philadelphia so far this year?

A. During the first six months in 1940, new passenger car sales increased 33.3 per cent. and automotive manufacturers increased their advertising in The Evening Bulletin 28.9 per cent. The Evening Bulletin carried more new car advertising than any morning, evening or Sunday newspaper in the United States.

Q. How was general business improvement in Philadelphia reflected in Bank Clearings during the first six months of the current year?

A. Bank Clearings increased 9.3 per cent.

Q. Bankers and brokers are quick to respond to business activity—what about Financial Advertising?

A. In the first six months of 1940, Financial Advertising in The Bulletin increased 37.3 per cent. over the same period last year.

Q. How was this upward trend in Manufacturing, Bank Clearings and General Business reflected by Total Advertising in Philadelphia newspapers for the first six months of 1940?

A. For the first six months, The Evening Bulletin led all Philadelphia daily newspapers in Total Advertising linage and gained 8.2% over the same period in 1939.

Q. What about Classified Advertising—the thousands of people with rooms to rent, used cars to sell, homes to buy and sell?

A. For the first six months of 1940 The Evening Bulletin printed more classified advertisements than for the same period last year . . . and more classified advertisements than any other Philadelphia daily newspaper.

Q. How does The Evening Bulletin stand in circulation?

A. The Evening Bulletin leads all Philadelphia newspapers in daily circulation. For each of the past thirteen months The Evening Bulletin has shown a circulation increase over the corresponding month of the year before. Moreover, 95 per cent. of The Bulletin's natural, unforced circulation is within Philadelphia and its retail trading area (ABC). And this effective, natural circulation—thoroughly covering the Philadelphia territory—is available to the advertiser at one of the lowest costs per reader in America!

The circulation of The Evening Bulletin for July, 1940, showed a gain over July, 1939, of 28,700 copies.

Q. Where can an advertiser get this complete story—about The Evening Bulletin and its effective and economical coverage of the Philadelphia market?

A. From your advertising agency, from Evening Bulletin representatives or by direct inquiry to The Evening Bulletin, City Hall Square, Philadelphia.

Statistics in this advertisement are based on the latest Federal Reserve reports, "Media Records" and other reliable sources.

Americans Made More Welcome than Ever.

There is no more difficulty in crossing the Canadian border today than there was before the start of the European war. Never before have Americans been made so welcome. A visit to the dominion enables one to see a picturesque land, full of scenic glories and historic shrines—and now is the best time to make such a visit.

These statements were made to a TRIBUNE representative yesterday by G. R. Heasman, Canadian government trade commissioner in Chicago.

From his office in Tribune tower Mr. Heasman surveyed the tourist situation, as applied to his country, and urged Americans to spend their vacations anywhere from the maritime provinces to the Canadian Rockies.

Calls Fears Groundless.

"Summer days will soon be over, and for many people a long planned holiday to Canada has gone astray for fear of trouble and inconvenience at the border," he said. "Travel bureaus and transportation companies advise that many an American citizen planning a visit across the northern border has been dissuaded from going because of incorrect information that he or she would be held up at the border, either going or returning.

"It has taken weeks of patient work to explain that such fears were groundless. Those American citizens who have deferred taking their vacation until the autumn months now know that there is no more difficulty in crossing the Canadian border today than there has been in the past.

"There are still a few weeks left of summer, and a good month or more of fishing for those interested, while there is no more delightful month for travel in the 'Land of the Maple' than September.

Foreign, Yet Not Foreign.

"To visit Canada is to enter a foreign country, and yet not a foreign country in its ways of life and characteristics of its people. To the observing one, a great many differences will be noticed, especially in older Canada, with its legends, stories, and old time habits and customs.

"In many parts of Quebec province the people still live practically as their forefathers did in France hundreds of years ago. Ontario cities, on the other hand, more closely resemble American cities, but there is always some difference, if only to see the policemen in uniform similar to that of the London bobbies.

"Toronto is the center of the world's largest annual exhibition, held during the last week of August and the first week of September.

"The northern lakes of Ontario have been referred to as a fisherman's paradise. Last year more than $4,000,000 worth of fresh fish entered the United States from Canada, largely from Ontario and the western lakes.

"To the small game hunter the prairie provinces offer excellent opportunity for partridge, grouse, and duck shooting. Farther west are the beauties of the Canadian Rockies. Banff Springs, Lake Louise, and Jasper park are names known to tourists the world over.

Tells of Nation's Effort.

"To visit Canada now is also to see a country at war and to appreciate more fully the great effort Canada is making. To those American citizens wishing to help Canada no better method can be adopted by the individual than to plan a trip across the border this year.

"Canada is greatly in need of United States dollars to pay for imports of American merchandise, likely to be higher this year than ever before, and to service that part of our debt held by American citizens, if our unbroken debt paying record is to be maintained—and we intend to see that it is. United States exchange is also required for many other purposes, and there is no better way in which our American friends can assist than by planning to spend a few days' or a few weeks' vacation in Canada.

"Visitors are urged to use United States currency in the dominion, where they will find that even the smallest village store will give them back 10 per cent on all purchases.

"Americans on vacation in Canada this year have never before been made so welcome. Every Canadian citizen has been asked especially, by the prime minister, to do everything possible to make such visits a success."

Queen of a Potato Fete

Aroostook, northernmost county in Maine, grows approximately one-sixth of all the potatoes raised in the United States. It celebrated that fact the other day by holding a potato blossom festival. Audrey Good, 17, of Monticello was chosen queen.

Travel Queries Answered

What's your travel problem? Address queries regarding where to go, how to get there, costs, and accommodations to the Travelers' Guide, Chicago Tribune, inclosing stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Now that the duke of Windsor has been appointed governor of the Bahamas a great many Americans will be flocking to Nassau in the hope of getting a glimpse of him. They will be curious about such things as to how he should be addressed, how he got his present title, and what his complete title is. Can you supply the details? A. T.

He should be addressed as "his royal highness." He had the title of prince of Wales until the death of his father, King George V., on Jan. 20, 1936. As eldest son of the royal family, the prince, then 42 years old, succeeded to the throne and became King Edward VIII. On Dec. 11, 1936, he abdicated and resumed his family name, Edward Windsor. On the following day his brother, King George VI., named him duke of Windsor.

The duke's full title now is: His Royal Highness Edward Albert Christian George Andrew Patrick David Windsor, duke of Windsor, K. G., P. C., K. T., K. P., G. C. S. I., G. C. M. G., G. C. I. E., G. C. V. O., G. B. E., I. S. O., M. C., governor and commander in chief in and over the Bahama Islands, vice admiral, and ordinary of the same.

The initials, in the order given, stand for: Knight of the Garter, privy councillor, knight of the Order of the Thistle, knight of the Order of St. Patrick, knight grand commander of the Star of India, knight grand cross of St. Michael and St. George, knight grand commander of the Indian empire, knight grand cross of the Royal Victorian order, knight grand cross Order of the British empire, Imperial Service order, and military cross.

Quebec, founded in 1608, enjoys the distinction of being the only walled city remaining on this continent. It has turreted battlements, casemented windows, narrow, winding streets, and other marks of a medieval fortress.

The other day the papers carried the information that the United States government locks and ship canal in St. Mary's river at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., had been closed to public inspection. Are they still closed? J. H.

The Sault Ste. Marie Chamber of Commerce reports that the waterway and locks are now open to visitors, but that cameras are not allowed.

Wisconsin Indian Head Tourist Country Thrives

Eau Claire, Wis., Aug. 13 [Special].—While the 1940 tourist season has not measured up to some of the optimistic predictions made last spring, many of the resorts in the Wisconsin Indian Head vacationland are having the best year since 1929. This was announced today by Lloyd E. White, executive secretary of the Indian Head association, following receipt of reports from tourist bureaus, resorts, hotels, transportation companies, and filling stations thruout the area.

Canadian Mountain Flowers Are Blooming

JASPER NATIONAL PARK, Alta., Aug. 13 [Special].—The mountain flowers along the new Columbia Icefield highway, leading thru the Canadian Rockies from Banff to Jasper, have reached the height of their blooming season. As a result the tablelands are now a sea of color, with blue, rose, white, yellow, and green predominating.

POLICEMAN GOES OUT AND MAKES ANOTHER CATCH

It's a Bass That Weighs 7 Pounds 14 Ounces.

BY BOB BECKER.

When members of the Chicago police department go fishing they hunt down the big ones and "bring 'em back alive," judging by the latest report from Crystal Falls, Mich.

After hearing about the 6½ pound black bass taken from Clare lake in northwest Wisconsin, John A. Stalbus of 6137 School street, a patrolman attached to the Austin station, picked up his tackle and paraded his lures before the bass in Paint lake, in the upper peninsula of Michigan. He came in with a specimen that tipped the scales at 7 pounds 14 ounces.

Rated One of Biggest.

The women also have been worrying the black bass. Mrs. Rose Peppers of 413 North St. Louis avenue caught a 4½ pound small mouth from Bass lake, which is near the town of Townsend, in Oconto county, Wisconsin.

Chicagoland anglers may have their troubles in landing large sized fish, but they usually get 'em in the boat before their battles are over. Guides in northwest Wisconsin, however, are telling about the experience of Frederick Shipp Deibler, who recently recovered a "lost" muskellunge from Lostland lake in Wisconsin.

Dr. Deibler, professor of economics at Northwestern university, hooked his muskie in the course of a rather heavy blow. After a long fight he finally worked the fish close to the boat. When the captive was all but exhausted and about to be landed, the line broke and away went the 25 pound muskie. The professor and the guide gave it up as just another fish that "got away."

They were about to go in when they saw a big fish lying on top of the water. They rowed over. It was Dr. Deibler's muskie, with the lure, part of a leader and broken line. It was so thoroly whipped that the guide managed to gaff it and ease it into the rowboat.

Another Chicagoan who got a big specimen the hard way was Dr. Henry C. Smith of 6200 Kenmore avenue. Fishing Basswood lake, which is not far from Ely, Minn., he rigged up a fly rod with a 10 pound test leader, plus a spinner and live minnow. A fish struck the minnow, and the battle got under way. It turned out to be a real tug of war, because the antagonist at the other end of the line proved to be a 17½ pound northern pike. It was boated after a long struggle.

Hooks 42 Pound Trout.

Altho no reports of unusually big muskies have been coming from the Lake of the Woods country, F. M. Van Antwerp of South Bend, Ind., can do a little boasting about the size of a lake trout which he caught in Hillock lake, Ontario. This one tipped the scales at better than 42 pounds. It's the largest lake trout that we have heard about this year.

The latest bulletin from the Door county [Wisconsin] small mouth bass spots says: "Fishing getting better." Among those who have been getting their limits are Lloyd Hollister of 1232 Central avenue, Wilmette, who hooked 15 while fishing out of the town of Fish Creek; Dr. George L. Apfelbach of 6163 North Winthrop avenue and Dr. William C. Buchbinder of 5825 Blackstone avenue, who landed 25 bass from which they could pick their limits, and Hays McFarland of 1430 Lake Shore drive.

'Gadgets' Take Co-Eds' Eyes as Dress Accents

BY REA SEEGER.

Gadgets that go to college rate that life because they're gay, colorful, and provoke conversation. Shopping co-eds have been known to pay more for the costume jewelry pieces and gadgets than they do for their beloved sweaters. Belts this fall are getting a whirl. Wooden gadgets, clips, nice, noisy bracelets, clattering, chunky necklaces, huge chest pins, all come in featherweight concoctions colored in bright shades to accent even bright woolens, corduroys and plaids.

One belt is made of carved wooden footballs held together with leather thongs that tie in front. This particular affair is making popularity records. Matching bracelets and necklaces do much toward highlighting sweaters or jackets. The funniest one is made of miniature clothespins; another of dozens and dozens of small safety pins, and still a third is composed of multicolored rubber bands.

Animal heads, comic figures, almost anything that can be carved in wood, tied with yarn or fixed with a clip, make these funny gadgets the delight of the college crowd.

Rating next to the gadgets for interest are many sock finds. Twisters are the most intriguing. They're literally that, knitted in a spiral effect without heels. The general idea is that you turn them around when you wish to have a new heel. Fuzzy angoras come in bewildering assortments of shades and colors. Knitted weaves are coarser and more rustic looking with a distinctly hand knitted appearance. Bold bright colors such as green, rust, flame, wine red, carbon blue, and orange are new.

Fashion photograph . . . fur coats can be different! Sponsored by Schiaparelli, here is the daytime coat with some exciting new fashion details. Deep cuffs on the slightly shorter sleeves, huge, swinging patch pockets, and a snug narrow stand-up collar. The pelts are silver brown beaver. The high hat combines felt and beaver.

Dr. Louis W. Goebel to Be Speaker at Church Convention

The Rev. Dr. Louis W. Goebel, 77 West Washington street, president of the general synod of the Evangelical and Reformed churches, has been announced as the keynote speaker at opening services Tuesday night of the annual National Churchman's brotherhood convention of the Evangelical and Reformed churches. The services will be held at St. Paul's church, Orchard and Kemper streets. Sessions of the three day convention will be held at the Congress hotel, where more than 500 delegates from various sections of the country are expected to register. Congressman Dewey Short [R., Mo.] will be the speaker at Wednesday's sessions.

A Swagger Daytime Coat

A daytime coat of silvery brown beaver has new details such as wide cavalier cuffs to the short simple sleeves; deep patch pockets that seem to swing from each hip, a narrow turn-up collar and a new swagger length that shows the hem of the dress. Worn with this distinctive coat is a high hat combining felt and fur.

Last Call, Boys and Girls, for Sally's Party

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

If you boys and girls want to see Joe Penner looking funnier than you've ever seen him before, better have those letters in the mail today!

In "The Boys from Syracuse" you'll never recognize Joe in a little short dress and sandals and a silver wreath around his head, and I know you'll enjoy watching Allen Jones sing a duet with himself.

There are two sets of twins in this picture which we're all going to see at the RKO Palace next week, and the resulting mixup is one of the craziest things you ever saw.

"The Saint Takes Over," the latest of a series of mystery movies, is also on the program, but you won't see that, either, if your letter isn't on my desk bright and early tomorrow morning. Our party will be on Aug. 21, but tomorrow I'm going to select 100 boys and girls as my guests.

Just tell me why you think you'd like to come to this party, and don't forget to include your full name, address and age. If you omit any of those details, you can't be a winner.

After reading all the mail tomorrow, I'm going to select 50 boys and 50 girls who seem the most excited about our party, and the winners will be announced in next Sunday's TRIBUNE.

Romance Fills the Air and This Column, Also

BY JUDITH CASS.

INTERESTING romantic news is contained in several engagement announcements that are being made today. From her home in Norwood, Pa., Mrs. Harry Pringle Ford has sent word that her daughter, Mary Elizabeth, and Donald Crawford of Winnetka, are to be married in the early fall.

Mr. Crawford is a fourth generation Chicagoan, being a grandson of the late Luther Laflin Mills, one of the most famous lawyers of his time, and of the late Benjamin F. Crawford, pioneer Chicago manufacturer. Like his father, the late Mr. Crawford, and brothers, Benjamin and David, Donald Crawford is a graduate of Yale university. After receiving his degree in 1928 he was engaged in business here for several years and then entered the Princeton Theological seminary, from which he was graduated last June.

Miss Ford attended Washington college in Chesterton, Md., and Temple university in Philadelphia. Mr. Crawford's mother at present is in New York visiting her sister, Mrs. Alex C. Proudfit.

Engagement Announced of Miss Cynthia Aldrich.

Winnetkans, too, will be especially interested in an announcement Dr. and Mrs. C. Anderson Aldrich of Winnetka are making of the engagement of their daughter, Cynthia, to David Prescott Rowe, son of Samuel Davis Rowe of Barrington and Mrs. Elizabeth Eddy Rowe of New York.

Miss Aldrich took part in the debutante festivities last season altho she was not introduced formally. She attended the North Shore Country Day school, was graduated from Dana hall, and attended Pine Manor Junior college. Mr. Rowe, who is engaged in business in Chicago attended Kenyon college.

Mr. Rowe has a sister, the former Betty Rowe, who was married to James Edward Hosac of New York, in 1938. They are a nephew and niece of the late Augustus W. Eddy. Miss Aldrich has a brother, Robert A. Aldrich, who is engaged to be married to Miss Marjorie Duttenhofer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Karl R. Morton of Hamilton, O.

Another Former Pine Manor Student to Be Married.

The engagement of another former Pine Manor student is revealed in the announcement from Mrs. Robert Graves Warfield of 4831 Kenwood avenue, that her daughter, Patricia, and Robert William Wasem will be married in the fall. Miss Warfield also studied at the University of Chicago, from which her fiancé was graduated in June.

Mr. Wasem is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry M. Wasem of Fort Dodge, Ia. He is engaged in business in Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. William F. Hanchett of Evanston, announce the engagement of their daughter, Alice-Anne, to Robert S. Babcock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver M. Babcock, also of Evanston. The Babcock-Hanchett wedding will take place next Tuesday at the Hanchett home, with only the families present.

Miss Hanchett was graduated from

At Wellesley Picnic

Mrs. Carlyle E. Anderson, left, and Miss Betty Becker snapped at a Wellesley club picnic recently. They and other Wellesley graduates in the Chicago area devote some time every year to raising funds for scholarships. The three scholarship winners this year are Miss Carolyn Spaulding of River Forest, Miss Adele Roth of Oak Park, and Miss Peggy Pierson of Wilmette.

Capt. Duffy to Address Board of Big Brothers

Capt. Thomas J. Duffy, founder of the Sheffield Avenue Boys club, will be guest speaker at a board meeting of the Big Brothers association tomorrow in the association's headquarters, 39 South State street. Walter H. Troutman will preside at the meeting, his first since his election as president in June. Other new officers of the association are James H. Deming, vice president; Frederick H. Scott, secretary, and H. Hoyt Thompson, treasurer. Dr. Louis L. Mann continues as honorary president.

The Housewife

If you haven't tried those handy little corn holders you should treat yourself to a set. They are sturdy little prongs with colored handles and you stick them in either end of a nice, juicy ear of golden bantam corn. It's so much easier to eat it that way. Saves your fingers from getting messy. These holders come in sets of four, or you can get them in single sets. The colors of the handles are green, red, or yellow.

Merchants Put O. K. on Fashion Design Contest

Executives of many large Chicago stores yesterday joined in praise of THE TRIBUNE'S American Fashions contest.

The contest, which hopes to stimulate American designing for American women, already has received nationwide praise for its encouragement of American designers. Any designer, amateur or professional, may compete for the $7,500 in prizes. Entries, sketched on illustration board 14 by 20 inches in size, must be in Tribune Tower by midnight Aug. 22.

Chicago executives find the contest a particularly timely one, in view of the havoc the war has wreaked with Paris fashions. They concur in the thought that now is the time for America to affirm itself as a world fashion center. Some of their comments are:

James Schoff, president of The Fair—"I think it a perfectly grand undertaking. I think it fine not only for the country as a whole, but especially for Chicago to take a leadership in it. We hope you will be successful in developing many outstanding designers."

Seymour Shane, vice president and general manager of Netcher's Boston Store—"I think it is most beneficial for America. It is the same proceedings we went thru in the last war with dyes, when all the colors faded at first.

"There is no reason why America cannot create styles. It should. How can Europe create styles for America? European figures are altogether different. Our fashions do differ from those of the Parisians.

"I think THE TRIBUNE is doing a marvelous thing. We must be self-sufficient. The sooner we are, the better for every one."

M. C. Penticoff, district manager of Sears, Roebuck & Co.'s retail stores—"Regardless of what has taken place in Paris, or is likely to take place, we should like to see fashions originate in this country and see this country become the fashion center of the world. We should like to see everything possible done to develop design from the ground up here. Any movement along these lines is a very worthy one."

George Benson Sr., president of Benson & Rixon Co.—"I think it is very good. A very excellent job and a very worthy one."

John Borthwick, manager of four Peck & Peck stores in the midwest—"I think it very good. The Paris field is practically stopped, and London already is trying to grasp it. I don't think we've ever given it a great deal of thought before; we've always taken it for granted that Paris was the style center, but why shouldn't we try and get that?"

Forty of the outstanding designs submitted in the contest will be made into garments and modeled at two style shows in W-G-N's audience studio on Oct. 2. The winning 25 then will be announced. There will be one prize of $3,000, one of $2,000, three of $500, and 20 of $50.

GENUS AMERICANUS

Capricious as woman herself, these new American hats. These bold, courageous brims—tiny calots and bonnets that flaunt your pompadour—sleek little hats of fur, as smoothly manipulated as fabric.

And the colors? Fall's palette is splashed with primaries, intense and exciting. And with strange muted tones that defy definition.

Hats, this season above all others, exploit your personality—reflect your moods. There is no regimentation. American designers have created for you a brilliant, imaginative and diversified collection for Fall.

As typical of this new American genre, we present a witty, John-Fredericks original—a great rolling felt with matching bag. One of dozens of magnificent new hats you'll find in every one of our millinery sections—where we wait to serve you with enthusiasm and understanding.

Northwestern university in June. Mr. Babcock is a graduate of Rochester university, and of Oxford, where he was a Rhodes scholar. He has been taking postgraduate work at Northwestern this year. After Sept. 15 he and his bride will be at home in Black Mountain, N. C., where he will be a member of the faculty of Black Mountain college.

Barrett-Barry Wedding to Take Place Sept. 4.

Miss Barbara Barry and Roger S. Barrett have decided to be married on Sept. 4, at 8:30 o'clock in the evening at the First Methodist Episcopal church in Evanston. Miss Barry's parents, Dr. and Mrs. George Fravel Barry, will give a reception following the ceremony at the country Club of Evanston.

Miss Florence Dearborn Barry will be her sister's maid of honor. The bridesmaids will be Mrs. John Bland Townes, another sister, Mrs. F. Scammon Barry, their sister-in-law; Miss Betty Butcher of Cambridge, Mass., Mrs. Philip E. Gilbert Jr. of New York; Miss Jeanne Miles and Mrs. John Alden Sears of Beloit, Wis., the former Miss Georganne Rundall of Evanston.

Joseph R. Schroeder of Minneapolis will be best man for Mr. Barrett, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Richardson Damon Barrett of Minneapolis. Ushering will be Dr. Scammon Barry, Mr. Townes, Wendell Fentress, who is engaged to be married to Miss Miles; Wright Brooks, and Robert J. Christianson of Minneapolis, and Robert Thomas Valleau of St. Paul.

Several parties already have been planned for Miss Barry. Mrs. H. Hoyt Thompson will give a bathroom shower next Wednesday. Miss Gertrude Dolese will give a kitchen shower on Aug. 24 and Miss Dorothy Meaker will give a handkerchief shower on the 28th. The bride's mother will give a family tea next Tuesday.

Patty Chancellor's Name Added to Debutante List.

Another name to add to the debutante list of the current season is that of Miss Patty Chancellor, whose elder sister, Helen, was a bud of two years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Justus Chancellor Jr. of Winnetka will give a luncheon to introduce their daughter early in September. Miss Chancellor is a sophomore at the University of Wisconsin. She has just returned from a holiday in Michigan and will be at home for the remainder of the summer.

For the ninth time Wayne is to have a horse show, but in a new and bigger turf ring just completed down in the meadows further from the Dunham Wood clubhouse than the old one. This year's show will be on Sunday, Sept. 8, starting at 8:30 in the morning. As usual, the Wayne fire department will receive the proceeds.

Spectators Will View Show from Their Automobiles.

Spectators will sit in automobiles parked around the new ring, just as they did in "the old days." There will be 19 classes, including one for members of local hunts. The firsts and seconds in this class will compete for the hunter championship. Perry Dryden is to be the ring steward and Porter Fox and John T. Pirie Jr. the judges. Mrs. John Dole is the only woman assisting the men of the horse show committee; she is publicity chairman. Arthur Farwell heads the committee.

Mr. Dole is treasurer of the committee and Jesse F. Burt is the secretary. The other members are Raymond O. Mitchell, Charles R. Lindsay III., Edgerton Throckmorton, Louis S. de Martelly, Henry W. Meers, and Stephen H. Harrington Jr.

7-11 Ranch Polo Team to Play in Championships.

Paul Butler, captain; Harry O. Owen Jr., Bobby Nichoalds, and Charles Aaberg, who compose the 7-11 Ranch Polo team, will go to Cleveland to compete in the national polo championships, beginning next week. The 7-11 ranch won the central circuit championships played at the Oak Brook Polo club recently. Mrs. Butler, Mrs. Owen, and Mrs. Nichoalds will accompany their husbands to Cleveland. William S. Farish Jr., whose wife is the former Mary Wood of Highland Park, and his brother, Robert Farish of Houston, Tex., will play with the Houston Huisaches in the nationals. The Huisaches have won the national tournament for the last three years.

Brier Wright Stollar, who will make her American professional singing debut at Grant park next Tuesday, will arrive in Chicago tomorrow and will visit the J. Beach Clows in Lake Forest. Mrs. Stollar, wife of Alexander Stollar, the sculptor, will be assisted in the program by the Woman's Symphony orchestra under the direction of Richard Czerwonky.

It's surprisingly easy and economical to use. Ideal for feminine hygiene. Follow the simple directions and enjoy proved hygienic protection that you may never have known before.

Sea Mystery Is Easy as Pie for Nick Carter

"PHANTOM RAIDERS."
Produced by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.
Directed by Jacques Tourneur.
Presented at the State-Lake theater.

THE CAST.

Nick Carter	Walter Pidgeon
Cora Barnes	Florence Rice
Al Taurez	Joseph Schildkraut
John Ramsell Jr.	John Carroll
Bartholomew	Donald Meek
Gunboat Jacklin	Nat Pendleton
Dolores	Steffi Duna
Franklin Morris	Cecil Kellaway
John Ramsell Sr.	Matthew Boulton
Andy Macmillan	Alec Craig
Dr. Grisson	Thomas Ross
Eddie Anders	Dwight Frye

BY CECIL SMITH.

When four cargo ships are sunk at sea, one after another, in a series of mysterious explosions, it is evident that dirty work is afoot. Even tho these destructive crimes occur off the coast of the Canal Zone, there is only one sensible procedure: Call in Nick Carter, and let him get to the root of the matter.

"The Phantom Raiders" is an absorbing and exciting picture. Carter seemingly does not give a snap of his fingers for his own safety, and he remains cool and collected while knives hurtle thru the air, missing him by a hair's breadth. A couple of times things look quite black for Carter, but his faithful Bartholomew, a beekeeper by profession, comes to his aid at the zero hour.

By the time the picture is ended, Carter has brought the wily Al Taurez to justice, freed several unwilling henchmen from his control, cleared the way for a romance involving two incidental young people, and completed a whirlwind affair with an exotic creature named Dolores.

Walter Pidgeon handles the activity of Carter with precisely the right combination of sang-froid and humor. Donald Meek's deadpan countenance and vacant exterior create the character of the beekeeper with magnificent drollery. The genteel and oily Joseph Schildkraut makes a credible villain of Taurez. Both Florence Rice and Steffi Duna are decorative in their contrasting ways. The smaller rôles—and especially that of Nat Pendleton—are uniformly excellently played.

African M. E. Zion Bishop and Council Meet Here Today

More than three-quarters of a century of Negro emancipation will be recalled when sessions of the board of bishops and the connectional [national church] council of the African Methodist Episcopal church, Zion, open five days of meetings this morning at Blackwell Memorial church, 649 Oakwood boulevard. Bishop W. J. Walls, 4736 South Park way, will deliver the commemorative sermon opening the sessions.

The church, known as A. M. E. Zion, severed connections with the parent Methodist Episcopal church 144 years ago in New York City, and is known as the pioneer Negro denomination of the country. Its membership, led by 10 bishops, numbers more than 1,000,000 persons. Bishop Walls announced that the last time the board of bishops and connectional council met jointly in Chicago was a quarter of a century ago when the 50th anniversary of Lincoln's emancipation proclamation was celebrated.

Bishop L. W. Kiles, Winston-Salem, N. C., will deliver the sermon Sunday afternoon at the American Negro exposition, in the Coliseum which will bring the convention to a close.

WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: Art Calls, but So Does Dinner

Hints to Beau Who Couldn't Keep a Date

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"Dear Miss Blake: I love a beautiful girl. We've been going around together for more than a year. Several months ago I made a date with her to go dancing at a night club. The night of our date I had to leave town with my father to visit a sick aunt.

"Unfortunately, I was unable to call her before I left. When I returned home several days later, I immediately ran to the telephone to let her know why I had apparently 'stood her up.'

"When I said 'hello, darling,' she banged the receiver in my ear. I tried to reach her again on the telephone at once, and kept on trying until I grew discouraged.

"As I could not reach her that way, I went over to her house to see her. She refused to see me, so I came home wondering what I could do next.

"Can you tell me, Miss Blake? I love the girl, and am sure she loves me. All I want is an opportunity to explain my not showing up for our date.—H. M. K."

Why didn't you think of Uncle Sam? A letter might be the answer to your dilemma. Or, to make your peace offering in a more romantic way, why didn't you send her flowers or candy?

I think you should hop to it right away and try these various methods of attack. If they fail, you'll have to hope that she cares enough to speak to you nicely when you run into her "accidentally on purpose."

Surely she is the kind of girl who will be thoroly chagrined to think that she so misjudged you, when she learns the real reason for your failure to keep the date with her.

BY MARY MEADE.

[Copyright: 1940: By The Chicago Tribune.]

English lamb chops are double loin chops. The loin of lamb usually is split down the backbone and chops are cut from each side, making the regulation loin chop. For an English chop, the loin is not split, and the chop contains the meat on either side of the backbone. Such a chop is boned and skewered by the dealer, to make a compact, meaty cut, which usually includes the kidney. English chops are choice cuts of lamb.

If you have a wooden plank, serve the chops, rice, and peaches "planked" for tomorrow's dinner. If you haven't the plank, an oven-proof platter will do beautifully.

English Lamb Chops with Rice and Peaches.

[Serves Four.]

4 English lamb chops, cut thick
2½ cups boiled rice
Salt, pepper
4 canned peach halves
¼ cup grated cheese

Broil chops until brown on one side, season with salt and pepper, and turn the unbroiled side up on a plank or platter. Around the chops place a ring of the rice which has been cooking in boiling salted water, and press peach halves into the rice at intervals. Sprinkle the cheese over the rice and peaches, and place plank or platter under the broiler to cook the other side of the meat and heat the rice and peaches. Sprinkle meat with salt and pepper, and serve the combination hot.

If the flank ends of the meat have been wrapped around the kidney, the kidney will be cooked with the chop. But it may be broiled separately and placed on top of the chop for serving. This is, perhaps, the more attractive way of serving.

Braised Carrots and Celery.

[Serves Four.]

1¼ cups sliced carrots
1¼ cups sliced celery
Salt, pepper
3 tablespoons butter

Place vegetables in skillet with the melted butter, sprinkle with salt and pepper, add a small amount of water [about 2 tablespoons], cover, and let cook gently until tender.

Spoon Bread.

[Serves Six.]

½ cup cornmeal
½ teaspoon salt
1½ cups boiling water
¼ cup melted butter
3 beaten eggs
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon baking powder

Mix cornmeal, salt, and boiling water, adding the water gradually and beating the mixture until smooth. Cook over direct heat, stirring constantly, until mushy. Cool slightly and add butter, eggs which have been well beaten, milk, and baking powder. Baking powder may be beaten into the eggs if desired, to insure even distribution. Stir ingredients together well, pour into a greased casserole, and bake at 350 degrees, moderate oven, for 40 to 50 minutes. Serve with a spoon from the casserole.

Lovely Two Piece Outfit

MISS' TWO-PIECE OUTFIT.

Schoolgirls especially will like this two piece outfit, which is as attractive in heavy silk as it is in woolen. For practical wear the latter is the best idea, and one version unites a plain colored jacket with a harmonizing plaid skirt. The little topper is figure hugging and may have a contrasting collar or none at all, as you choose. Buttons may be arranged in any fashion that strikes your fancy. Sleeve length, too, is optional.

The hat pattern, No. 2567, is designed for one head size only, adaptable to your individual needs, and is available for 10 cents extra.

Style No. 2748 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20. Size 16 requires 1⅝ yards of 39 inch material for blouse; 1⅞ yards for skirt; 3 yards for blouse and skirt, with ½ yard of contrasting.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Lange, Soloists Make Concert Notable Event

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Last night's Grant park concert by the Chicago Symphony orchestra under Hans Lange's direction was interesting because of the solos offered by two members of the orchestra, and because of the remarkable performance of Beethoven's seventh symphony at the end of the program.

Joseph Vito, harpist, demonstrated both his own skill and the poverty of his instrument's repertoire in a concertstück by Von Wilm and in two solos called, respectively, "Echoes of the Waterfall" and "Amaryliss." It was sad to hear so much agility and musicianship going to waste on the Von Wilm work—one of those dreary late 19th century display pieces which boast a bumptious, pseudo-majestic theme fore and aft and a lot of languishing melody in the middle.

Florian Mueller's oboe sang very hauntingly in Eric DeLamarter's arrangement of a little Ruthenian folk song called "Heart's Delight." The soloist went on to play a movement of his own oboe concerto, a work which exploits the instrument's ability to give a very moving poignancy to a simple melody and which proves that an oboe can also have an almost bravura quality when it is played by the right man.

The Beethoven seventh symphony was one of the best things Mr. Lange has done in his four years here. It was serene and perfectly contained—yet it had an intoxicating beauty of detail. It never became headlong—but it was chockful of life and movement, and momentum. The fact that the orchestra was playing overtime may have had something to do with the symphony's liveliness. Three or four minutes, it seemed, were knocked off the running time.

Universal Day—Curb that impulse today! Yesterday, today, and tomorrow all highly explosive.

Completion—Is a good keyword for a nine personal year. Since we keep rotating on a pattern of nine year cycles, this last year of each cycle brings to completion that particular cycle, bringing to an end many things. You should complete a certain phrase of your work, your studies, your relationships. There is no reason why it should end in defeat. That depends upon you. It can mean that you shed what you have outgrown and are ready to step up into higher ground. Fulfill and complete with flying colors.

Year Ahead—Those having birthdays today luckily have a brand new page to write on next year. Let go without regrets in these next few months.

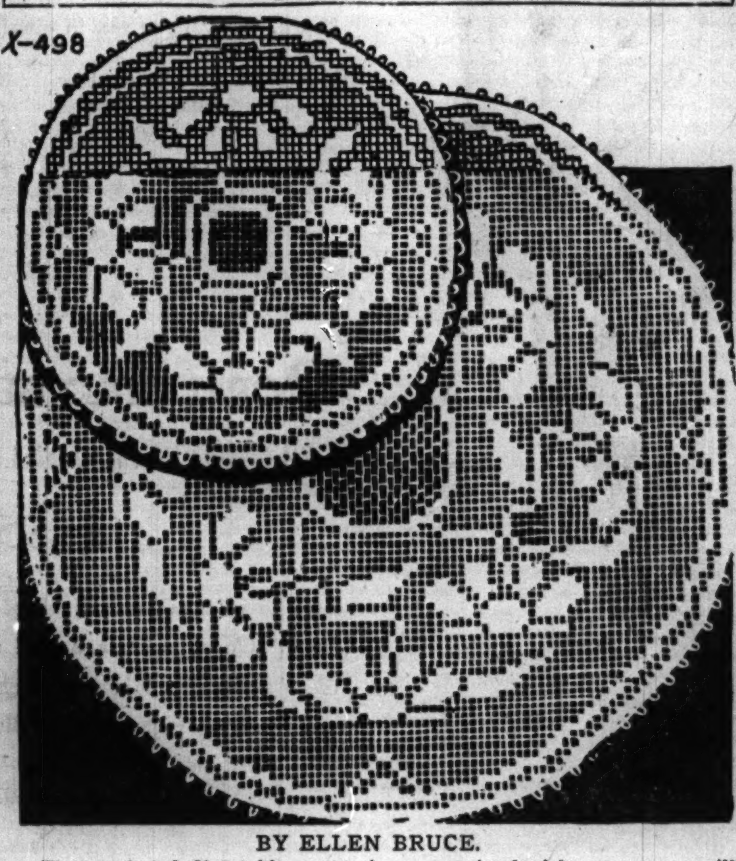
Centerpiece in Crochet

X-498



BY ELLEN BRUCE.

The crocheted filet table centerpieces are simple jobs every one will love to make, even those amateurs who hesitate to do filet crochet work. These attractive round doilies also make excellent doilies for cake and bread trays. A detailed chart and instructions, together with material requirements and an illustration of stitches, is included in the pattern.

For instructions in crocheting the filet centerpieces, No. X-498, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

Every fairly experienced player knows the value of an entry, but not so many know exactly what constitutes an entry. There is more than one variety but, broadly speaking, they can be divided into two classes: Obvious entries and concealed entries. The latter type takes a bit of discovering, but cool logic, rather than any advanced Sherlock Holmesing, will do the trick. Consider today's hand:

East, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.
Rubber bridge.

♥ K 7 6 5
♦ 7 3 2
♣ J 10 9 8

WEST
♠ 7 3
♥ Q 2
♦ K Q 10 9 4

EAST

♥ A J 10 8 4 3
♦ 8
♣ A K 5

SOUTH
♠ K Q J 10 8 4
♥ 9
♦ A J 6 5
♣ Q 7

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 heart	1 spade	2 diamonds	Pass
2 hearts	2 spades	Pass	3 spades
Double	Pass	Pass	Pass

West's two diamond bid was decidedly skimpy, even on the score, and should have had the bad result of guiding South to the correct play of his three spade contract. Also, it induced East to double the opponents in what should have been a laydown contract, instead of possibly "taking a save" at four hearts. However, these comments are based on what should have been, not on what actually occurred.

West opened the heart queen, dummy ducked, and the heart deuce followed. Declarer ruffed East's eight spot and immediately laid down the club queen. Obviously, this was an attempt to establish club tricks before dummy's trump entries were removed, but whatever the reason, the play was badly calculated. East won and returned his singleton diamond, hoping to get a ruff. Declarer squashed that hope by going up with the diamond ace, but he had not improved his basic position. Another club lead went to East's second honor and East now returned a low heart. Again declarer shut out the possibility of an adverse ruff by trumping high. But none of these plays was putting declarer substantially nearer his goal. He cashed the spade king, then led to dummy's ace. The lead of the club jack permitted the discard of one diamond, but the next club was neatly and firmly ruffed by East. Declarer could over-ruff, if he chose, but would have to concede two diamond tricks to West. Whatever he did at this point he was down one.

Two vital facts should have been apparent to declarer from the very first trick. One was that, since West must hold five diamonds for his obviously skimpy overcall, East had a singleton diamond. The other was that with the honors in sight [including West's lead of the heart queen] East was absolutely marked with the ace and king of clubs for his original bid, his rebid, and his penalty double. That being so, declarer should have had no fear of removing dummy's obvious entries [the A-9 of spades], because East would have to give dummy the lead in another suit.

This is the simple line of play declarer should have used:

Ruff the second heart, draw all the adverse trumps, cash the diamond ace [to remove East's singleton], then lead the club queen. East would have to win this or the next club lead and would be unable to exit. He could, of course, lay down the heart ace, but declarer should make East a gracious present of the trick, discarding a diamond. [To ruff would be fatal for declarer. The dummy would then really be dead.] Now East would have to give dummy entry with a heart or a club and declarer's troubles would be over.

Treating Youth as Equal and Friend Helps

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Our poor young people in their early teens! They do have a hard time. Conscientious and loving as their parents may be, they still so often do not understand these boys and girls. They think a desire to do this, or a refusal to do that, just an unreasonable notion. Because it doesn't seem important to them, they can't see that it may be very important to their son or daughter. I don't say that it is always easy for us to understand our boys and girls at this time when they are leaving childhood behind and are not well into adolescence, but if we are patient and sympathetic, it will help us to get their point of view. Also, they will realize that we feel so and it will make them more receptive to our suggestions.

Two letters from such troubled young people are in my mail. One says:

"Dear Mrs. Bevans:

"I am a boy of 14 and play the violin. You have stressed many points in your column, but I don't believe you have said anything about parents who continually ask their children to play music for people and force them to do so. Please mention this in one of your columns."

Children vary a great deal in their desire to perform for others. Some love it, others dislike it. When there is great reluctance to do so, a child should not be forced. The parents and their son should talk it over privately and come to an agreement about it. He may give in to the extent of playing once in a while. If the boy practices and likes his music, that is the important part. Certainly there should be no coaxing or discussion before guests.

Another letter has to do with forcing, but of a different kind.

"Dear Mrs. Bevans:

"Please excuse the writing. My mother and I have been disagreeing on different things and hope you will help us. I'm 13 years old and a boy of my age should be in the backyard, not out in the evenings, my mother thinks. Sometimes when I hear and see other boys out after seven it makes me feel hurt, but my mother says Mother and Dad are at home and you should stay home, too. We eat and are done at seven o'clock, and my mother won't let me go out and play.

"Please suggest what time I should be allowed out.

"My mother disagrees, too, on my allowance situation. We have a moderate income and I would like to know what allowance I should receive and what I should spent it for and what I should do for it.

"Please hurry the reply, because meanwhile I'm still in the backyard."

It seems to me a great mistake to keep a boy of this age in his backyard during the long, light summer evenings. Children like playing after supper and this boy should not be kept so close. It certainly will not foster a growing independence. The hour he is to come in cannot be set, but nine o'clock is reasonable as a "trial curfew."

As to allowances, generally speaking, I don't believe they should be worked for. Work, and pay for it, I consider a separate arrangement. But that is only my opinion.

As to what an allowance is to cover, why not let it take care of expenditures such as supplies for a hobby [airplane models or paints or carpentry], one movie a week, some sweets, baseballs and so forth, with a little margin so that a small amount may be saved for mother's birthday or father's Christmas gift. Parents and son could roughly figure this. Treating the boy in this way will help the boy and his relationship with his parents.

"Allowances, or the Wise Use of Money is a booklet of interest to parents, teachers, and children. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Address Mrs. Gladys Bevans, the Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill.

THRU THE LOOKING GLASS

We have just received a touching letter from a young girl who doesn't want to go to college. She has her choice of schools, plenty of money, and a chance at a rather wonderful wardrobe—but she'd much rather stay home because she has the kind of a complexion she feels is a social handicap.

We wonder whether there are many other girls in the same boat. We hope not. But if there are we hope they and their parents decide to DO something about that bad skin. A dermatologist's office should be the first stop. The skin specialist of today can do wonders with the adolescent skin and can give the youthful sufferer sound directions for its future care.

If the skin is not seriously affected a sensible beauty routine will probably take care of it. There is now one whole fine line of preparations devoted especially to the young skin. Among them are special ones for the youthful complexion that is threatened with acne or that must always be guarded against blackheads that turn into pimples.

The theory of use of this line is simple. Basically it revolves about exquisite cleanliness, with some emphasis on soap and water and a complexion brush—still rated as the best of beautifiers for the skin that pops out with blackheads at every opportunity. Youngsters with delicate, troublesome complexions should make it their business to know these beauty aids created especially for them.

KIDS! TODAY IS 2¢ DAY RIVERVIEW WESTERN BELMONT

THE NEIGHBORS By George Clark

"This may be a wonderful spot for you, but what about Angela? The best catch she's been able to make is the bell hop."

Looking at Hollywood by John Chapman

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 13.—Wars, monopolies, and foreign competition may be driving the movies back to a last stand in America, but the films aren't retiring without a fight. In China, for instance, when millions retired from Japanese occupied territory into the mysterious interior, American picture shows followed them into newly built cities.

Twentieth Century-Fox's Darryl Zanuck recently called in his foreign representatives for a report on conditions, and among them was Del Goodman, far eastern manager. Nineteen years at that post have made Goodman an encyclopedia of oriental lore and a fount of yarns about weird angles of the motion picture business.

The Chinese, melting away from the Japanese, have created new mud cities of 200,000 or more, some without even electric light plants, in the immense fastness of Tibet. In such a city not long ago was shown "Old Chicago," which was a great hit because of its raucous action and its fire. The picture played to between 15,000 and 18,000 patrons, grossed 6,000 Chinese dollars. Here is what happened to the money:

Twentieth Century got a 50-50 split with the exhibitor—$3,000. This money was to be remitted to the head office in Shanghai, but there's a flight-of-capital law forbidding the transfer of large funds from free China to the occupied territory. So the money had to be split up into individual $100 money orders, which, being discounted at 30 per cent, left $2,100. The money orders were bootlegged into Shanghai. In Shanghai another percentage was lopped off for exchange, leaving a balance of $1,960.

A share of this balance had to go toward the office overhead of the far eastern organization, so the final net for transmission to New York as pure profit amounted to $1,030. Chinese dollars are 20 for one—so the foreign department in New York got $51.50, American money. Fifty bucks for a smash picture that played to at least 15,000 cash customers in Tibet!

Goodman's territory is from Kamchatka to Karachi. His job, to get as many movies as possible into 2,000 theaters in Japan, 300 in China, 300 in the Philippines, 175 in Malaya and Borneo, 1,100 in India, 300 in the Dutch East Indies.

Wherever possible, films are shipped by air, but often they go by oxcart or mule back. They are exhibited for a confusing variety of coinage, sometimes are bartered for fruit and furs. Always, in jaunts to the interior, a film must be accompanied by a man who will stay with it and bring it back, together with the receipts. Part of the overhead includes buying protection of tribes, lest the messenger be robbed.

American films still dominate the far east, although the Japanese have set up a monopoly in Manchukuo with which American companies will not deal, and which is largely German. There isn't a country that doesn't have at least one movie studio of its own, and some of the native pictures are pretty good. Japanese pictures are best. American companies encourage the native product, for it will do missionary work in making film fans of people who never saw a screen before, and once a native has become a moviegoer he is a pushover for the superior American offerings.

Censorship, odd in any land, has some nice twists in China. Around Shanghai it costs $45 to have a film censored, plus enough whisky or gin. All war stuff is trimmed from newsreels and antiwar pictures are banned. Anything dealing with the supernatural is out—"Superman" or "Buck Rogers" couldn't get a showing. They don't like nudity, but bedroom dramas and triangle plots get by untouched.

Action films like "Chicago" and "Jesse James" are most popular, and the more noise the better. Loudspeakers are always screwed up to the last notch. Tyrone Power is a favorite, even when he appears in what they call a talky-talky picture. Only rarely are Chinese subtitles put on a film. Subtitles were to have been put on "The Grapes of Wrath" for a Shanghai showing, but French officials objected. The picture was red propaganda, they argued, and the natives might learn something bad from reading.

Chinese girls follow Hollywood fashions closely. By tradition they must wear high necked, long sleeved dresses, but they cleverly adapt this style to whatever, say, Linda Darnell is wearing in her latest picture. The Japanese are by far the most movie daffy, with countless thriving fan clubs and excellent theater publicity. A few years ago American companies were showing triple bills. Now only single features are being shown and—Sam'l. Goldwyn please note—business is much better.

In Goodman's far eastern territory there are more than 700,000,000 potential movie customers and a start has hardly been made. The first attempt to take a film into interior China was made by a soap company, which equipped a truck with a projector and screen and instigated a soap selling safari. The movie was just a free come-on. It was Richard Bonelli singing the clown's aria from "I Pagliacci." On one truck cleanliness and culture invaded a wilderness.

Perhaps not such a wilderness, at that. "Movies," says Goodman, "were invented in China 5000 years before Christ. They had a translucent screen behind which plays were acted. People came to see, not the actors, but shadows on the screen. And they were talking shadows, too."

PACKERS TURN 2D WORKOUT INTO SCRIMMAGE

CARDINALS WHIP CUBS, 5 TO 1; SOX WIN IN 9TH 4 TO 3

SHOUN YIELDS 7 HITS; DRIVES IN PAIR OF RUNS

Homer by Leiber Averts Shutout.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Cubs yesterday burrowed to within a half game of sixth place in the National league standings as they absorbed a 5 to 1 whipping at the hands of the St. Louis Cardinals. The Cubs were spared a shutout when Hank Leiber stroked his No. 13 homer at the start of the fifth inning.

Clyde Shoun.

The Chicagoans, who appeared very tired as a result of just thinking about morning practice, reversed their recent Pittsburgh form by being able to go thru the motions without dropping or throwing away the ball. There was no time, however, when it seemed they might win the match.

French Not Up to Form.

Larry French, who has come to know better than to expect many runs from his Cub mates, failed to show the excellence displayed when he was defeated by the Cincinnati Reds, 3 to 1, his last time out. Lawrence was banged for 11 hits in his six innings of trying, the assortment including Johnny Mize's No. 33 homer, a triple by Jimmy Brown, two doubles and a single by Micky Owen, and a double and two singles by Ernie Koy. Pitcher Clyde Shoun of the Cardinals made two singles, each of which drove in a run, these two runs, obviously, being enough for his eighth victory project of the season. The first run Shoun sent home actually was the winning run.

Yesterday's defeat was the fifth the lethargic Cubs have suffered in their last six games, the one exception to the also ran routine being a 1 to 0 victory which Vern Olsen and Dom Dallessandro won in Pittsburgh, practically without disturbing anybody excepting Al Todd, who sent Dallessandro home from third on a long fly after the little man had tripled.

Nicholson Gets a Single.

Prior to Leiber's fifth inning homer yesterday the Cubs made one hit, a single by Bill Nicholson at the start of the second inning. Dallessandro, batting for French at the start of the sixth, knocked the third Chicago hit, a single, but was thrown out trying to reach third on the first of Stan Hack's two singles.

The Cubs' hit total soared to five on Zeke Bonura's single in the seventh, and Hack and Jim Gleeson rounded out the day's total of seven with singles in the eighth and ninth innings.

Excepting for Leiber's visit in running out his homer, not a Cub reached third and only three got to second. Shoun walked none and bothered only to strike out two.

Comes Down on Catwalk.

Mize's homer, which opened the day's scoring at the start of the second inning, was a high shot which came down on the catwalk half way between the bleacher and the right flagpole. After Mize's poke the Cards loaded the bases on Koy's bunt,

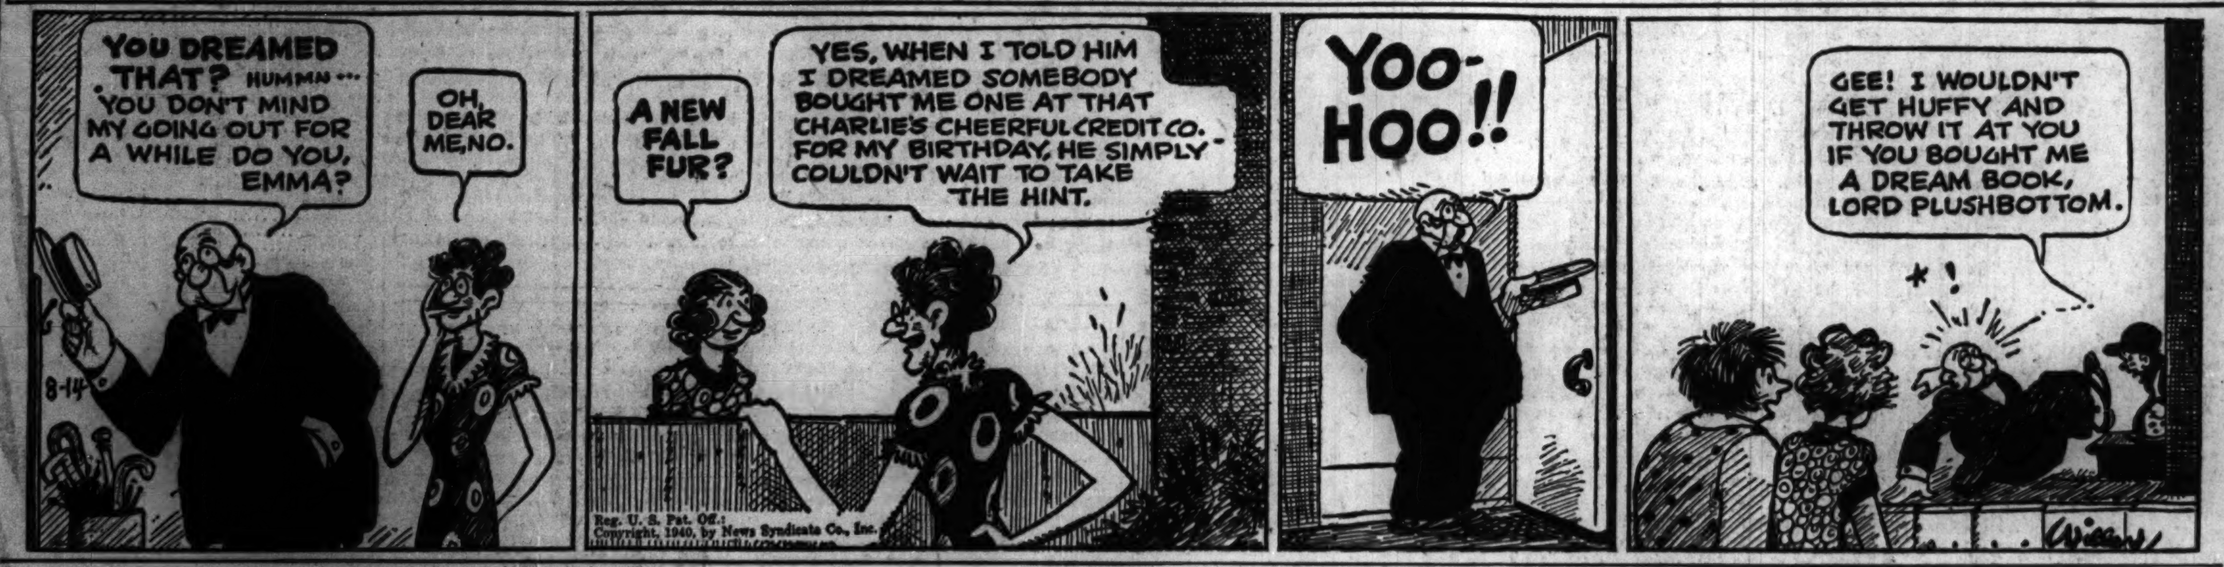
MOON MULLINS—HIS DREAM GIRL



In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.

BACK in 1917 Ernie Koob and Bob Groom of the Browns pitched no-hit games on successive days against the White Sox. . . . Antonio Hernandez, Chile's middleweight champion, is in the United States looking for battles. . . . Antonio is a pal of Arturo Godoy, who should tell him to keep his weight down or they might throw him in the same ring with Joe Louis. . . . There will be no enlargement of Crosley field this year for the world series. . . . All the available space was used up last October. . . . Thirty-nine per cent of the favorites won in the first three race meetings in New York. . . . Bill Schindler, midget automobile race driver, has only one leg. . . . He lost the other in an accident several years ago. . . . The Cleveland Indians have not been rained out of a home date since June 10—a run of 52 games, which may be a record. . . . They have not been forced to abandon a night game at home or abroad for two seasons. . . . Bobby Jones is being boomed for the position of athletic commissioner of the Southeastern conference. . . . Bob Feller, with 197 strikeouts to his credit this season, hopes to surpass the record of 343, set by Rube Waddell of the Athletics in 1904. . . . Southern California expects 100,000 for the game with Notre Dame in Los Angeles.

In 1933 the number of minor baseball leagues in the United States had shrunk to 11. . . . Now there are 41. . . . George Sisler of the Browns hit safely in 31 straight games in 1922. . . . The same year Rogers Hornsby connected in 33 in a row for the Cardinals. . . . Those are the modern records for the two leagues. . . . Rip Radcliff, who may win the American league batting championship, is used only against right handed pitching. . . . Gerald Walker says the White Sox are hard to beat because all the pitchers are so well grounded in the mechanics of the art. . . . Which is the signal for Coach Muddy Ruel to step up and take a bow. . . . It costs the Giants $3,255 to play a night game. . . . Sad Sam Jones, the former big league pitching star who was released by Toronto last week, is one of the cheeriest fellows you'd want to meet. . . . Add new complications for sports writers: Scores in skeet shooting are recorded "224x225" or "99x100" instead of "224 out of, etc." . . . American league players vote the title of "the year's tough luck pitcher" to Nelson Potter of the Athletics. . . . They say he could win 20 games easily with a first division club. . . . Charley Malone, the Washington Redskins end, now is Chief Flying Thunder of the Sioux tribe. . . . He was inducted when the club stopped over in South Dakota while en route to camp in Spokane. . . . The Alameda [Cal.] girls' softball team has scored 96 straight victories. . . . If the Yankees finish in the second division it will be their first such experience since 1925, when they wound up seventh. . . . Golfers who forget to turn in cards at the Lakewood [N. J.] Country club are dunked in a nearby brook. . . . The Temple university football team never has played its opening game away from home. . . . Colorado is the latest state to seek legalization of parimutuel betting. . . . The Pirates clear $8,000 annually from the Forbes field score card concession.

Conn, Pastor Bout Set Back Until Sept. 5

New York, Aug. 13 (AP).—The Billy Conn-Bob Pastor fight was rained out today and postponed for three weeks. Since the same downpour also washed out Joe Louis' September plans, negotiations were reopened to send Max Baer against the heavyweight champion again next month.

The Conn-Pastor contest, which was to have decided a September challenger for Louis, was shifted from the Polo Grounds to Madison Square Garden.

Baer was to have met Louis as a result of his victory over Tony Galento in July. But when Jacobs offered 22½ per cent of the gate, Max held out for a guarantee of $50,000.

In addition to Anderson and Wieman, the guests will include Nile Kinnick of Iowa, Ken Kavanaugh of Louisiana State, Joe Thesing of Notre Dame, Lou Brock of Purdue, Ambrose Schindler of Southern California, John Haman of Northwestern and Arch Ward, sports editor of THE TRIBUNE.

WHITE SOX AGAIN STRIKE LATE IN BEATING BROWNS

Fourth Straight Victory Gained on Wright's Hit.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 13.—The dashing White Sox were sort of quiet about their work for a good portion of this afternoon, but eventually got around to producing another of their new specialties. It took them six innings to accomplish a tie, and with this three run task attended to they rested until the ninth. Then the bats of Luke Appling and Taft Wright walloped home a run that flattened the Browns, 4 to 3, giving the Chicagoans their fourth straight victory. All were won either in the eighth or ninth innings.

The honor of presiding at the party that carried James Dykes's athletes to one game behind the third place Boston Red Sox fell to Pete Appleton, the ex-Senator. He was put to work in the sixth just after the Sox had accomplished the three run display that made amends for what the Browns did to Bill Dietrich in the first and fourth innings. And the rescuer had such talent that he didn't give up even one hit while recording his fourth victory against no defeats.

Vern Kennedy the Victim.

Vern Kennedy, once one of the Chicago troops, pitched all the way for the Browns, and tho he was effective for a time, the Sox helped to make it possible. In the first five innings they made only two hits, both by Jim Webb, but during this same span subsided twice without runs after the bases had been filled. But when the ex-trailer tenant let 'em become filled again in the sixth the Sox were ready. Mike Tresh and Bob Kennedy hit singles on top of two passes, and Ken Silvestri, pinch hitting for Dietrich, furnished the tying wallop with a double.

During the seventh and eighth, Kennedy gave up two more passes to raise his total to nine and then retired the first two men in the ninth before learning the Sox had plans for a quick finish. The two outs were terrific flies by Mike Kreevich and Joe Kuhel. Then Appling singled to right, and Wright, recognizing the first pitch as a choice item, whacked it into left center for a two bagger, Appling scoring what proved the winning run.

Dietrich Is Greeted Noisily.

Dietrich began his day's work by walking Don Heffner and soon thereafter had reason to regret his lack of aim. He headed off Joe Grace and

All-Stars Get Encouragement as They Work

Nine Named to Race Today in Hambletonian

Goshen, N. Y., Aug. 13 [Special].—A field of nine 3-year-old trotters today was named to face the barrier tomorrow in the Hambletonian stake, classic of the light harness world. With fair weather and a fast track, a crowd of at least 40,000 is expected to jam the stands and bleachers of Good Time Park.

It will be the 14th trotting of the famous event and the 10th time it has been held in this little town which thus has gained world-wide fame. The entry is about average. The largest was 14 in the first Hambletonian in 1926 and the smallest in 1931 when six started.

This year's race will gross $43,658.45 and will be worth $23,077 to the winner. Six horses will share in the money, $8,391 going to the second and $3,035 to the third horse

Race Again Wide Open.

Once more the Hambletonian is a wide open race, the odds having shifted rapidly in the last few weeks. In the winter books, the public choice was the bay colt, Kuno, owned by Dunbar W. Bostwick of old West-

Cordill Suffers Broken Toe in All-Star Drill

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Olie Cordill, fleet half back from Rice institute, is the first casualty in the College All-Star camp. Cordill broke a toe on his left foot in the morning drill yesterday in Dyche stadium, but is expected to be able to play against the Green Bay Packers in Soldiers' field Aug. 29.

Cordill's injury wasn't learned until several hours afterward. He apparently suffered it during a sprint down field under a kick, but at that time he didn't feel a severe pain. Upon reporting for the afternoon drill, he was sent to the team physician because of the swelling in his foot and the subsequent X-ray revealed the injury.

Cordill's foot was placed in a cast, which cannot be removed for 10 days. Since the Texan is one of the finest punters on the squad, he probably will get into the lineup at some stage of the battle.

All-Stars Are Speedy.

The keynote of this All-Star squad is speed. While the boys still are drilling without pads and concentrating on offensive plays, there is no let-up in the emphasis on speed. Coach Eddie Anderson, at a meeting of his assistants yesterday noon in the Goodrich house between the team's practices, drew up the final pass plays to supplement the running attack. With frequent suggestions from Tad Wieman of Princeton, and Lowell Dawson of Tulane, Anderson drew the course of the ends and half backs who will decoy the defense or receive the passes.

There is no secret about Anderson's plans for the All-Stars. He expects to have his most difficult problem later when he must devise a system of defense against the Packers' passes thrown by Cecil Isbell, Arnie Herber, and Bob Monnett. But while this will be a task for the All-Star staff, Anderson hopes to give Curley Lambeau and Red Smith of the Packers sleepless nights thinking of means to stop passes by Nile Kinnick and others.

Anderson Favors Open Game.

The All-Stars have power for line smashes with such forwards as Harry Smith of Southern California, possibly the best guard in the history of the All-American-Professional competi-

DAYS OF GIANTS NOT OVER; LOOK AT ALL-STARS!

A glance at the uniform chart in the College All-Stars dressing room in Dyche stadium would lead one to believe that the days of the giants are not gone, after all. Among the eye-stoppers are Jim Reeder, Illinois tackle, who weighs 220 pounds, wears a size 48 jersey and has a 38 waist measurement; Clyde [Bulldog] Turner, center from Hardin-Simmons, with a 39 waist and a 48 jersey, and Win Pedersen, Minnesota guard, 6 feet 3½ inches tall, weight 215 pounds, and a size 48 jersey.

The equipment room boys were all set for Johnny Haman, Northwestern center, when he put in a request for a pair of shoes, size 12. It took a bit of scurrying around, however, to come up with a size 8 headgear for Walter Merrill, Alabama tackle.

Ken Kavanaugh, towering end from Louisiana State joined the squad yesterday morning from Kilgore, Tex., where he has been playing baseball all summer. Kavanaugh reported that he has been hitting the ball in excess of .300 this season and that he plans to continue with baseball after the game with Green Bay.

COACHES ORDER FULL SPEED FOR ALL-STAR GAME

Rookies Battle for Starting Jobs.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Green Bay, Wis., Aug. 13.—Oppressive heat in the morning and a steady drizzle in the afternoon did not prevent the Green Bay Packers from breaking all precedent today by engaging in rough work on the second day of their preparation for the Chicago All-Star game Aug. 29.

No professional team in the seven year history of the All-Star series has gotten down to the rigorous phases of conditioning with such rapidity. Seasoned observers took it as an indication that the Packers expect to enter the game with more scrimmage than any of their predecessors, regardless of the risk involved.

Signals Elude Players.

After newsreel photographers had finished with assignments at the morning drill, blocking aprons were hauled out for a dummy scrimmage. Before the drill progressed thru a dozen plays the Packers turned it into a regular scrimmage, with backs leaving their feet to mow down defenders and ball carriers striving for distance. A halt was called only when too many missed signals brought a rebuke and orders for night classes from Coach Curley Lambeau.

At the outset of the All-Star series the professionals shunned scrimmage. Their rosters were too small to permit worth while intrasquad skirmishes, and furthermore, scrimmage does not hold as prominent a place in the pros' normal routine as it does in college, where actual game conditions are the most effective means of teaching inexperienced players.

Innovation Brings Victory.

Failure to run away with the All-Stars in the first few games led to more attention being given this phase of conditioning, until finally the New York Giants last summer called in the Chicago Cardinals for two practice games behind locked gates. The experiment was an unqualified success. The Giants beat the All-Stars, 9 to 0.

With this case history before him, Lambeau entered into this year's preparations with a definite schedule of intrasquad games and dates for practice encounters against any professional teams he can induce to come to Green Bay. The first of these may be the Columbus Bullies of the American league, who open training this week in nearby Two Rivers. The first intrasquad game is set for Friday night.

But with all his planning, Lambeau had not expected that scrimmage would be a part of his program on the second day, nor had he anticipated the spirited rivalry for jobs which developed suddenly with the impressive showing of a dozen rookies.

They're Ready for Work.

Restraint was beyond some of the more ambitious players when they got a ball in their hands and had a shot at opponents who were protected in the new blocking pads and the exaggerated combinations of umpires' chest protectors and hockey goalies' shin guards that give the wearer the appearance of something out of "Alice in Wonderland."

Within a few minutes, everybody was entering into the spirit of the thing and a rousing little ball game was under way. At its conclusion, there was no doubt of the accuracy of earlier appraisals of the squad's condition. The Packers came to camp prepared for work and football.

The afternoon session saw a great deal of effort devoted to punting for the first time. Eight men took part in this drill, indicating that the Packers never will be without a kicker.

Daily Lectures Planned.

Clark Hinkle, veteran all-National league full back, one of the better punters of the league, led the drill, with Cecil Isbell, Arnie Herber, Frank Balazs, Dick Weisgerber, Larry Buhler, and Jim Gillette, the rookie half back from Virginia, all consistently getting away good kicks.

Lectures will form a regular part of the daily drill for the remainder of the training period, Lambeau said after chiding the players for not being better acquainted with the plays handed out last Saturday morning.

X-RAY REVEALS BROKEN BONE IN SIROCCO'S FOOT

Classic Winner's Future Up to Trainer Smith.

Dixiana's Sirocco, the favorite which finished second to Mioland in the American Derby last Saturday, suffered a broken bone in his right forefoot, X-rays revealed yesterday. The foot was placed in a cast.

Sirocco came out of the Derby Saturday cut about the legs, but it was not until veterinarians ordered the X-ray that the fracture was disclosed. Trainer Jimmy Smith of Dixiana is at Rockingham Park and Sirocco is here in charge of Stable Foreman Tom Hill. The latter will confer with Trainer Smith by phone tonight to decide on future plans for Sirocco, who leaped into national prominence in winning the Arlington Classic.

The stamina of seven of the best route runners on the grounds will be tested over the two and three-quarter miles of the Lucien Lyne handicap, third in the series of five marathon races, which will be the feature at Washington Park today.

Mrs. Marie Evans' Shot Put will carry top weight of 126 pounds. Others in the field are Holl Image, winner of the two mile feature at Arlington Park; Noble Count, Temulac, Chieck Rama, Winning Mark, and Traicionero.

The distance feature is one of three handicaps which feature today's program. The others are the mile Joliet handicap and the six furlongs Sheridan handicap. In the latter event, Valdina Farm's Viscounty, a candidate for the $25,000 Washington Park handicap, will carry top weight of 116 pounds in making his 1940 Chicago debut.

Nine Named to Race Today in Hambletonian

bury, N. Y. He still has a big following, but is likely to go to the post no better than second choice.

The overnight favorite is Spencer Scott, owned by C. W. Phellis of Greenwich, Conn. He will be driven by his trainer, Fred Egan. Spencer Scott owes his rating to his great comeback at the recent meeting at Narragansett Park where he won the National stake and was second in the American stake.

He set his present record of 2:02¼, the fastest time for 3 year old trotters this season, in the National. This colt is by Scotland-May Spencer. Both his sire and the sire of his dam were in the 1928 Hambletonian, Spencer winning and Scotland finishing third.

Winner of Three This Year.

Spencer Scott won one race as a 2 year old, finishing that year with a record of 2:05. He has started four times this year and won three races. He was quoted at 3 to 2 tonight.

Kuno, the bay son of Guy and Princess Gay, was outstanding as a 2 year old, winning five of nine starts, including the Harriman cup, National stake, Horseman stake, Reading futurity, and Junior Kentucky futurity. His record of 2:04½ was gained in the second heat of the Kentucky futurity. He has started four times this year, winning the American stake, second in the Stallion stake, and placing in the Matron and National stakes.

Remus and Milestone are figured as likely to be well up in the money. Earl's Moody Guy also is given a chance by many on the stretch of a brilliant finish at Narragansett Park a fortnight ago.

The mutuel windows for the Hambletonian stake will be opened at 11 a.m. As a concession to trotting horse folk, who never have considered a heat as a race, there will be a special mutuel window at which bets may be placed on the result of the complete race.

ATLAS DEFEATS HANLEYS, IN 1ST TITLE GAME, 5-4

Joe Sypien's home run in the seventh inning last night gave the Atlas All-Americans a 5 to 4 victory over the Witt Hanleys in the first of a three game series to determine the men's free lance slow pitching championship in the Metropolitan soft ball tournament games in Rand stadium. Rain interfered with the Parichy stadium card with the result that only one game was played, in which the Judge Oscar Nelsons beat the Schwinn Bikes, 8 to 7, in a girls' slow pitching semi-final contest.

The balance of last night's card is scheduled for tonight in Parichy stadium, with girls' major and men's fast pitching contests featuring the competition. Four games will be played in Rand stadium where the Atlas All-Americans will meet the Hanleys in the second game of the championship series.

750 GOLFERS WILL TAKE PART TODAY IN CAMEL TRAIL

The Medinah Country club's annual Camel Trail, largest invitational tournament of the Chicago district season, will be held today. A field of more than 750 players is expected to play over the big west side club's three courses.

Also on the day's program are the final team matches of the Chicago Women's District Golf association at Skokie and Westmoreland's annual invitational, the Tam o' Shanter. The latter is a 27-hole event, with a field of 250 anticipated.

Tomorrow founders and pioneer members of the Butterfield Country club, founded in 1920, will hold a special anniversary tournament.

Time, 1:38 3-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Flying Silver, $39.20 straight, $12.20 place, $4.40 show; Trysak, $4.40 place, $2.80 show; Chin Music, $3.00 show. Winner trained by H. Wells. Went to post at 3:15½. Off at once. Start good, for all but Amnesty. Won driving, place same.

FLYING SILVER dropped back soon after the start, won drawing away. TRYSAK, under steadying restraint while closely attended by GAMBIT, was taken in hand when the latter moved into the lead, regained the command when ready, drew clear rapidly and, weakly handled in the last stages, was unable to hold the winner. CHIN MUSIC, factor from the start, weakened near the end.

FOURTH RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Two year olds. Claiming. Purse $1,000. Net value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50.

POTRANCO WINS OVER EQUISTAR IN STRETCH RUN

Alhalon Third in Sprint at Washington Park.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Potranco, the Lexbrook stable's good sprinter, drew a relatively easy assignment yesterday at Washington Park after he had been asked to run against Joseph E. Widener's Roman in his two previous starts. He was sent to the post as the 3 to 5 favorite in the Wildwood purse, a 6 furlong allowance event which brought out a field of six 3 years olds.

Potranco scored handily enough, but it wasn't until midstretch that he was able to overhaul Mrs. Emil Denemark's Equistar, which had cut out a fast early pace. Once in the lead Potranco went on to win by a length and a half while Equistar was protecting second place from the strong finishing Alhalon.

Up to Best Midsummer Form.

Trainer L. J. Wilson has Potranco right up to his best midsummer form. The horse covered the 6 furlongs in 1:11 4-5. He has now won three and taken one second place in his last four starts. The most significant of these achievements was a victory over Roman at Arlington Park. Subsequently he ran second while the Widener colorbearer was setting a new track record of 1:10 1-5 for 6 furlongs at Washington Park.

The Woolford farm's Prompt Pay, making his first start since the Hialeah meeting, was established as the 7 to 2 second choice to Potranco in the betting. He showed that he needed a race, however, finishing in last place.

Equistar Goes to Front.

Equistar forged ahead soon after the break, while Flying Jane forced the pace. On the turn Potranco moved up and conquered Flying Jane but Equistar maintained an advantage of a length and a half as they headed into the stretch. Here Jockey Jack Richards sent Potranco up on the outside of the pace setter.

After a brisk duel, Potranco took command at the eighth pole and had no more trouble thereafter. Meanwhile Alhalon, which had been fairly close to the pace thruout, was holding on well for third place. Mutuel tickets on the winner were worth $3.40, $2.60 and $2.40 for win, place and show.

As a Rule.

The way to keep cool on days like these,
When the temperature's high and there isn't a breeze,
Is to sit very still with a long, cool drink,
Sit and sip and don't even think.
A cold glass of beer, with plenty on hand—
Doesn't much matter, bottled or canned;
A soothing Tom Collins is easy to take,
Of course, there's the work it requires to make;
A highball, well iced, has a friendly appeal,
And two or three more have a friendlier feel;
Of course there are soft drinks, perhaps lemonade,
Hundreds of pops, and more being made.
In fact there's no end to the drinks to keep cool,
But you'll find that plain water's the best as a rule! —Robert Blackadder.

It's a Big Day for Jockeys

The 15 day contest at Washington Park which will bring the leading rider a $500 prize will be decided with today's races. The top jockeys thru yesterday were Wendell Eads (right) with 84 points and Bill Thompson (left) with 73. Five points are awarded for a victory, two for a second, and one for a third. Apprentice Hugh Lemons with 70 points has a chance to overtake the leaders today. Second and third prizes of $250 and $125 will be awarded.

INDIANS STRETCH LEAD TO 2 GAMES; BEAT TIGERS, 6-5

Cleveland, O., Aug. 13 (AP).—The Cleveland Indians stretched their league lead over Detroit to two games with a 6 to 5 victory over the Tigers today. The Indians won in the ninth inning when Dutch Meyer, rookie second baseman, allowed Ben Chapman's hot smash to go thru his legs. Ray Mack, who had singled and advanced on a sacrifice and another hit, trotted home with the winning tally. Johnny Gorsica, Detroit's starter, limited the Indians to two hits for six innings, but weakened in the seventh and gave way to Al Benton. The Tigers' ace relief hurler stopped the Indians after two runs scored, but gave up two runs in the eighth. Cleveland used five pitchers, credit for the victory going to the last, Harry Eisenstat, whose sole chore was to retire pinch hitter Pete Fox. Score:

YANKEES WIN TWICE.

New York, Aug. 13 (AP).—The Yankees looked like the Yankees today. Unleashing a barrage of five homers in two games and getting a fine five hit pitching job from Marius Russo in the first, they tromped the Boston Red Sox in both ends of a rainy double header, 9 to 1 and 19 to 8. The second one went only six and a half innings, because of darkness.

ATHLETICS BEAT LEONARD.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 13 (AP).—The revamped Athletics, with Bob Johnson and Benny McCoy on the bench, pounded out 13 hits tonight to beat the Washington Senators, 6 to 3, as Johnny Babich outpitched Dutch Leonard.

Three hits, coupled with a fielder's choice, gave the A's three runs in the first inning. Sam Chapman's single scored Joe Gantenbein, a fielder's choice by Jimmy Bloodworth on Dick Siebert's grounder brought in Chapman and Wilson Miles crossed as Frank Hayes fanned and Siebert was doubled at second.

Four hits climaxed by Chapman's second single and Dick Siebert's double gave the A's three more runs in the fifth. Score:

BEES TROUNCE GIANTS.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 13 (AP).—The New York Giants lost about everything they could in one game today. They lost the game to the Boston Bees, 4 to 1; their Harry Danning lost the National league batting lead to Carvel Rowell, and they lost their manager, Bill Terry, who was ousted for the third time in his managerial career for protesting a decision too vehemently.

ST. LOUIS DROPS CHICAGO TYPOS FROM MEET, 8-4

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 13 (AP).—The Detroit Typos' baseball team blasted out an 11 to 2 victory over Cincinnati in the second round of the International Printers' tournament today. Pitcher Trudeau yielded but seven hits while his Detroit teammates scored in all but one inning.

Chicago, Baltimore, and the Minneapolis-St. Paul team were defeated for the second time and eliminated. In an eighth inning attack the St. Louis club pounded out three doubles and four singles for five runs to win, 8 to 4, over Chicago. Washington came from behind to defeat the Twin Cities, 10 to 7, and Pittsburgh trounced Baltimore, 12 to 5. New York whipped Indianapolis, 8 to 2.

Cardinals Win Over Cubs, 5-1, Behind Shoun

Owen's first double and a pass to Martin Marion, whereupon Shoun bounced a squeeze bunt over French's head, Koy scoring and the bases remaining loaded. Further production in the inning was averted when Brown grounded into a double play.

Wasted singles by Koy and Owen in the fourth were the only happenings to disturb the serenity and quiet from the second inning to the fifth, in which the St. Louisans added their third run on a triple by Brown and a single by Pepper Martin.

Cannonading in the Sixth.

There was a bit of cannonading in the Cardinals' sixth. Koy made his third straight hit, a double, and scored on Owen's third straight hit, also a double. Owen scored on Shoun's single.

Charley Root held the Cardinals to a single by Joe Orengo in the seventh and eighth innings. Ken Raffensberger retired the side in order in the ninth.

The Cubs did not know at the end of their game that the Reds, their foes of today, had made two in the ninth and one in the tenth to beat the Pirates, 4 to 3. Later there was some unhappiness for the Cubs, who naturally hate to encounter the Reds in a fighting mood. There was some comfort in the defeat of the Pirates, who lead the Cubs by two games.

PASSEAU FACES REDS

The league leading Cincinnati Reds, who have seen their lead over the Dodgers shaved from nine to five games in the last two weeks, will open a three game series with the Cubs in Wrigley field this afternoon. Claude Passeau is scheduled to start for the Cubs and, according to advices from Pittsburgh, Whitey Moore will pitch for the champions.

GARY TURNS OUT TO HONOR ZALE AT FETE TONIGHT

Mayor Ernest Schaible will honor Tony Zale with a banquet in Marquette park pavilion in Gary tonight. Tony, who is training in Trafton's gymnasium for a 10 round bout with Billy Soose of Farrell, Pa., in Mills stadium next Wednesday, earned this regard by dethroning Al Hostak as middleweight champion in Seattle last month.

One thousand reservations have been made for the affair. Among those present will be Joe [Whitewash] Triner, chairman of the Illinois boxing commission; Bill Rand, promoter of the impending match, and Art Winch, co-manager with Sam Pian of Zale. The Rev. Harold Kenny will represent the Most Rev. Bernard J. Sheil, head of the Catholic Youth organization.

Golden Gloves Product.

Zale, who is the first boxer from Gary to win a world title, is a product of the Chicago Golden Gloves tournament. He started boxing in 1931 in the Gary Y. M. C. A., following in the footsteps of his brothers, Walter, John, Frank, and Joe, all of whom have since retired from the ring. After being graduated from Froebel High school in Gary, the following year, Tony participated in sectional Golden Gloves meets sponsored by the Gary Post-Tribune. However, the heavy hitting lad didn't make much headway until 1934 when he qualified for THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE's Tournament of Champions.

Zale failed to win a championship, but his punching prowess caught the eyes of the Golden Gloves coaches and he was placed on the intercity team for the fights against New York.

Took Joe Louis' Place.

Altho he was only a middleweight Tony was substituted for Joe Louis, light heavyweight title holder that year, against New York's Melio Bettina. Louis was declared ineligible for the intercity bouts because he qualified for the Chicago tournament from Detroit. Zale, who is 26 years old, floored Bettina only to lose the decision.

Zale then turned professional under the direction of his brothers. He scored eight consecutive victories, four by knockouts, before losing his first encounter to Billy Hood in White City Aug. 13, 1934. Tony lost subsequent matches to George Black and Mickey Misko, defeats which caused him to go to work in the steel mills, but he had his fill of the mills after two months and returned to fighting for a livelihood.

1935 Disastrous Year.

Zale knocked out Misko in a return engagement, the achievement being the first of a new string of five straight triumphs. However, he had a disastrous 1935, losing three of four matches, one by a knockout at the hands of Johnny Phagan. After the Phagan embarrassment, Tony returned to his job in the mills, apparently thru with boxing for good.

Zale regained his old confidence in 1937 and performed with a measure of success until June 13, 1938, when the late Benny Ray, then managing Tony, placed the fighter under the management of Pian and Winch. Since then Zale has been riding the crest, losing only two decisions in 19 appearances. He now has a string of 12 straight conquests, 10 by knockouts.

Recapitulation shows the Gary slugger has engaged in 52 matches, winning 41, 22 by knockouts. Of the others he boxed one draw decision and lost 10.

Petrones and Parillos Windy City Headliners

The Petrone Senators and Bill Parillos, leaders in the American division of the Windy City Softball league, are scheduled to play tomorrow night in St. Philip stadium, Kedzie avenue and Van Buren street. The Petrones will play the Fox De Luxe team and the Parillos will meet the John Touhy Demos.

Rip Radcliff successfully, but Walt Judnich tripled over Kreevich's head and Heffner sprinted home. Harlond Clift walked, principally because he was considered a menace. George McQuinn caromed a high powered single off Kuhel's glove and Judnich scored, but Webb recovered and threw out Clift at third.

Not satisfied with the 17 they left on the bases last night, the Sox started out to show they might be able to do as well in daylight. With one out in the second, Wright and Larry Rosenthal walked and after two were gone Bob Kennedy also drew free passage. Dietrich followed with a strikeout. Webb opened the third with a single, was forced by Kreevich, and Kuhel popped out. Then Appling and Wright walked, but Rosenthal grounded to McQuinn and there were three more stranded on the bases.

Vern Kennedy Drives in One.

McQuinn singled to center to open the fourth and in time this hit blossomed into the Browns' third and last run. Webb threw out Johnny Berardino, and Wright saved Dietrich some distress by running toward center to accomplish a one handed catch of Bob Swift's liner. Vern Kennedy drove in McQuinn by singling to center. Dietrich had more trouble in the Browns' fifth. Grace's single, a double by Radcliff and an intentional pass to Judnich loaded the bases with none out, but Dietrich displayed amazing agility getting out of the jam. Clift and McQuinn hit short flies to the outfield and Berardino bounced to Bob Kennedy.

The little matter of tying the score in the sixth got under way when Appling walked. Wright lined to Grace, Rosenthal walked and Tresh singled to fill the bases against Vern Kennedy for the third time. Bob Kennedy singled off Clift's glove to send Appling home. Silvestri strolled up to bat for Dietrich and boomed his two bagger into center, Rosenthal and Tresh carrying in the tying runs. This much happened with only one out, but Webb and Kreevich tapped to the pitcher.

PLAY INDIANS TONIGHT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 13—The Sox and Browns went away from here aboard a special train immediately after the game, the Sox to Cleveland where they play the Indians tomorrow night. Eddie Smith will pitch against Cleveland. Thornton Lee is booked to face the Indians Thursday afternoon in the series final.

Manager James Dykes announced today that Pitcher Ed Weiland has been released to the St. Paul club with a 24 hour recall string attached.

Days of Giants Not Over; Look at All-Stars!

new back field coach, was particularly impressed with the way the west coast star uses his hands. "Kenny is a great passer, because he uses nothing but his hands," Fry said. "The fact that he does not have to wind up or use his body and legs means that he can pass regardless of a tackler hanging on to him."

Mike Kopcha, Chattanooga center, set back the autograph seekers yesterday when he demanded that they spell Chattanooga before he affixed his signature. Many of the youngsters had to seek out a dictionary before they were able to get the big fellow's name in their note books. Neatest hand writing honors, according to the autograph boys, go to Nile Kinnick, Iowa half back. Kinnick, who was drafted by the Brooklyn Dodgers of the National league last December, yesterday said he was still of an open mind on playing pro football. He left the impression he would join the Dodgers if a satisfactory contract is offered him. If he does not play pro football he will return to Iowa to begin his studies in law.

The return to Dyche stadium this summer brought back memories to Lowell Dawson, one of the All-Star coaches from Tulane. His last visit to the Wildcats' lair was in 1930 as a member of the Tulane team which lost a 14 to 0 decision to Northwestern. He still has a vivid recollection of such former Wildcat stars as Hank Bruder, Reb Russell, Dal Marvil, and Jack Riley, who played major rôles in Northwestern's victory over the Green Wave.

RIVAL SLUGGERS TO MEET IN NEGRO ALL-STAR GAME

A new Chicago American Giants' idol may be the hero of Sunday's eighth annual Negro East-West All-Stars baseball game at Comiskey park. He is Don Reeves, outfielder. Reeves is leading the Negro American league in home runs, having taken the play away from Neil Robinson, Memphis Red Sox outfielder, whose homers helped the West win both the 1937 and 1938 All-Star games.

Robinson also is a member of the West squad, giving this section two sluggers to pit against the East's Buck Leonard and Mule Suttles.

Tom Wilson, president of the Negro National league, which furnishes the East squad, announced yesterday that Felton Snow, manager of the Baltimore Elites, will pilot the East squad and play third base. Snow replaces Vic Harris of the Pittsburgh Homestead Grays, originally announced as manager. The West will be managed by Andy Cooper of the Kansas City Monarchs, champions of the Negro American league.

tion; Win Pedersen, Hal Method, John Haman, Stan Andersen, and Walt Merrill, to mention only a few of the men from tackle to tackle who know how this is done. But the All-Star coaching staff is agreed on an air game as much as is feasible.

Coach Anderson was convinced after the 1938 victory of the collegians over the Washington Redskins, 28 to 16, that aggressive, heads-up football, with emphasis on speed and passing, is to be preferred over a more rugged and cautious system of advance.

For cautious strategy, the New York Giants take first honors with their 9 to 0 conquest last August. Three field goals won for New York.

It is one of the unusual facts of the rivalry between the All-Stars and the professionals that in winning two games the pros have failed to score a touchdown. In 1935 the Bears won, 5 to 0, with a field goal by Jack Manders, and a safety. Last year's scoring has been explained. The professionals' touchdowns were made in 1936 when the Detroit Lions tied the All-Stars and in 1938 when Washington was soundly trounced.

To improve the All-Stars' wide open running and passing game, several half backs and quarter backs may be converted to full backs. The All-American coaches are not interested primarily in power. Yesterday Banks McFadden, Clemson half back, was stationed at full back where sweeping runs, after fake spinners, will pay dividends. Amby Schindler, Southern California, Bill Hutchinson, Dartmouth, and Grenville Lansdell, of the Trojans, are other possibilities.

Kickoff drill and dummy scrimmage were particular points emphasized yesterday. Plays will be called from a huddle, Anderson said. The orders for today again call for a double daylight practice.

C. D. G. A. LETS DOWN BARS ON AMATEUR MEET

Top Field Is Expected at Riverside Event.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The Chicago District Golf association, having scored one of its biggest successes in tournament conduct in the Chicago Open last month, will attempt a double next week at Riverside, where the 27th annual C. D. G. A. amateur battle will be waged Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday.

Top event of the C. D. G. A.'s amateur season, the tournament is expected to draw one of the best fields in its history, according to Ted Quinn, member of Riverside and tournament chairman of the C. D. G. A. This anticipation is based on a new ruling of the association whereby every amateur in the country, regardless of residence or club affiliation, has been invited to compete. Yesterday Quinn sent a number of bids to leading amateurs thruout the central states.

Excluded from the Quinn invitation list of yesterday were those in the St. Louis area. The presence of all the stars in that section already has been assured by the arrangement of the annual St. Louis-C. D. G. A. team matches, which will be held Sunday at Medinah, as a prelude to the tournament proper.

John K. David to Play.

In addition, a number of the Badgers who took part in the Illinois-Wisconsin matches in Kenosha last Sunday have indicated that they will be on the tee at Riverside Monday morning. John K. David of Indianapolis, former Purdue captain and one of the longest drivers in amateur golf, is another expected entrant.

All amateur golfers are invited. The entry fee is $5, and should be forwarded to the C. D. G. A. headquarters in the La Salle hotel. Every member of a C. D. G. A. club with a handicap of seven strokes or less and a C. D. G. A. handicap card is eligible. All other players who do not have a C. D. G. A. handicap card, but whose handicap is five strokes or less, also are eligible.

Dawsons, Ferrier in Doubt.

George and Warren Dawson of Glen Oak and Jim Ferrier, the Australian who finished as low amateur in the last three open events of the season, are doubtful starters because of other plans, but they are attempting to adjust these so as to be able to compete.

This 1940 fight for the Joe G. Davis trophy will open Monday with an 18 hole qualifying round. The low 32 scorers in this test will qualify for the championship flight. A first and second flight of sixteen each will be composed of the next 32 scorers.

MAJ. LOHR PLANS MUSEUM THAT IS PROGRESS SHOW

Explains Dismissal of 10 High Officials.

Plans to transform the Museum of Science and Industry in Jackson park into a theaterlike show of progress, in which science and industry will be portrayed as living and dramatic forces of American life, were disclosed yesterday by Maj. Lenox R. Lohr, newly elected president of the museum.

Unlike most such institutions, the museum will concentrate, not on the past, but on the future, Maj. Lohr said. The day by day improvements and developments in the scientific and industrial world, and their meaning as translated into terms of everyday life, will be especially featured among the museum's countless exhibits, he explained.

Sees Great National Museum.

"I visualize the institution, not as just a limited Chicago museum, but as a great national museum, a show, in which science and industry will live as dramatic things," said Maj. Lohr. "The day of the old fashioned type of industrial museum, in which most of the exhibits pertained to another day, is gone.

"We want people to come to look upon the museum as a theater, where they may come to see the latest progress in any field in which they might be interested."

Another important change to be made, he indicated, will be a great increase in the number of spectator-operated exhibits.

"From Chicago's A Century of Progress, of which I was general manager, we learned that people are most attracted to those exhibits which they may operate themselves," said Maj. Lohr. "We are going far in this direction. Where, at the fair we had exhibits which spectators operated by pushbuttons, in the museum we hope to have many exhibits in which they will actually take a real part in operating."

Miniature Rail System.

One such exhibit, a $70,000 miniature railroad system, now is in process of completion, Maj. Lohr said. It is planned that spectators will be allowed to stop and start the miniature trains, and switch them from track to track. An elaborate block signal system is part of this exhibit.

In line with his plan to present exhibits dealing with day by day developments in science and industry, Maj. Lohr announced that three huge halls of the museum, which is housed in the renovated Columbian Exposition Fine Arts building, will be set aside for temporary displays, exhibits which will be shown for only a few weeks or months.

"I plan to invite various industries to put on exhibits in these halls," said Maj. Lohr. "Of course, we will not allow them to advertise their products or sell merchandise while they are exhibiting, and we will select only those industries whose exhibits will be a credit to the museum."

Charge for Exhibit Space.

Maj. Lohr indicated that the museum will charge such industries for exhibit space, and apply the proceeds to the operation of the institution.

Finances of the institution, which was founded by gifts of the late Julius Rosenwald, are in a bad state, Maj. Lohr admitted. He explained the "budgetary reasons" which necessitated the discharge of ten top ranking officials of the museum, including Dr. Philip Fox, the director, and five curators. The dismissals become effective tomorrow.

"I knew when I came to the museum on July 15 that something would have to be done," he said. "I have been a director of the institution for six years, and was well acquainted with the financial setup.

"The museum was operating on a budget more than twice the total of its annual income, even if one included the state museum tax fund of approximately $125,000, which will not become available until next year," Maj. Lohr explained. "By reducing the staff, and by cutting the budget to the bone, I have cut the deficit in half. Now it will be my job to obtain donations from industry to make up the other half."

BOMB HAMMOND LABOR LEADER'S HOME; 3D ATTACK

A third unsuccessful attempt on the life of Frank McCoy, Hammond labor leader, was made last night when a bomb exploded in front of his home at 5433 Tell street, Hammond. Although McCoy and his family were at home, no one was injured. All the windows in the house and in adjoining buildings were shattered.

Last Wednesday, McCoy, who is business agent of the Structural and Ornamental Iron Workers' union, local 395, and former president of the Lake County Central Labor unions, was shot and wounded slightly by a man who, he said, tried to rob him in front of his house. He told police, however, that the man had addressed him familiarly as "Frank" before shooting. Several months ago an unidentified assailant fired a shot at McCoy in the Hammond Labor temple, but the shot went astray.

McCoy told Capt. Sandor Singer last night that he knew of no reasons for either the shootings or the bombing. He insisted there is no trouble in the union. Capt. Singer will question McCoy again today.

9 JURORS CHOSEN TO TRY SCALISE IN UNION FRAUD

New York, Aug. 13 [Special].—Seven additional jurors were chosen during the day before General Sessions Judge Jacob Gould Schurman Jr. for the trial of George Scalise, ex-convict, former president of the Building Service Employés' International union, on a 60 count indictment charging misuse of $60,000 of union funds. This brought the total jurors selected to nine.

To provide against exhaustion of the original blue ribbon panel of 250, which was reduced to little more than 100 by legal excuse, the unusual step was resorted to of drawing an additional panel of 100 during a recess. The jurors chosen today were:

Charles E. Shank, 55, retired sales manager.

Harris S. Nicholls, 46, cost accountant.

Wilbur A. Pearce, 48, bookseller.

Abraham L. Raphael, 51, chemical engineer.

Lee J. Spiegelberg, 31, broker.

TED LEWIS TAKES OVER W-G-N SHOW TOMORROW NIGHT

Ted Lewis will be master of ceremonies for W-G-N-Mutual's presentation of In Chicago Tonight at 7:30 p. m. tomorrow. Lewis, long known as the high hatted tragedian of jazz, will leave the bandstand at the Chez Paree for a while to take charge of this gala air show from W-G-N's studios which will feature also Sabu, the East Indian movie headliner; Tony Martin, radio and movie singer, and Nan Wynn, songstress with Raymond Scott's orchestra at the Hotel Sherman.

The W-G-N Dance orchestra, directed by Harold Stokes, will provide a musical setting. William A. Bacher will direct the production.

An adaptation of "The Thief of Bagdad," written by Fran Coughlin will be presented, starring Sabu. This preview is another in the series of "Movie Nights" given at regular intervals on In Chicago Tonight.

Bishop Patrick Barry.

Jacksonville, Fla., Aug. 13 (AP).—The Most Rev. Patrick Barry, 71 years old, bishop of the St. Augustine diocese, died here last night of a heart ailment. Born in Ireland, he was consecrated bishop in 1922, succeeding the Most Rev. Michael J. Curley, who was named archbishop of Baltimore.

JUDGE AWARDS DOG $12 WEEKLY IN BONE MONEY

Judge Oscar F. Nelson in the Superior court yesterday awarded $12 a week worth of bones and dog food to Muffy, a German shepherd. He also enjoined Herman Belfus, 56 years old, from taking the dog away from his wife Etta, 49, of 8219 Bishop street.

Mrs. Belfus, who is seeking a divorce on charges of intemperance, asked temporary alimony. Michael F. Zlatnik, attorney for Belfus, said there were no children and that Mrs. Belfus receives $100 a month from an estate, so that no alimony was necessary. Harry X. Cole, counsel for Mrs. Belfus, admitted this income, but said that she needed additional funds for Muffy, who weighs 80 pounds and is a hearty eater.

Mrs. Belfus, who was married in 1926, told the judge her husband wanted to give the dog to his first wife, whom he divorced in 1919. To insure Muffy's security, the judge entered the support provision and issued the injunction.

Miss Roberta Lucas, 19 years old, was named Miss Columbia last night from 200 contestants in the La Salle hotel. She will lead the parade of the Cook county Republican delegation at the Wendell L. Willkie notification ceremony Saturday in Elwood, Ind. Miss Lucas, a graduate of Schurz High school, lives at 1543 North Talman avenue. Runners-up were Miss Marge Ursiny, 20, of 7418 Addison street, and Peggy Rush, 18, of 1329 Park avenue, Chicago Heights. Judges were John T. Dempsey, chairman of the Republican county central committee; Doris Paige, head of a Chicago school for models, and John Doctoroff, a Chicago artist.

W. S. FORREST ESTATE ASSETS SET AT $175,000

A petition filed yesterday in the Probate court of Lake county at Waukegan listed assets of the estate of William S. Forrest, veteran Chicago lawyer, at $175,000, all but $25,000 of which is personal property. Legatees are the widow, Emily, of 722 Montgomery road, Highland Park; four sons, two daughters, the Chicago Historical society, Chicago Bar association, and Chicago Law institute, but the terms of the will will not be disclosed until it is filed for probate Sept. 4. Forrest, who appeared in many celebrated criminal cases during his 50 years before the bar, died in his home July 15 at the age of 88.

TURN BAR ASSOCIATION TAX FRAUD CHARGES OVER TO PROSECUTOR

Officials of the Chicago Bar association yesterday turned over to Assistant State's Attorney Thomas G. Bugan all records of an inquiry into the alleged fixing of personal property tax assessments in Cook county. Bugan immediately began a study of the records in conference with William H. King Jr., president of the bar association, and Henry J. Brandt, chairman of the association's taxation committee.

Bugan was assigned to the case by State's Attorney Courtney and will report to his superior at the close of his inquiry, which is expected to last several days.

Two weeks ago the bar association published a 10 page report of its board of managers, charging frauds by so-called "tax service agencies." The association suppressed, however, a longer report from Brandt's taxation committee.

The Brandt committee report was said to have included names of alleged tax fixers and to have cited specific cases of fixing.

It is this report and the transcribed record of the hearings which the association turned over to Bugan yesterday.

15,000 AT FIRST DAY OF 80TH FAIR IN CROWN POINT

The 80th annual Lake county [Ind.] fair opened at Crown Point yesterday with an estimated afternoon crowd of 15,000. The fair will continue thru Saturday.

On the fair grounds are 400 hogs, 300 cattle, 70 calves being exhibited by 4-H club members, 1,000 fowl, 100 draft horses and more than 100 show and race horses. They are to compete for handsome prizes in the various championship classes. Leading stock raisers from five central western states are among the exhibitors.

Pacing and trotting races are to be held each afternoon.

WOMAN WRITES LIFE'S BALANCE SHEET, THEN DIES

A strange balance sheet of a woman's life was found yesterday in Mrs. Elizabeth Taylor's room at 2017 Cleveland avenue after her death in County hospital from what the coroner's office believed to be an overdose of sleeping tablets.

"Here am I," it began, "a woman of 41. But first, what am I?"

Neatly typed, then, were these assets: "Long line of forebears, noted for loyalty, clever diplomacy, courage, ability to endure and survive sufferings and hardships. An iron constitution. A brilliant mind." Against these, Mrs. Taylor, a widow, listed misfortunes and physical ailments as liabilities. Mrs. Taylor came here a year ago from South Dakota. She was taken to the hospital after being found unconscious in her room.

Chicago Efficiency Experts Reported to Be Aiding Knox

Representatives of the Chicago business survey firm of Booz, Fry, Allen, and Hamilton are in Washington, D. C., it was learned yesterday, and are reported to be assisting Secretary of the Navy Knox in increasing the efficiency of the navy department and in speeding the naval expansion program. Edwin G. Booz has an office a few doors from the office of Knox. Naval press attachés were unable to say whether the firm was being paid for its work.

How To Ease Tired Burning Feet

Here's the secret that keeps feet happy, cool and comfortable. No more suffering from that tired, burning feeling that nearly drives you crazy. Here's what to do. Every night bathe your feet and ankles in warm water and give them a good rubbing with Ice-Mint. It relaxes tired, aching foot muscles, due to fatigue. Its soothing, cooling action relieves the discomforts of tired, burning feet. Ice-Mint also eases the pain and helps soften stinging callouses. And oh, how icy-cool it leaves your feet. Get stainless Ice-Mint today from your druggist.

[ADVERTISMENT]

If you SNARLED At Breakfast This Morning

—your acid disposition may trace from too high a percentage of acid in the contents of your bladder. Such a condition can result from kidneys failing to eliminate at least 3 pints a day. As a result, the contents of your bladder, by being insufficiently diluted, can be so highly acid that they are torturing and irritating the sensitive bladder linings.

That can cause those "overwhelming urges" which ruin your sleep, itching, burning passages. It can also cause pains in back, lower abdomen and legs. If sleepy-eyed from disturbed slumber, jittery from discomforts, your outburst at breakfast can be explained.

If you don't eliminate 3 pints a day, if "overwhelming urges" ruin your sleep, if other discomforts also indicate possible excess acidity in the bladder contents—

Make amends to those whom your irritability wounded this morning by starting to take FOLEY PILLS at once! They stimulate kidney elimination and thereby help dilute the over-acid contents of the bladder, help relieve irritations of the bladder linings from excess acidity. Quick results—quick comfort—quick satisfaction or your money back. At your druggist.

MAJ. LOHR PLANS MUSEUM THAT IS PROGRESS SHOW

Explains Dismissal of 10 High Officials.

Plans to transform the Museum of Science and Industry in Jackson park into a theaterlike show of progress, in which science and industry will be portrayed as living and dramatic forces of American life, were disclosed yesterday by Maj. Lenox R. Lohr, newly elected president of the museum.

Unlike most such institutions, the museum will concentrate, not on the past, but on the future, Maj. Lohr said. The day by day improvements and developments in the scientific and industrial world, and their meaning as translated into terms of everyday life, will be especially featured among the museum's countless exhibits, he explained.

Sees Great National Museum.

"I visualize the institution, not as just a limited Chicago museum, but as a great national museum, a show, in which science and industry will live as dramatic things," said Maj. Lohr. "The day of the old fashioned type of industrial museum, in which most of the exhibits pertained to another day, is gone.

"We want people to come to look upon the museum as a theater, where they may come to see the latest progress in any field in which they might be interested."

Another important change to be made, he indicated, will be a great increase in the number of spectator-operated exhibits.

"From Chicago's A Century of Progress, of which I was general manager, we learned that people are most attracted to those exhibits which they may operate themselves," said Maj. Lohr. "We are going far in this direction. Where, at the fair we had exhibits which spectators operated by pushbuttons, in the museum we hope to have many exhibits in which they will actually take a real part in operating."

Miniature Rail System.

One such exhibit, a $70,000 miniature railroad system, now is in process of completion, Maj. Lohr said. It is planned that spectators will be allowed to stop and start the miniature trains, and switch them from track to track. An elaborate block signal system is part of this exhibit.

In line with his plan to present exhibits dealing with day by day developments in science and industry, Maj. Lohr announced that three huge halls of the museum, which is housed in the renovated Columbian Exposition Fine Arts building, will be set aside for temporary displays, exhibits which will be shown for only a few weeks or months.

"I plan to invite various industries to put on exhibits in these halls," said Maj. Lohr. "Of course, we will not allow them to advertise their products or sell merchandise while they are exhibiting, and we will select only those industries whose exhibits will be a credit to the museum."

Charge for Exhibit Space.

Maj. Lohr indicated that the museum will charge such industries for exhibit space, and apply the proceeds to the operation of the institution.

Finances of the institution, which was founded by gifts of the late Julius Rosenwald, are in a bad state, Maj. Lohr admitted. He explained the "budgetary reasons" which necessitated the discharge of ten top ranking officials of the museum, including Dr. Philip Fox, the director, and five curators. The dismissals become effective tomorrow.

"I knew when I came to the museum on July 15 that something would have to be done," he said. "I have been a director of the institution for six years, and was well acquainted with the financial setup.

"The museum was operating on a budget more than twice the total of its annual income, even if one included the state museum tax fund of approximately $125,000, which will not become available until next year," Maj. Lohr explained. "By reducing the staff, and by cutting the budget to the bone, I have cut the deficit in half. Now it will be my job to obtain donations from industry to make up the other half."

BOMB HAMMOND LABOR LEADER'S HOME; 3D ATTACK

A third unsuccessful attempt on the life of Frank McCoy, Hammond labor leader, was made last night when a bomb exploded in front of his home at 5433 Tell street, Hammond. Although McCoy and his family were at home, no one was injured. All the windows in the house and in adjoining buildings were shattered.

Last Wednesday, McCoy, who is business agent of the Structural and Ornamental Iron Workers' union, local 395, and former president of the Lake County Central Labor unions, was shot and wounded slightly by a man who, he said, tried to rob him in front of his house. He told police, however, that the man had addressed him familiarly as "Frank" before shooting. Several months ago an unidentified assailant fired a shot at McCoy in the Hammond Labor temple, but the shot went astray.

McCoy told Capt. Sandor Singer last night that he knew of no reasons for either the shootings or the bombing. He insisted there is no trouble in the union. Capt. Singer will question McCoy again today.

IDENTIFY AUTO VICTIM, KILLED ON WEST SIDE

The body of a man who was killed yesterday at Western avenue and Roosevelt road was identified as that of Rubin Rosenfeldt, 70 years old, 1651 South Lawndale avenue, a retired machinist. He was killed after getting off a street car. The driver of the automobile was Bernard Seigh, 1542 South Washtenaw avenue.

Mrs. Lena Douglas Anderson, 70, of 4148 North Leamington avenue, died Monday in Chillicothe, Mo., of injuries incurred Friday in an automobile accident near there. She was the wife of Charles A. Anderson, former chief telegraph operator for THE TRIBUNE, who was injured in the accident.

Mrs. Annie Farrell, 63, a widow living at 6333 South Mozart street, died in People's hospital Monday night at 24th street and Wentworth avenue after being struck by an automobile. The car was driven by Peter Tomaino of 315 24th place.

21 Women Who Married Aliens Regain Citizenship

Twenty-one American born women who lost their citizenship by marrying aliens regained citizenship before Judge William H. Holly in federal court yesterday. The law which cost the citizenship of women who married aliens was in force from 1907 to 1922. In such cases, citizenship can be regained by submitting birth and marriage records in federal court and taking a citizenship oath.

9 JURORS CHOSEN TO TRY SCALISE IN UNION FRAUD

New York, Aug. 13 [Special].—Seven additional jurors were chosen during the day before General Sessions Judge Jacob Gould Schurman Jr. for the trial of George Scalise, ex-convict, former president of the Building Service Employés' International union, on a 60 count indictment charging misuse of $60,000 of union funds. This brought the total jurors selected to nine.

To provide against exhaustion of the original blue ribbon panel of 250, which was reduced to little more than 100 by legal excuse, the unusual step was resorted to of drawing an additional panel of 100 during a recess. The jurors chosen today were:

Wilbur A. Pearce, 48, bookseller.

Lee J. Spiegelberg, 31, broker.

TED LEWIS TAKES OVER W-G-N SHOW TOMORROW NIGHT

Ted Lewis will be master of ceremonies for W-G-N-Mutual's presentation of In Chicago Tonight at 7:30 p. m. tomorrow. Lewis, long known as the high hatted tragedian of jazz, will leave the bandstand at the Chez Paree for a while to take charge of this gala air show from W-G-N's studios which will feature also Sabu, the East Indian movie headliner; Tony Martin, radio and movie singer, and Nan Wynn, songstress with Raymond Scott's orchestra at the Hotel Sherman.

The W-G-N Dance orchestra, directed by Harold Stokes, will provide a musical setting. William A. Bacher will direct the production.

Judge Oscar F. Nelson in the Superior court yesterday awarded $12 a week worth of bones and dog food to Muffy, a German shepherd. He also enjoined Herman Belfus, 56 years old, from taking the dog away from his wife Etta, 49, of 8219 Bishop street.

Mrs. Belfus, who is seeking a divorce on charges of intemperance, asked temporary alimony. Michael F. Zlatnik, attorney for Belfus, said there were no children and that Mrs. Belfus receives $100 a month from an estate, so that no alimony was necessary. Harry X. Cole, counsel for Mrs. Belfus, admitted this income, but said that she needed additional funds for Muffy, who weighs 80 pounds and is a hearty eater.

Mrs. Belfus, who was married in 1926, told the judge her husband wanted to give the dog to his first wife, whom he divorced in 1919. To insure Muffy's security, the judge entered the support provision and issued the injunction.

Miss Roberta Lucas, 19 years old, was named Miss Columbia last night from 200 contestants in the La Salle hotel. She will lead the parade of the Cook county Republican delegation at the Wendell L. Willkie notification ceremony Saturday in Elwood, Ind. Miss Lucas, a graduate of Schurz High school, lives at 1543 North Talman avenue. Runners-up were Miss Marge Ursiny, 20, of 7418 Addison street, and Peggy Rush, 18, of 1329 Park avenue, Chicago Heights. Judges were John T. Dempsey, chairman of the Republican county central committee; Doris Paige, head of a Chicago school for models, and John Doctoroff, a Chicago artist.

W. S. FORREST ESTATE ASSETS SET AT $175,000

A petition filed yesterday in the Probate court of Lake county at Waukegan listed assets of the estate of William S. Forrest, veteran Chicago lawyer, at $175,000, all but $25,000 of which is personal property. Legatees are the widow, Emily, of 722 Montgomery road, Highland Park; four sons, two daughters, the Chicago Historical society, Chicago Bar association, and Chicago Law institute, but the terms of the will will not be disclosed until it is filed for probate Sept. 4. Forrest, who appeared in many celebrated criminal cases during his 50 years before the bar, died in his home July 15 at the age of 88.

TURN BAR ASSOCIATION TAX FRAUD CHARGES OVER TO PROSECUTOR

Officials of the Chicago Bar association yesterday turned over to Assistant State's Attorney Thomas G. Bugan all records of an inquiry into the alleged fixing of personal property tax assessments in Cook county. Bugan immediately began a study of the records in conference with William H. King Jr., president of the bar association, and Henry J. Brandt, chairman of the association's taxation committee.

Bugan was assigned to the case by State's Attorney Courtney and will report to his superior at the close of his inquiry, which is expected to last several days.

Two weeks ago the bar association published a 10 page report of its board of managers, charging frauds by so-called "tax service agencies." The association suppressed, however, a longer report from Brandt's taxation committee.

The Brandt committee report was said to have included names of alleged tax fixers and to have cited specific cases of fixing.

It is this report and the transcribed record of the hearings which the association turned over to Bugan yesterday.

15,000 AT FIRST DAY OF 80TH FAIR IN CROWN POINT

The 80th annual Lake county [Ind.] fair opened at Crown Point yesterday with an estimated afternoon crowd of 15,000. The fair will continue thru Saturday.

On the fair grounds are 400 hogs, 300 cattle, 70 calves being exhibited by 4-H club members, 1,000 fowl, 100 draft horses and more than 100 show and race horses. They are to compete for handsome prizes in the various championship classes. Leading stock raisers from five central western states are among the exhibitors.

Pacing and trotting races are to be held each afternoon.

If you SNARLED At Breakfast This Morning

—your acid disposition may trace from too high a percentage of acid in the contents of your bladder. Such a condition can result from kidneys failing to eliminate at least 3 pints a day. As a result, the contents of your bladder, by being insufficiently diluted, can be so highly acid that they are torturing and irritating the sensitive bladder linings.

That can cause those "overwhelming urges" which ruin your sleep, itching, burning passages. It can also cause pains in back, lower abdomen and legs. If sleepy-eyed from disturbed slumber, jittery from discomforts, your outburst at breakfast can be explained.

If you don't eliminate 3 pints a day, if "overwhelming urges" ruin your sleep, if other discomforts also indicate possible excess acidity in the bladder contents—

Make amends to those whom your irritability wounded this morning by starting to take FOLEY PILLS at once! They stimulate kidney elimination and thereby help dilute the over-acid contents of the bladder, help relieve irritations of the bladder linings from excess acidity. Quick results—quick comfort—quick satisfaction or your money back. At your druggist.

WOMAN WRITES LIFE'S BALANCE SHEET, THEN DIES

A strange balance sheet of a woman's life was found yesterday in Mrs. Elizabeth Taylor's room at 2017 Cleveland avenue after her death in County hospital from what the coroner's office believed to be an overdose of sleeping tablets.

"Here am I," it began, "a woman of 41. But first, what am I?"

Neatly typed, then, were these assets: "Long line of forebears, noted for loyalty, clever diplomacy, courage, ability to endure and survive suffering and hardships. An iron constitution. A brilliant mind." Against these, Mrs. Taylor, a widow, listed misfortunes and physical ailments as liabilities. Mrs. Taylor came here a year ago from South Dakota. She was taken to the hospital after being found unconscious in her room.

Chicago Efficiency Experts Reported to Be Aiding Knox

Representatives of the Chicago business survey firm of Booz, Fry, Allen, and Hamilton are in Washington, D. C., it was learned yesterday, and are reported to be assisting Secretary of the Navy Knox in increasing the efficiency of the navy department and in speeding the naval expansion program. Edwin G. Booz has an office a few doors from the office of Knox. Naval press attachés were unable to say whether the firm was being paid for its work.

CHICAGO HELD ELIGIBLE FOR DEFENSE PLANTS

Nearness to Canada Is No Barrier.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 13.—The proximity of Chicago to the Canadian border will not affect the city's eligibility for new defense plants for which it is in the running, Col. H. K. Rutherford, of the army ordnance department, said today.

Col. H. K. Rutherford.

Col. Rutherford is a member of the army and navy munitions board and is in charge of the selection of new plant sites. In speaking of Chicago's eligibility Col. Rutherford denied reports that military men favored the Ohio river valley for new arms plants rather than the Chicago area because Chicago was too close to Canada.

"Other factors being equal, Chicago has as good a chance as any," Col. Rutherford said.

Won't Get Powder Plant.

He asserted, however, that powder plants would not be located in Chicago or any other city because of the danger involved in possible explosions. The Ohio river valley probably would be a better location for a plant of this type, it was said.

But where new defense plants require plenty of labor, adequate transportation facilities, and availability of materials and other manufactures, it was indicated that Chicago would be considered in the selection of new sites removed from the seaboard and the borders for strategic purposes.

Col. Rutherford explained that the policy will be not to have "too many eggs in one basket." Therefore, the policy will be for decentralization as far as possible, and will place many states in the running for new industries which the government will finance or at least allow corporations to write off the costs in determining tax liabilities.

Maps Area for Plants.

Last week, William S. Knudsen, production coördinator on the national defense advisory commission, disclosed that the army has charted a map of the area within which it prefers to locate new plants for production of aircraft, munitions, armament, and other products related to the nation's defense. It is understood that this eligible area is approximately 200 miles from the Canadian and Mexican borders and 250 miles from the eastern and western seaboards, making a huge rectangle protected by mountains to the east and west within which the new plants will be located.

Knudsen said, in testifying before a joint hearing of the house ways and means and senate finance committees, that for the present the commission and military departments are adding to existing facilities wherever they are located because of the need for haste. But when it comes to the question of entire new factories the new area only will be considered. The army is now surveying this rectangle to determine the best locations.

Up to Army and Navy.

The selection of sites will be determined by the army and navy munitions board subject to approval by the defense advisory commission.

Col. Rutherford was to have conferred today with a delegation of senators from the middle west and southwest interested in having plants located within their states, but he was forced to postpone the meeting because of matters which required his attention on Capitol hill. Fifteen senators from the inland states met yesterday with Knudsen, who expressed sympathy with their cause but said that it is mostly for the army to decide. The discussion centered principally on the location of a chain of munitions plants, costing about 700 million dollars. Senator Bennett Champ Clark [D., Mo.] has threatened to force allocation of revenues to be raised by the excess profits levy now under consideration unless some assurance is given that inland states will be awarded more of the defense contracts.

PUBLISHER UNIT WILL TRANSMIT CANADIAN TAX

New York, Aug. 13 (AP).—The American Newspaper Publishers association announced today it had received permission to act as transmitting agent to the Canadian government of the 10 per cent Canadian war revenue tax on newspapers.

Hitherto United States' newspapers here circulated in Canada with revenue stamps affixed to each copy, causing extra labor and delays in deliveries.

Hereafter the tax may be paid monthly by the newspapers thru and upon the recommendation of the American Newspaper Publishers association which will act regardless of whether the newspaper is a member of the organization.

BIDS FOR CONSTRUCTION — Constructing Quartermaster Office, Savanna Ordnance Depot, Proving Ground, Illinois—Sealed bids will be received here until 3:00 P. M. (CST) August 28, 1940, and then opened, for construction and completion of Two Deep Rock Wells. Deposit of certified check in amount of $10.00, payable to the Treasurer of the United States will be required for plans and specifications. Information above address.

Big Utilities Near Accord in Claim Fight

An early settlement of conflicting claims running into millions of dollars between the two top companies of the Midland United Utility system was indicated last night.

Daniel O. Hastings, special master in chancery who has been conducting hearings on the claims in Chicago since July 26, said that he was "hopeful" that a comprehensive plan for compromising the claims would be reached within 24 hours.

Hastings expressed his belief that a settlement would be reached after meeting with representatives of the various interested groups. He interrupted the regular hearings on the claims to call the special conference from which all except those with direct interest in the companies were excluded. The meeting would be resumed this morning.

Cause of Claims.

The claims arose as a result of dealings between the companies in 1930, 1931, and 1932 when one set of officers and directors served for both, which are big units in the one-time Insull public utility system.

Midland Utilities has filed against Midland United a claim for $24,807,263 in direct indebtedness and $48,742,703 representing the value of certain securities. Midland United in turn has filed exceptions and counterclaims of $24,943,173 against Midland Utilities.

Both entered bankruptcy proceedings in June, 1934, and the conflict has raged since that time, delaying reorganization. Other parts of the Insull system, meanwhile, long since have been reorganized. Agreement on the claims, it is believed, would pave the way for a reorganization of Midland Utilities in a short time, however.

Raid of Company Alleged.

Attorneys for Midland Utilities have charged that it was raided by Midland United in 1930, 1931, and 1932. In its exceptions, however, Midland United had declared that United "was from its inception the creature of Utilities" and that the directors managed the affairs of United for the benefit of Utilities.

Midland Utilities, formed in 1923 by Samuel Insull to integrate his various Indiana properties, is a holding company controling valuable operating properties. Midland United, ranking one step higher, was perched by Insull atop the Midland Utilities pyramid.

WEEK'S IMPORTS OF GOLD LOWEST SINCE FEBRUARY

Washington, D. C., Aug. 13 (AP).—Gold imports in the week ended Aug. 7 fell to $25,616,655, the lowest for any week since Feb. 28. Intensification of the German aerial attack on England was believed partially responsible for the drop. In the preceding week, shipments totaled $78,684,221, which also was far below the average since the war began.

Not many weeks ago, record receipts of more than $400,000,000 were reported. Virtually the only gold which came from Europe in the latest period was $2,506,715 from Portugal. Other large shipments were $11,556,593 from Canada, $1,908,366 from Mexico, $1,245,041 from the Philippine Islands, and $6,748,764 from South Africa.

The British apparently drew on gold already on deposit in federal reserve banks here. The total of such earmarked gold belonging to all foreign governments and central banks was reduced by $102,774,739 to $1,658,476,743.

Silver imports, also somewhat smaller than usual, amounted to $810,947, including $112,125 from Canada, $162,793 from Mexico and $471,612 from Japan. Silver exports amounted to $2,631: No gold was shipped out.

USE 'BLITZKRIEG' AGREEMENT IN SELLING STOCK

New York, Aug. 13 (AP).—A syndicate, in marketing today an offering ot securities of the Consolidated Gas, Electric Light & Power company of Baltimore, used what bond men called a "blitzkrieg formula" to protect the underwriters against a sudden change in the war situation.

The underwriters had authority from the Securities and Exchange commission to release the offering for public sale at any time after midnight. They had an agreement with the issuing company, however, permitting them to postpone the issue to 10 a. m., thus giving them opportunity to study overnight war developments.

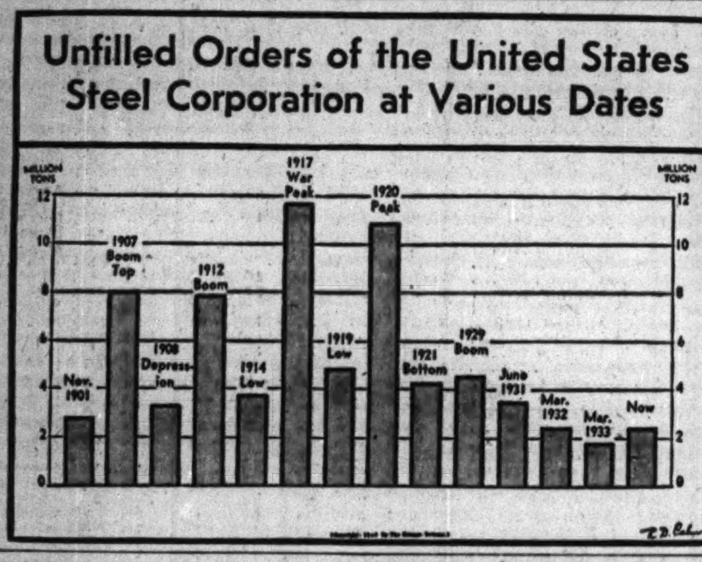
However, the banking group, headed by White, Weld & Co., went on with the offering and reported late in the afternoon a successful sale. The offering consisted of 68,928 shares of series C 4 per cent preferred stock at $104. The $7,000,000 in proceeds were intended to reimburse the company for capital outlays.

Tax Refund Is Granted Mrs. McCormick's Estate

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 13.—The bureau of internal revenue today granted a refund of $43,848 because of overpayment of estate taxes on the estate of Edith Rockefeller McCormick, Chicago. The Chicago Title and Trust company is executor of the estate. The bureau also announced an overassessment of $38,355 for 1936 in surtax on undistributed profits of the Cook County Mill and Lumber company, formerly the Chicago Mill and Lumber company. The amount was ordered abated.

BIDS FOR CONSTRUCTION — Constructing Quartermaster Office, Savanna Ordnance Depot, Proving Ground, Illinois—Sealed bids will be received here until 3:00 P. M. (CST) August 27, 1940, and then opened for construction and completion of a Typical Melt Loading Line, Group I. Deposit of certified check in amount of $50.00, payable to the Treasurer of the United States will be required for plans and specifications. Information above address.



House Passes Legislation to Control Trusts

Washington, D. C., Aug. 13 (AP).—The house completed congressional action today on legislation to bring the $5,000,000,000 investment trust industry under federal control. If President Roosevelt signs the measure it will become effective Nov. 1 except for companies selling face amount instalment certificates. They will come under the bill on Jan. 1.

The industry attacked the original legislation before the senate banking committee last spring, but soon afterward reached an agreement with the Securities and Exchange commission on a revised draft.

Liberalize "Waiting Period."

The commission and the industry also agreed upon an amendment to the securities act of 1933 to liberalize the "waiting period" for new securities by giving the SEC discretionary power to shorten the period between registration and issuance when certain conditions are met. This provision was attached as a rider to the investment bill. The normal waiting period is 20 days.

It was disclosed that the SEC, the Investment Bankers' Association of America, and the National Association of Securities Dealers, jointly sent a letter to the chairmen of the house and senate committees in charge of the bill, stating that the change in the waiting period is "experimental."

IBA and NASB representatives intend in January to make suggestions for further changes.

Act Requires Registration.

The legislation requires investment trusts to register with the SEC, disclosing their investment policies and their size. It prohibits an investment company from offering its securities publicly unless it is assured of raising at least $100,000 thru private subscription, limits intercompany and intracompany transactions and the types of securities to be issued, requires annual reports, establishes certain accounting practices, fixes minimum payments for periodic payment plans and provides for minimum capitalization of face amount certificate companies.

A second part of the bill requires investment advisers to register with the commission, prohibits basing payments for advisory services upon capital gains, and bars other practices.

Provisions of the bill are limited to companies engaged primarily in investing, reinvesting and trading in securities. Banks, insurance companies, brokers, and underwriters are exempt.

DOUGLAS AIRCRAFT CO. TO BUILD NEW PLANT COSTING 20 MILLIONS

Santa Monica, Cal., Aug. 13 [Special].—Plans for a $20,000,000 expansion to meet the national defense emergency were announced here today by Donald W. Douglas, president of the Douglas Aircraft company.

Construction of a big modern plant at Long Beach and immediate and extensive additions and improvements to the Santa Monica and Elsegundo divisions are included in the plans. The Long Beach unit will be erected on the 153 acre tract adjacent to the Long Beach municipal airport, a short distance from the other plants of the company.

Engineering plans and in many cases material requisitions have been worked out so that no time will be lost and the entire project will be set in motion as soon as contracts are signed. Large purchases of machinery have been made. Construction work on some units is under way.

At present the company has more than 18,000 employés and an annual pay roll in excess of $28,000,000. The proposed expansion, Douglas said, will more than double these figures.

MORTIMER FLYNN A BANKRUPT, COURT DECIDES

A hearing in Circuit court yesterday disclosed that Mortimer B. Flynn, former millionaire coal dealer, who sought the Republican nomination for mayor in 1935, had been adjudged a bankrupt with his wife, Grace, in federal court hearing in South Bend, Ind., Aug. 5.

The information was presented to Judge Philip Finnegan, who granted a petition filed by John H. Lyle, attorney for Flynn and his wife, staying further proceedings against them to collect a judgment for $62,987 obtained by a second cousin, Edward P. Malloy, under a trust agreement. The stay will be effective until the bankruptcy case at South Bend is completed. Malloy won judgment a year ago on an unpaid note.

In his bankruptcy petition Lynch listed himself as a salesman for the Walkonair corporation, 162 West Hubbard street, and said he had assets of $427.48, as against liabilities of $206,815. His wife listed her assets at $490 and her liabilities at $77,502. In addition to cash the only assets listed were nine sheep and four lambs.

Flynn, who now lives in Knox, Ind., held large contracts to supply coal to the city and schools under the administration of a former Republican mayor.

INTERNATIONAL PAPER EARNINGS SHARPLY HIGHER

Reserves Set Up for Excess Profits Tax.

Much larger earnings than a year ago for the quarter and six months ended June 30 were reported yesterday by International Paper and Power company and subsidiaries. The company's statement showed that special deductions amounting to $2,000,000 for reserves against the proposed excess profits tax had been made.

Profit for the June quarter, before the special deductions, was $5,938,859, equal after quarterly dividend requirements on the 5 per cent preferred, which is $12.50 a share in arrears, to $2.62 a share on the $15 par common stock. For the second quarter of 1939, when no special reserve was required, the company reported consolidated profit of $77,739, equal to 8 cents a share on the preferred.

Equals $1.52 on Common.

Net income after the special reserve was $3,938,859 for the June quarter, equal to $1.52 a common share.

Before the special deduction six month profit this year was $8,899,433, equal after preferred dividend requirements to $3.61 a common share. For the first half of last year the company reported profit of $90,167, equal to 9 cents a preferred share. After the 1940 special deductions half year profit was $6,899,433, or $2.51 a common share.

National Container corporation, maker of corrugated and solid fiber shipping containers, reported June quarter profit of $360,754, equal to $1.09 a common share. In the second quarter of last year profit was $36,871, or 11 cents a share. The earnings included the company's share in profits of an affiliate.

Thompson Products Gains.

Thompson Products, Inc., maker of valves, pistons and other products for the automobile industry, reported that its consolidated profit in the quarter ended with June was $525,734 after provision for federal income taxes.

Buick's President Promises More Power in 1941 Models

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Flint, Mich., Aug. 13 [Special].—More powerful engines and further development of the streamlining introduced in its "torpedo" models last year will feature Buick's 1941 automobiles, Harlow H. Curtice, president and general manager, disclosed here today at a preliminary showing of the new cars. Details will be made public in a few weeks.

Harlow H. Curtice.

Engine horse power will be increased in the "special" and "super" models, both of which formerly had 107 horse power. The 1941 special will have 115 horse power and the super model 125 horse power. Power in the three other higher priced models is increased from 145 to 165. Curtice said the 165 horse power is the greatest available in any standard production model.

Promises More Mileage.

The increased horse power is obtained without increasing the dimension of the engine parts. Altho the power is greater Curtice said the mileage per gallon of gasoline will be increased. Twin carburetion and improved combustion are responsible for the step up in power.

The 1941 Buicks will be brought out in five lines and 22 models. There will be more than 70 new features and changes thruout body and chassis design.

Curtice, who recently was made a vice president of the General Motors corporation, reviewed last year's results and looked into the future. For the 1940 model year just closing, he reported that Buick produced 283,204 cars, which set a new all time peak for the company by 35,000 units.

For 1941 Curtice predicts a 3,500,000 car year, with Buick's objective a minimum of 300,000 cars.

Cites Large Commitments.

"On top of plant expansion and retooling in preparation for 1941 production, we have committed for materials and supplies to the extent of $100,000,000 to meet requirements for the balance of this year," Curtice said. "Thus we have a large original investment in the 1941 automobile market.

"At the same time, I estimate that on the basis of our projected output of approximately 300,000 cars, Buick will spend during the 1941 model year more than $200,000,000 for materials and supplies, exclusive of machinery, tools, equipment and plant renewal, excluding also the millions we will disburse for pay rolls."

Curtice said that at the moment it does not appear that the national defense program, either in its demands upon production facilities or in the possible conscription of man power, will in any way hamper the industry's normal production of passenger cars and trucks for private use.

16,000 Cars This Month.

This month, he said, Buick will build 16,000 cars, an exceptional August output, and it has scheduled for the rest of the year a total of 130,000 units, exceeding last year by 20,000. This constitutes the heaviest manufacturing schedule ever started by the company.

W. F. Hufstader, general sales manager, said that despite the increase in business, Buick has not materially expanded the number of its dealers. The total now on the list is 2,849, compared with 2,821 a year ago. He estimated that dealers' net profits on the 1940 models showed a gain of 66 per cent over 1939, whereas unit sales increased 34 per cent.

STATE GAS, SALES TAX COLLECTIONS RISE 12 PER CENT

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 13 (AP).—An increase of nearly 12 per cent in combined sales and gasoline tax collections in Illinois during May, June, and July was attributed in part today to an unusually heavy influx of spring and summer tourists. Revenue from the two tax sources, state treasury records revealed, was $3,881,067 larger than in the corresponding months of 1939.

Fuel tax collections for the 1940 period were $12,390,882, compared with $11,319,116 for 1939. Sales tax receipts increased from $22,025,401 to $24,834,702.

A report from George H. Luker, superintendent of parks, said that "an increase of 25 per cent or more has been noted so far in attendance at state parks and memorials."

A newspaper and magazine advertising campaign begun early this year, stressing the agricultural, industrial, and recreational advantages of the state, was given much credit for the increase.

PLAN WIDER USE OF F. O. B. BIDS IN DEFENSE ORDERS

Washington D. C., Aug. 13 (AP).—National defense commission officials said today a modification of regulations on defense purchases to allow wider use of bidding on an f. o. b. basis would be promulgated shortly.

F. o. b. orders on defense contracts are now "few and far between," officials said, but plans under way to accept more on that basis would allow a much wider distribution of orders under the defense program, and would be of special benefit to middle west industrial centers.

Details of the program will be announced within a few days, officials said.

FIERCER FIGHT RISES ON RULE OF TRANSPORT

Three Groups Differ on Control Plans.

Controversy between transportation groups which has raged since the introduction of the so-called omnibus transportation bill early in the present session of congress has developed new intensity as a result of house approval of the act, a survey indicated yesterday.

Each of the three groups principally affected by the legislation—railways, railway labor, and the water carriers—has adopted an individual stand. In addition, differences of opinion have developed within each group until now, as the bill nears the senate, a free for all battle on the act is predicted in the upper chamber.

E. M. Durham Jr. (left), Edward Flynn (center), and Charles M. Thomson, railroad executives, give views on transport plan.

Government Control Sought.

In its original form, the bill was designed to give the government stronger control of the nation's transportation system, according to its sponsors, by bringing the waterways under supervision of the Interstate Commerce commission. Opposition developed and a "log rolling" campaign involving trading of amendments developed.

Chicago, railway center and important waterway terminal, is one of the cities in which the controversy has been strong, transportation men said. Chicago railroad officials summed up their opinion of the bill as "a step in the right direction—but a weak step."

Waterway operators charge the bill "arms the railroads with a club to beat the water carriers to death," and the railway unions have expressed dissatisfaction over the provisions made for labor in cases of reorganization.

Objections of Railroads.

Railroads contemplating reorganization or pooling of traffic have indorsed the measure, but the officials said they believed the labor provision was "a little stiff, but better than it could have been." Other roads objected to the provision ex-

Stocks, Bonds

New York Stocks.

New York, Aug. 13 (AP).—Stock market leaders suffered their severest break in nearly three months today as fresh war fears gripped Wall street's speculative forces. Selling waves in the forenoon expanded volume substantially from recent creeping sessions and losses ranged from 1 to more than 5 points for leading industrials. The pace slowed after midday as attempts at recovery were made. Final prices were a shade above the lows in most instances.

The Associated Press average of 60 issues dropped 1.3 points to 41.7, biggest decline for a single day since May 21. Breadth of the setback was shown by the fact that 773 individual stock issues were traded against 564 yesterday. Transfers of 641,350 shares were the second largest since June 28.

European dispatches emphasizing intensification of the air battle over England indicated to financial observers that the zero hour for the British may be at hand. Fears that the long threatened invasion could not be withstood, brokers said, caused numerous traders to unload or lighten commitments. In view of the "thinness" of the market, and the withdrawing of many bids, quotations wilted quickly.

There was plenty of good business news, and hopes industry would be spurred by growing defense spending still were high, but all of this was insufficient to offset nervousness inspired by overseas developments.

Prominent losers were United States Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Montgomery Ward, Sears-Roebuck, Douglas Aircraft, Glenn Martin, United Aircraft, Westinghouse, Allied Chemical, Eastman Kodak, Du Pont, American Smelting, International Paper common and preferred, Loft, Great Northern, J. C. Penney, and American Telephone.

Rails, oils, utilities, and rubbers were subjected to less pressure than other groups.

New York Bonds.

New York, Aug. 13 (AP).—Rail and foreign dollar bonds broke sharply today in the worst setback in three months. Bond traders followed the selling which hit stocks when the financial district became uneasy over the big German air attacks on England.

Many corporate issues lost 1 to more than 3 points.

British empire issues were conspicuous losers. Australia 5s lost 2½ and Queensland 7s dropped 2. Down a point or more were Canada 5s, Australia 4½s and New South Wales 5s. Japan 6½s yielded 1¼.

Domestic utility and industrial issues held better than rails but moderate losses ruled in these groups, too.

Losses in United States treasury securities ranged from 1-32ds to 11-32ds point. Transactions increased to $5,107,950, face value, from $2,723,500 yesterday.

Chicago Stocks.

Stocks on the Chicago exchange yesterday abandoned their sluggish pace and were forced downward in trading volume far above the recent average. On a turnover of 23,000 shares, more than twice that of Monday, 72 issues declined, 15 advanced, and 20 were unchanged.

Bank Stocks.

First National shares declined 4 points yesterday as the Chicago bank stock market took a downward trend. Continental Illinois dipped 2½ points, Harris Trust 2 and Chicago Title 1. City National gained a point, and American National and Northern Trust were unchanged.

Prices of gasoline will be reduced 1 cent a gallon in Minnesota Sept. 1 when the state emergency tax expires the Standard Oil company has announced.

Commodities

Commodities prices swung lower yesterday, when traders learned that the German attack on Britain had started in earnest.

Turnover in raw hide futures reached the largest volume in several weeks as prices dropped about ½ cent a pound. Sales aggregated 14,680,000 pounds. The September option finished at 8.41 cents, less than 1/10 cent above the low for the year.

Industrial war materials—copper, tin, and rubber—fell under the wave of selling altho one position of the rubber future advanced. World sugar futures continued to open new record low territory while the domestic futures sank to new seasonal lows. Coffee and cottonseed oil futures sold at the lowest prices of the year.

Copper futures declined 0.11 to 0.15 cent a pound in moderate trading, September finishing at 9.32 cents. Domestic stocks of copper, which have increased consistently since the start of the year, climbed to 215,823 tons at the end of July, a gain of 16,237 tons from the end of the preceding month, the Copper institute said.

Tin sales in the futures market aggregated 22,400 pounds and prices declined 0.075 to 0.20 cent a pound, October finishing at 50.20 cents bid. Lead futures closed unchanged on sales aggregating 240,000 pounds. There were no sales of zinc futures.

Rubber futures ended 0.22 cent a pound lower to 0.05 cent higher with the final bid on rubber for deliveries in September at 19.35 cents.

Weakness in other markets introduced new liquidation in sugar futures, the September delivery under the world contract slipping to 0.67 cents a pound, the lowest price in the history of the contract.

AIRPLANE PLANT CAPACITY SOON TO BE DOUBLED

Indicate Still Greater Expansion Needed.

New York, Aug. 13 (AP).—The American aircraft industry by Oct. 15 will have doubled its workroom capacity in the 15½ months since June 30, 1939, a recapitulation of present and planned construction showed tonight.

What that will mean in terms of warplanes to be produced under the government's rearmament program will depend on the types of planes ordered and the flow of the orders themselves.

Figures obtained at the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce, however, indicated that not more than a 30 per cent increase in the factory floor space available in October for plane production [exclusive of engines and propellers] will be necessary to meet army and navy demands for new planes under the program projected by the national defense advisory committee to July 1, 1942.

19,000 for Army, 4,000 for Navy.

That program contemplates the delivery of 19,000-odd planes to the army air corps and 4,000 to the navy by that date.

Large scale production of warplanes still awaits the ironing out of contract difficulties between the government and the manufacturers.

On June 30, 1939, factories producing aircraft, engines and propellers had a floor area of 9,370,000 square feet. In 12 months that was increased to 13,817,000 square feet, and buildings now under construction or contracted for will boost the figure to 18,641,000 square feet by mid-October.

A boost of 87 per cent in the airplane factory floor space—from 7,000,000 to 13,120,000 square feet—is contemplated in the 15½ months; one of 131 per cent in engine plants—from 2,000,000 to 4,632,000 square feet—and one of 140 per cent in propeller plants, from 370,000 to 889,000 square feet.

Employés Increase to 121,000.

In the six months between Jan. 1, 1940, and June 30, supervisory and shop employés in the entire industry increased from 75,000 to 121,000. The plant expansion cost covering buildings, tools and other equipment has been about $85,000,000.

Another significant development in recent months, the increased amount of business going to subcontractors of the industry, probably will have a pronounced effect on production. The subcontracting of parts such as landing gears, tail surfaces, and engine mounts has jumped from 4 per cent of the gross dollar output a year ago to 12 per cent at present.

That automatically expands the amount of floor space available for fabricating the larger parts of the planes.

Rock Island Asks Bids on Equipment Trust Issue

The Rock Island railroad yesterday called for bids Aug. 20 on $2,472,000 of 1 to 10 year equipment trust certificates bearing interest at 2 per cent. Proceeds will be used to pay 80 per cent of the cost of 1,100 freight cars.

ARMY AWARDS 12 MILLION MORE IN NEW ORDERS

Fargo Motor Obtains Large Contract.

The war department in Washington yesterday announced the awarding of contracts totaling $12,269,427, with the major part going to the Fargo Motor corporation, Detroit, in a $10,518,435 truck order. The American Locomotive company, New York, received another contract for $1,132,200 for artillery carriages.

Other contracts included Lansdowne Steel and Iron company, Morton, Pa., forgings, $133,518; General Electric company, federal and marine department, Schenectady, N. Y., ordnance equipment, $201,090, and S. B. Mark Company, Inc., New York, cleaning and preserving material, $115,240.

Navy Awards Contracts.

The navy awarded a $546,298 contract for landing field paving at the Seattle, Wash., naval air station to Warren Northwest, Inc., Portland, Ore. Other incidental work also was awarded the company to bring the estimated amount involved to $600,298.

A contract has been signed with the United States Steel corporation for $1,000,000 of rail for tracks in northern Brazil and with Union Switch & Signal company for $800,000 of block signals and other control devices for use on the Central Railroad of Brazil, according to Maj. Napoleao de Alencastro Guimaraes, chief of staff of Brazil's ministry of communications and public works.

Supplements 1939 Orders.

"That equipment," Maj. Guimaraes said, "provided the transportation needed for our manganese. We now can furnish all the United States can use. All the United States needs is the notion of buying. I have asked for orders in this country. We have five export points with a capacity of a million tons a year."

YORK SALES INCREASE.

Sales of the York Ice Machinery corporation in the nine months ended June 30 aggregated $8,589,596, compared with $7,876,752 in the corresponding period last year, S. E. Lauer, president, said yesterday. The company booked $12,560,931 of orders in the period, a gain of 10 per cent over the bookings a year ago, which totaled $11,396,429.

DELAY DEFENSE TAX BILL, TRADE GROUP ADVISES

Further Study Is Needed, Congressmen Hear.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 13 (AP).—An official of the chamber of commerce of the United States urged congress today to delay enacting an excess profits tax, and a representative of the National Association of Manufacturers favored a "carefully drawn" tax of that type as a temporary, "emergency measure."

Ellsworth C. Alvord.

Ellsworth C. Alvord of Washington, chairman of the chamber's federal finance committee, recomemded that congress pass, separately from the tax, legislation permitting defense contractors to deduct from their taxable income the full cost of new plant installations.

Meanwhile, Alvord argued, the pending 25 to 40 per cent excess profits tax, with which plant amortization is joined, could be subjected to "simplification and improvement." This, he said, was more essential than speed.

Asks Tax This Year.

Carl N. Osborne, vice president of the M. A. Hanna company, Cleveland, and vice chairman of the manufacturers' government finance committee, came out for an excess profits tax applicable to this year's earnings. He said, however, that the tax should not be made permanent because it involves "inequities."

Both Alvord and Osborne testified at a joint hearing of the senate finance and house ways and means committees on a proposal by the house tax subcommittee to enact an excess profits levy, provide defense plant amortization, and repeal the Vinson-Trammell act's 8 and 7 per cent limits on the profits from warships and military aircraft.

Both objected to details of the proposed profits tax and Alvord, unlike Osborne, declared that the levy should not in any case apply to this year's income.

Reports Bill Nearly Ready.

Despite objections raised by various interests to the excess profits proposal, Chairman Robert L. Doughton [D., N. C.] predicted to reporters that a measure along the lines laid out by the subcommittee would be ready for the house by next week. Doughton said that bill drafters were having some difficulties in wording the complicated tax bill but forecast that they soon would have completed their job.

Another National Association of Manufacturers' witness, H. E. Howell, controler of the General Fire Extinguisher company, Providence, R. I., urged that if delays were encountered on the excess profits tax, "a sound amortization provision should be considered the first order of business."

Alvord's plea for deferring the excess profits levy brought quick comment from committee members that Secretary of War Henry Stimson and Defense Commissioner William S. Knudsen had said immediate action on the tax was desired by manufacturers so they might know their tax liabilities.

Declares Plan Complex.

Asserting that this "certainly is a desirable objective," Alvord raised the question whether taxpayers would know where they stood even after the tax were enacted. He declared that the subcommittee proposal was "complex and almost wholly without precedent" and "may require hundreds of computations with frequently recurring changes and variations."

Representative Jerry Voorhis [D., Cal.] urged that after amortization is completed the plants so amortized should belong to the United States when corporations borrow the plant expansion money from the federal government.

TRUCK MERGER MAY INVOLVE 30 MILLION IN STOCK

Washington, D. C., Aug. 13 [Special].—An estimate that stock issues of 28 to 30 million dollars, with a charge of nearly 4 million dollars for underwriters would be involved in the projected merger of eastern trucking lines into the Transport company was presented today by James H. Arnold of the investment banking house of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., before J. Edgar Davey, chief of the finance division of the Interstate Commerce commission's bureau of motor carriers.

Arnold estimated that the securities issues would run from 11 to 13 million dollars of preferred stock and possibly 17 to 19 million dollars of common stock.

He also stated that Kuhn, Loeb & Co. already had spent $1,250,000 for incidental expenses, in connection with this merger, which the firm stands to lose if it is not approved by the commission. He defended the estimated 4 million charge as a safety margin.

Army Engineers Get Two Bids on Dredging Project

Two bids were submitted yesterday to the United States army engineer's office for a dredging job in the Calumet river in South Chicago. The Fitzsimons & Connell Dredge and Dock company offered to do the work for $58,028. The Great Lakes Dredge & Dock company asked $60,182. Army engineers said that the dredging is a routine project designed to maintain a 21 foot depth in the river. Work will start in about three weeks and last about six weeks, they said.

MILWAUKEE RAILROAD AND C. & E. I. REDUCE NET LOSSES FOR JUNE

The Milwaukee railroad yesterday reported a net loss for June of $1,927,336, compared with one of $2,315,077 a year ago. In the first half of 1940, the road reduced its net loss to $8,296,588 from $11,298,024 a year ago.

The Chicago and Eastern Illinois cut its June net loss to $155,707, from $226,299 last year. For the six month period it had a net loss of $994,747, compared with a net loss of $1,035,369 in the 1939 period.

SHIP OPERATORS GUARD AGAINST LAKE SABOTAGE

Canada Aids in Dock, Vessel Protection.

Cleveland, O., Aug. 13 (AP).—The Lake Carriers' association, an organization of vessel men operating Great Lakes bulk freighters, announced today strict regulations for the protection of vessels, docks, and canals to prevent sabotage during the present defense program.

The regulations have been concurred in by Canadian shippers, the coast guard, and war and navy departments, it was announced.

The rules provide for thoro inspection and search for "dangerous materials" before loading cargoes, after clearing docks and before passage thru the important Sault Ste. Marie locks—connecting link between the ore docks of Lake Superior and steel mills along Lake Michigan and Lake Erie.

Welland Canal Included.

The regulations also include the Welland canal connecting Lakes Erie and Ontario.

When the inspection is made before approaching a canal, the ship is to fly a special yellow flag with a black ball in the center. Ships not showing the flag will be detained for inspection before being allowed to enter the canal.

Officers and crew members must have signed passes to leave or return to vessels while in port.

List Additional Regulations.

Other requirements are:

Examination of all parcels and baggage coming aboard ship; assigning of a licensed officer on the deck of every vessel passing thru the Welland canal whose sole duty should be preventing unauthorized interference with the vessel; exclusion from the vicinity of steering engines while passing thru narrow channels of all persons not connected with their operation; prohibition of other than bona fide supply boats from coming alongside docks or vessels in port, and guarding of all entrances to docks.

SECRET PROBE IN UTILITY SLUSH FUND CASE ASKED

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 13 (AP).—Steps to guard the secrecy of a federal grand jury investigation of alleged political "slush fund" activities of utility companies were taken here today by O. John Rogge, assistant United States attorney general in charge of the inquiry.

Rogge, after his arrival from St. Louis to confer with United States Attorney Howard L. Doyle, announced he would ask the district court to enter an order banning publication of the testimony of witnesses subpenaed before the special grand jury impaneled yesterday.

Doyle said a petition for the court order probably would be filed before Judge Charles G. Briggle next Monday. Presentation of evidence to the grand jury will not begin until Aug. 26.

The companies to be investigated included the Illinois Iowa Power company, Union Electric Company of Missouri, and Missouri Power and Light company, all subsidiaries of the North American holding company system.

PLANES TO SPEED TOUR FOR ENGINE LABORATORY SITE

Airplanes will be used to speed the inspection trip of governmental officials who will arrive in Chicago tomorrow to start looking over possible sites for the proposed $8,400,000 federal aircraft engine research laboratory, the Chicago Association of Commerce said yesterday.

The association said the party will arrive in the afternoon by American Airlines plane, inspect Chicago airport, fly via United Air Lines plane to Glenview, Ill., to inspect Curtiss field, and return to Chicago.

On Friday the party will fly to South Bend, Ind., returning to Chicago Saturday morning, when it will start by private planes for St. Charles, Ill., and Aurora. From Aurora the group will return to Chicago by auto for the week-end. Next week private planes will be used for trips to Joliet and Lockport, Ill. A visit to Rockford next Tuesday will conclude the inspections in this area.

Expect 3,000 to Attend Milwaukee Road Reunion

Nearly 3,000 railroad men, both active and retired, will attend the Milwaukee Road Veteran Employés association reunion today and tomorrow in the Hotel Sherman. All in attendance will have had from 25 to 60 years service with the road. These include C. J. Cawley, agent at Pipestone, Minn., since 1879, and the only agent the road has ever had there. A band of railroad employés from Milwaukee will be at the Union station today to serenade the incoming delegates.

FIERCER FIGHT DEVELOPS OVER TRANSPORT RULE

Three Main Groups Differ on Control Plans.

empting water carriers from regulation in the transportation of commodities in bulk, including liquid cargo in tank vessels not in competition with land transportation.

Another cause of complaint by the water carriers was elimination of the Wadsworth amendment which provided for rate reductions if they gave compensatory returns to the carrier. This handcuffs the waterways, they contend, and will make it possible for the railroads to obtain much of their business.

Differs on Compensation.

In one form the bill provided unlimited compensation for railroad employés ousted by reorganizations and consolidations, but in other forms the amendments provided no compensation until the present four year limit was inserted.

The powerful brotherhoods of railroad employés split on the issue with some advocating passage of the bill in any form and others insisting on the compensation, meantime hurling charges they had been "double-crossed" by the railroads.

Hubert F. Miller, head of the Chicago office of the Mississippi Valley association, said the water carriers' objections to removal of the Wadsworth rate reduction amendment would be heard in the senate, and added:

"The major purpose of this bill, it seems, is to arm the railroads with a club over the waterways. Nevertheless, there'll be a stiff fight in the senate before the bill passes in this shape."

Expects Little Benefit.

"This bill is now in anything but its original form. I don't think it will be of any great benefit to the railroads."

"The bill leaves untouched a number of important problems of the railroads that require legislation for their correction," E. M. Durham Jr., chief executive officer of the Rock Island Lines, said. "The need of the railroads for legislative relief was recognized in the appointment by the President of the committee of six, but this bill fails by a wide margin to provide the relief that the committee found the railroads needed.

"Instead, certain provisions that were added to the bill will impose additional burdens on the railroads by reducing their revenues and increasing their operating expenses."

View of Rail Trustee.

Charles M. Thomson, trustee of the Chicago and North Western, said:

"The transportation bill in its present form, while far from meeting the legislative needs of the railroads, is a step in the right direction. In general, its benefits to transportation as a whole outweigh objectionable features of the bill.

"Certainly extending the regulation of the I. C. C. to the waterways system, insofar as this bill goes, represents the beginning of a sound method of regulation and coördination of the nation's great transportation factors."

C. J. Whipple, president of Hibbard, Spencer, Bartlett & Co., and transportation vice president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, said the committee would probably meet in a week to consider the bill.

C. T. O'Neil, president of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois, agreed the legislation was a step in the right direction but said it was not a solution to the railroad problem "by any means."

Main points of the transportation bill as passed by the house Monday follow:

[1] The I. C. C. would be given general regulatory authority over interstate water transportation, including coastal traffic, as well as traffic on the inland waters and Great Lakes.

Could Pool Traffic.

[2] Carriers rather than the I. C. C would be permitted to propose consolidations and pool their traffic.

[3] Reduced rates on government traffic, other than military or naval personnel or property, carried by railroads which have received land grants would be abolished.

[4] Workers whose jobs would be eliminated by consolidations and reorganizations would be compensated for a period up to four years.

[5] The I. C. C. would have authority to fix both maximum and minimum rates for rail and water common carriers and to establish differentials between the two types.

[6] The Reconstruction Finance corporation would be empowered to make loans to railroads for reorganizations, consolidations, construction, or maintenance when it finds that financing is not available.

Court Upholds FTC Order Against General Motors

New York, Aug. 13 [Special].—The federal trade commission's order directing General Motors corporation and two of its subsidiaries to cease advertising that finance charges on purchases of General Motors cars amounted to only 6 per cent, was upheld today by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. The court sustained the commission's findings that the charges amounted to about 11 per cent at simple interest.

Plane Propellers Firm Is Organized in Chicago

A new organization, Aircrafts Products corporation, has been formed to manufacture wooden airplane propellers it was announced yesterday. The company will occupy one floor of a building at 1725 Diversey parkway according to S. H. Gensburg, one of the founders.

COTTON

Weakness in securities and commodity markets led to increased selling of cotton futures and prices at one time showed a loss of 0.12 cent a pound. Scattered liquidation developed in October, but the market rallied from the low point on short covering and buying by mills. Closing sales were .05 to .10 cent a pound lower.

The carryover of "free" cotton at the end of the 1939-'40 season is estimated by the New York Cotton exchange service at 1,924,000 bales. This, with the new crop of 11,429,000 bales, is expected to be sufficient to take care of world's consumptive demand. Domestic consumption during 1940-'41 is estimated at about 7,000,000 bales.

Spot cotton closed .05 to .14 cent lower, with New Orleans 9.90 cents, New York 9.84 cents, Houston 9.15 cents, and Galveston at 9.10 cents a pound. Prices follow:

FORECASTS VAST GAIN IN ILLINOIS WATER TRAFFIC

6 Months' Coal Shipments Top All of 1939.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 13 (AP).—Carter Jenkins, chief state waterways engineer, today predicted that freight traffic on Illinois water lanes this year will exceed 8,000,000 tons, or 2,000,000 more than last year. Jenkins said coal traffic for the first six months of 1940 had exceeded that for all of 1939.

Total barge tonnage for the first half of 1940 was 1,550,505, compared with 1,061,406 for the 1939 period, he reported.

Many Commodities Carried.

Commodities shipped on Illinois waterways, other than coal, include sulphur, molasses, oil, gasoline, building materials, structural steel, lumber, paper and grain.

"Most of the coal now being carried up the river originates in Illinois mines," Jenkins said. "Several of the loading points, such as Liverpool and Oglesby, have materially increased their facilities. Consuming companies, such as the Commonwealth Edison company of Chicago, have increased their purchases of Illinois coal during the year."

Newsprint Traffic Gains.

Jenkins said that newsprint traffic increased, purchases made in southern states being delivered in many cases by barge.

Upstream tonnages for the first six months of the year, with figures for the first half of 1939 in parentheses: Coal, 840,734 [596,773]; petroleum products, 96,700 [38,870]; grain, 205,270 [171,996]; other commodities, 259,743 [160,310].

Fifteen Steel Barges Ordered.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 13 (AP).—The Inland Waterways corporation today awarded a $939,900 contract to the American Bridge company, Pittsburgh, Pa., for construction of 15 steel barges. Chester C. Thompson, president of the government owned barge line, said the contract was part of a program to modernize its equipment. First of the barges was set for delivery at Cairo, Ill., in 150 days.

ILLINOIS CRUDE OIL PRODUCTION LOWER FOR WEEK

Crude oil production in Illinois declined last week and the national average also was smaller than in the preceding week, the Oil and Gas Journal reported yesterday.

Illinois output decreased 13,095 barrels a day to a daily average of 395,450 barrels, but the state nevertheless moved back up to third rank, displacing Oklahoma. Production in Oklahoma fell 22,425 barrels a day to an average of 391,425.

The journal estimated the national average at 3,492,081 barrels daily, a decline of 2,136. Reports to the American Petroleum Institute indicated that last week's refinery operations were at a daily rate of 78.9 per cent of capacity, compared with a daily average of 80.9 per cent in the preceding week.

Day by Day on the Farm
By HOMER C. WEISZ

Hope for Drouth's End.

August 13, 1940.

MORE light showers yesterday stopped oat harvesting at the Du Page county farm and gave workers renewed hope that the end of the long summer drouth may be near. Crops still are badly in need of a soaking rain. There has not been one since the first week in July.

Only about three acres of oats were left in the field when the rain made the straw too tough to thresh at noon yesterday. The straw baling crew that works back of the combine had six acres of straw left in the field. It will be baled after it dries. The men say it takes a lot of rain to damage oat straw that has been spread out on the stubble by the combine.

Corn Outlook Gloomy.

Showers at intervals for the last week have brought slight relief to pastures, but have done little to change the gloomy outlook for a corn crop. The corn has stopped firing, but has made little growth. The manager doubts if much of it would make even a fair yield with plenty of rain from now on. He thinks growth of the plants has been checked too long.

The benefits of fertile soil, good seed bed preparation, and clean cultivation are evident in corn fields all over the drier areas of the corn belt this summer. Corn on the better lands that was planted in good seed beds and kept free from weeds and grass has made considerable growth despite the drouth, while that on thin soil or in weedy fields has suffered severely.

It is not uncommon to see wide variations in the growth of corn within the same field. Stalks on the richer spots may have a healthy color and be developing fair sized ears, while those near them on lighter soil are badly stunted. Some corn tasseled when not much more than knee high, and the stalks have no ears on them. Wherever corn has had to compete with weeds and grass for the meager supply of moisture the corn usually has been the loser.

Crop Good Last Year.

All this is in sharp contrast to the uniformly good fields of corn last year when there was plenty of moisture during the growing season. Good soil and good farming practices made a difference then, too, but the contrast was not nearly so spectacular as it is this year.

Workers plan to start making silage today from second cutting alfalfa. The alfalfa is riper than they like it for silage, but they delayed cutting it in order to finish harvesting oats. This will be the first time that second cutting alfalfa has been made into silage at the farm. It is not likely that there will be enough of the alfalfa to fill the silo. Soy beans may be used later in the summer to finish filling it.

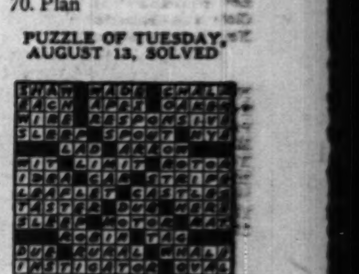
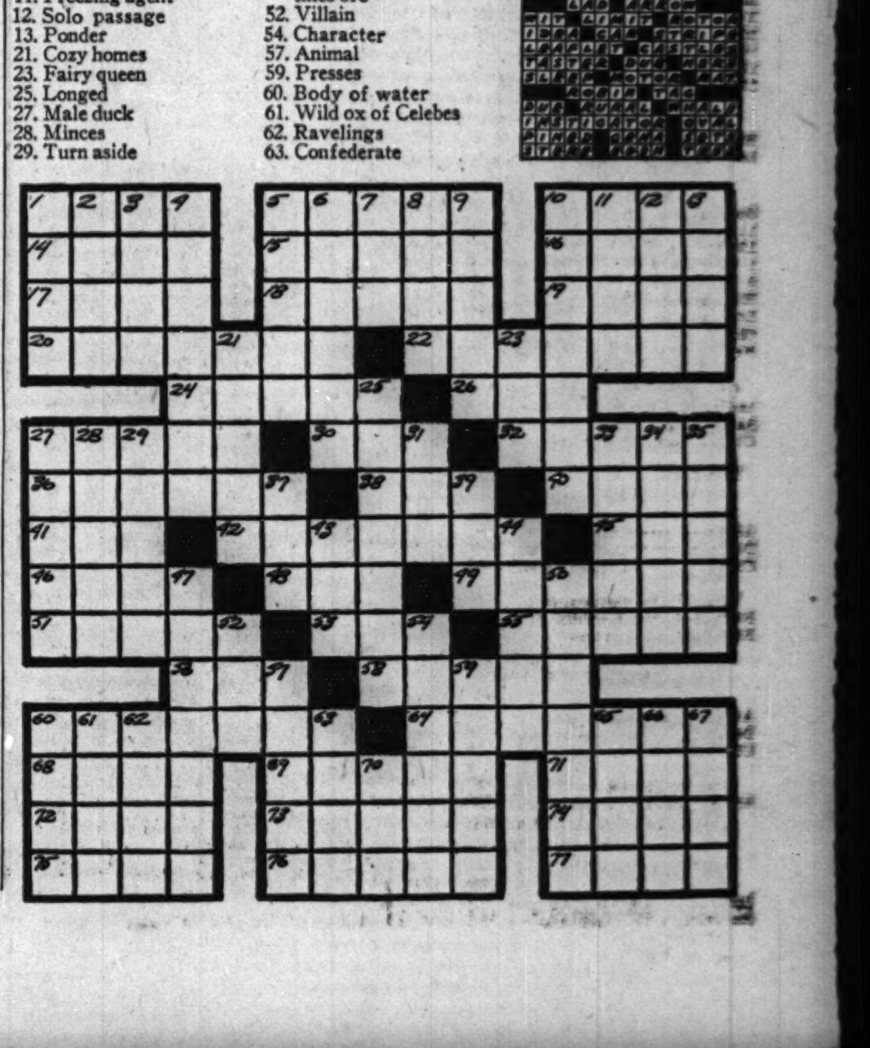
PUZZLE OF TUESDAY, AUGUST 13, SOLVED





VOTE CANADIAN PACIFIC SENIOR STOCK DIVIDEND

First on Preference Issue Since April, 1938.

The Canadian Pacific Railway company yesterday declared its first dividend in more than two years. A payment of 2 per cent on preference stock of £1 par value, for the year 1940 will be made on Oct. 1 to shareholders of record Sept. 2. The distribution is subject to approval of the Canadian government foreign exchange control board. The company last disbursed 2 per cent on April 1, 1938. Dividends on the ordinary stock have not been paid since 1932.

Clark Equipment company manufacturer of axle housings, transmissions and other automotive products, authorized a common dividend of 75 cents, payable on Sept. 16 to shareholders of record Aug. 29. Previous to the 75 cents distributed in June, quarterly payments usually were 25 cents.

Shareholder's Suit Dismissed.

The chancery court at Wilmington, Del., dismissed a suit which sought to enjoin the White Sewing Machine corporation from payment of dividends on its prior preference stock until unpaid accumulations were cleared on the old preference.

The ruling opens the way for the payment of three dividends of 50 cents each, already authorized but not distributed. No date has been set for the payment.

The suit was brought by a shareholder who contended that any payment to holders of prior preference without a corresponding payment on account of arrears on the old preferred stock constituted "destruction of his property interest." The complaining shareholder has six months in which to appeal the court decision.

DOLLARS ABROAD.

Answer: United States investments in foreign countries at the end of 1939 amounted to $11,365,000,000, according to an estimate by the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce. This compared with $11,759,000,000 at the end of 1938.

The share of American industry in this total investment outside the country totaled $6,985,000,000, consisting of such direct participation in foreign enterprises as the ownership or control of factories, distributing branches, mines, public utilities and other properties.

Foreign securities, mainly in the form of dollar bonds, held by American investors amounted to $3,785,000,000 in face value, or $2,608,000,000 at market value. Banking and other short term assets held abroad for American companies or individuals totaled $595,000,000.

Investments of $3,781,000,000 in Canada and Newfoundland, and $4,134,000,000 in Latin America together represented more than two-thirds of the total foreign assets held in the United States at the end of 1939. Holdings in Europe were $2,278,000,000 or 20 per cent of the total.

FEDERAL MOTOR.

What type of trucks is made by Federal Motor Truck? Where is its factory? Does it have stock outstanding?—P. W.

Answer: Federal Motor Truck company makes trucks with capacities from ¾ ton to 8 tons, and buses. Its plant is situated in Detroit, Mich.

Reduced sales caused operations to drop below the profit level in 1938 and 1939. Net income, earnings per share and dividends per share in recent years follow:

1935	$144,296	$0.29	$0.20

WHEAT FUTURES DIP 2 CENTS TO SEASONAL LOW

War News Stimulates Heavy Selling.

Heavy liquidation and general selling appeared in the grain market yesterday with wheat breaking 2 cents at one time to new seasonal low prices. All deliveries of oats also went into new seasonal low ground. Lard declined about 35 cents to a new low since December, 1933, the September delivery selling as low as $4.62½ per 100 pounds.

Brokers attributed the break to weakness in securities, intensification of the German attack on England, and a semiofficial Canadian estimate which placed the wheat crop in three western provinces at 467 million bushels, or about 65 million bushels in excess of recent trade estimates.

Short Covering Causes Rally.

September wheat sold as low as 72¼ cents, but buying by mills and short covering stimulated a rally of about 1 cent from the early low. At the close wheat's losses ranged from ¾ to 1 cent.

Cash and commission houses and local traders were fairly aggressive buyers of corn despite more favorable crop comments. Prices held within a range of about ½ cent with the close unchanged to ¼ cent higher. Oats finished ⅝ cent lower to ⅛ cent higher, the former on September. Rye was ¾ to 1 cent lower and soy beans ¼ to ⅜ cent lower.

Fear Effect of War.

Fears that the "Battle of England" is finally under way had a far reaching effect on trader's sentiment, brokers said. They observed that the United Kingdom is about the only European outlet remaining for surplus North American grain and hog products. It was estimated that England contracted for 20 million pounds of American lard during July.

Minneapolis interests were credited with selling wheat futures on the Chicago Board of Trade, presumably in hedging. It was also said that elevator interests in the northwest are attempting to dispose of part of their holdings of "free" wheat in an effort to make room for grain coming into terminals to be stored for government loans.

Textile Minimum Pay Fight Carried to Supreme Court

Washington, D. C., Aug. 13 (AP).—The Supreme court was asked today to pass on the constitutionality of an order issued by the federal wages-hour administration fixing a minimum wage of 32½ cents an hour for textile workers. The Opp Cotton Mills, Inc., of Opp, Ala., and other concerns sought a review of a decision by the federal Circuit court at New Orleans sustaining the wage order.

LEGAL NOTICES.

NOTICE OF PROPOSED CHANGE IN RATES

PUBLIC NOTICE.

To the Patrons of the Illinois Bell Telephone Company:

The Illinois Bell Telephone Company hereby gives notice to the public that it has filed with the Illinois Commerce Commission revised tariff sheets to its Burnham and Chicago Local Exchange Tariffs and Message Toll Telephone Service Tariff. These revisions will change the rates for telephone messages between Burnham, Illinois, and Hegewisch Area, Chicago, Illinois, and Burnham, Illinois, and South Chicago Area, Chicago, Illinois. A new base rate area boundary has been filed for the Burnham Exchange and a provision to revise the method of computing extra exchange line mileage from the most direct street distance to air-line mileage distance. The changes will involve both increases and decreases in rates.

Copies of the proposed tariff sheets affecting Burnham subscribers may be inspected by any interested party at the business office of this Company located at 421 Fayette Street, Hammond, Indiana. Copies of the proposed tariff sheets affecting Chicago subscribers may be inspected by any interested party at any Chicago business office of this Company.

All parties interested in this proceeding may obtain information as to time and place of hearing upon this matter by addressing the Secretary of the Illinois Commerce Commission at Springfield, Illinois.

Personal Loans
On Your Own Signature

Here salaried men and women (single or married) can get $25 to $250 or more entirely on earning capacity and personal responsibility. We prefer to make these loans the way most people like—without security—without endorsers.

NO WAGE ASSIGNMENTS.

Simply do this:
1. Make application. [Can be in person or by phone.]
2. Come in, sign, and get the cash.

Pick Your Own Payments.

Take a year, or more, to repay. You know best how much you can afford each month—so pick the payment which best fits your income.

PRIVACY.

We keep the entire transaction strictly between us. Your employer, friends or relatives are not told.

SIMPLE TO GET.

Our loans are made on the simple basis of your ability to make small, regular payments. If you think you can, you should not hesitate to see us for a loan at once. Come in or phone.

Nazi Raiders Strike at Widespread Area Over Britain—Wheeler Calls Conscription the Doom of Democracy
